San Francisco, Cal., Apr. 27—Russia scored one victory, sustained one defeat, and accepted a compromise in a third controversy in the first business session today of the international conference to abolish war. These were the outstanding developments:

1. RUSSIA'S VICTORY: The delegates voted unanimously to grant Russia three votes in the conference, as a consequence of which action Russia will have three votes in the general assembly of the new league of nations to enforce peace. The British empire will have six votes, the United States one.

2. RUSSIA'S DEFEAT: The steering committee rejected Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov's motion to invite to the conference the puppet Polish government set up by the soviet union originally at Lublin. The conference adopted a resolution of "sympathy and admiration" for the Poles, expressing the hope that they would form a government recognized by the powers sponsoring the conference and take part therein as soon as possible.

Represent Big Four

3. RUSSIA'S COMPROMISE: The conference adopted Molotov's proposal of four presidents of the conference, representing the Big Four powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China—Molotov having agreed that the four presidents should delegate their powers to State Secretary Stettinius to conduct the business of the conclave. Stettinius also was chosen chairman of the steering committee and of the executive committee.

As a result of the allowance of three votes to Russia the White Russian and the Ukrainian republics are invited to send delegates to the conference in addition to the delegation headed by Molotov representing the soviet union. Russian Premier Stalin had asked for representation for these two republics on the ground that they are autonomous and that they have borne the brunt of the fighting on the eastern front.

Molotov said yesterday, however, that the three votes asked by Russia are "a minimum" intimating that Russia desires eventually a vote in the peace league for each of the 16 soviet republics.

Support Under Duress

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and some other members of the American delegation supported Russia's demand for three votes under duress, having been persuaded that the delegation was obligated to carry out the promise the late Mr. Roosevelt made to Stalin at the Yalta conference. The Americans had hoped secretly that Molotov would not press the demand and thereby deliver them from their predicament and that in any event the small nations would defeat the proposition.

The deal to allow Russia the three votes had been made in advance and Stettinius had taken Sen. Van-

U.S. 7th Army Races 26 Miles from Munich

PARIS, April 28 [Saturday] (AP)—American tank columns invaded Austria yesterday, advanced 26 miles west of the Nazi citadel of Munich, and crashed into the western end of Hitler's Alpine redoubt. Gen. Patton's 3d army, plowing unopposed into Austria, made radio contact with Russian southern armies less than 85 miles to the southeast.

The allies headed for a junction—just as the allies met south of Berlin—and a field dispatch said it was expected shortly, shearing Czechoslovakia's arsenals from Hitler's Alpine redoubt.

Austria, Hitler's native land and seventh nation of Europe to echo to the tramp of the allies of the west, was invaded by the 3d army at 6 p. m. Thursday without firing a shot.

Cross North of Passau

American tanks roared east and crossed into Austria 21 miles northeast of Passau at the hamlet of Lackenharser, two miles south of the junction of the Czech-Austrian frontiers.

Thru the field radio the Americans heard a Russian, with Marshal Tolbukhin's 2d Ukrainian army pounding westward thru the Danube valley, call:

"This the the Red army. This is the Red army calling the American army. We are now seeking to establish radio contact."

A Russian colonel liberated by the 11th armored only the day before picked up a transmitter and replied: "Acknowledging your message. The Americans now are in radio contact with you."

Hold Up Artillery Fire.

Significantly, unobserved artillery fire was forbidden these American spearheads snaking thru the forested, snow-laced Baravian foothills lest they hit a Russian.

Seventy-five miles to the west of this field of operations the 3d army completed the destruction of the Danube river line by seizing Regensburg and Ingolstadt, twin strongholds 35 miles apart on the stream north of Munich. The 65th infantry division captured Regensburg with surprising ease.

Thirty-five miles farther southwest, the 86th infantry division, having knocked out Ingolstadt, pounded on two miles south to within 38 miles of Munich. The 14th armored division surged up to the Danube on a 10 mile front east of Ingolstadt.

Racing Down to Munich

Two armored divisions of Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army raced toward Munich, birthplace of nazism and now its northernmost citadel.

The 10th armored division sent one column spearing 28 miles east into Landsberg, only 26 miles west of Munich. Another column raced 14 miles straight south into the Bavarian alps, driving 10 miles or so into what is probably Hitler's inner fortress, and reached Kempten, 11 miles from the Austrian frontier. This push threatened to cut in behind any Germans in the redoubt concentrated around the area of Lake Constance, some 30 miles to the west.

The 12th armored division was racing east close on the north flank of the 10th armored division and, after hurdling the Wuertach river, was about 30 miles from Munich.

Augsburg Offers to Yield

Augsburg, Bavaria's third city [population 185,704] 32 miles northwest of Munich, was about to fall to the 7th army. When American columns roared up six miles from the city they were met by emissaries ready to surrender the city.

They were told to return, remove mines and roadblocks and disarm the nazi garrison, and were warned the city would be razed by artillery if American troops were fired upon.

The French 1st army stormed thru weak defenses and captured Constance, on the lake of the same name. There was no fighting inside the city itself.

REPORT ITALIANS SEIZE MUSSOLINI

Captured Seeking to Enter Redoubt

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, April 27—Benito Mussolini was seized by Italian Partisans this morning at Nesso on the eastern bank of Lake Como while speeding in his auto toward his Alpine redoubt, Valterina, according to information from Italy.

With him were Count Roberto Farinacci and two of his former ministers, Allesandro Pavolini and Guido Buffarini-Guido. The latter, his former home minister, was chief of the former duce's private police. All were back in the Lombardy capital tonight in custody of the Partisans.

Swiss Turn Back Wif

At the same time, the neo-fascist mayor of Como, also a war criminal, and responsible for the horrors at the Como prison, was caught after fighting in the environs of the town. Heavy cannonading from the south was heard thruout Thursday night in Chiasso.

Donna Mussolini, wife of the deposed dictator, today was refused admission to Switzerland.

Anti-fascists, according to dispatches received here, swept the entire Lombardy area today. Heaviest action centered about the fascist redoubt of Valterina. It apparently was lost by its Italian and German defenders. The Nazi troops guarding it held out temporarily at the entrance to the Alpine valley above which it is situated.

Revolts in Cities

But they were caught in a pincers when Partisan troops rushed from the plains while other units of the loyal Italian forces advanced from the mountains.

Revolts occurred in several cities of the area, including Como and Brescia. All guerrilla forces in the Lake Como region gathered Thursday and occupied Valsolda.

BYRD, CAPEHART FLYING TO COAST FROM CAPITAL

San Francisco, Cal., April 27 [Special]—Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] and Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] are flying from Washington, D. C., to the international security conference, it was learned here today. They are due to arrive tomorrow. It is expected that both Byrd and Capehart will make a plea to the United States delegation to take a strong American attitude at the conference.

Hear Nazis Want to Quit, but Only to U.S., Britain

[Copyright: 1945: By the New York Times]

Washington, D. C., April 27—Reports current here—reports that are more numerous and more authoritative than have previously been heard in this capital—indicated tonight that Nazi Germany had made known a willingness to surrender unconditionally to the United States and Britain, but not to the soviet union, and that the western allies have told the negotiators that they will accept "only for all."

The reports stirred belief here that a formal admission of defeat from Germany was imminent. This information is not made public officially. It is not possible to reveal sources, but it may be stated that the reports came from several responsible sources, all of which were in substantial agreement on the general outline of what purportedly has taken place.

Hitler's Not in It

This is what is reported to have taken place within the last few days:

A group of highly placed Nazis, acting without the authority of Hitler but with the backing of the German high command, has let Washington and London know that Germany is willing to accept the "unconditional surrender" terms set forth by the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

This step was taken as a result of a realization by part of the Nazi hierarchy, with the exception of Hitler, that the Reich is beaten beyond all hope. They see their country being ground into dust, their men—and even their women and children — killed, and they know that, unless they stop the destruction and the bloodshed by their surrender, there can be no hope for Germany for generations to come.

The group that has instigated the peace proposals is said to be capable of acting for Germany.

The move means a wholesale split in the Nazi hierarchy, for some of the party fanatics still follow the Hitlerian line. Hitler would play no part in any negotiations that might develop.

The only string the Nazi negotiators seek to attach to their offer, according to the reports, is that Russia be excluded from the negotiations.

The United States and Britain are reported to have responded to this by [A] telling the Nazis they will act "only for all," and [B] immediately telling the Russians what had taken place.

All information pertaining to the reported Nazi peace offer is said to be fully known to the foreign secretaries of the Big Three, now meeting in San Francisco.

See Effect on Japs

It could not be authoritatively established whether the offer had been received in time for Commissar Molotov to discuss it personally with President Truman when he was in Washington last Sunday and Monday.

The offer is said to be considerably more than a mere "feeler" from the Nazi negotiators. Some sources stated that the discussions have gone so far as to take up consideration of specific conditions, such as how surrender of the 150,000 German troops in Norway and the laying down of arms by German garrisons trapped in various pockets are to be arranged.

A German surrender, many responsible sources in the capital believe, would have a tremendous effect on Japan's future military policies. In some quarters, it has been suggested that Japan, realizing her situation is as hopeless ultimately as that which Germany faces now, is looking for a way to surrender without "losing face."

LAST DEFENSES OF BERLIN CRACKING; HOW YANKS LINKED WITH RUSSIANS

Allied Armies Join; Split Reich; Eyewitness Stories

PARIS, April 27 (AP)—American and Russian armies have met in the heart of Hitler's reich, cutting Germany in two in one of modern history's most dramatic moments.

It was the junction of the men of Gen. Eisenhower and the men of Marshal Stalin, and except for the fanaticism of die hard Nazis it might have ended the worst war the world has ever known.

While the fight may rage on thru bitter weeks, the complete dismemberment of Germany carried the allies to the door of sure and imminent victory.

Supreme headquarters, officially pessimistic, says organized warfare can last for several months. Front line commanders believe all will be over in a matter of weeks.

Generals Meet to Discuss Repatriations

At 4 p. m. Thursday the commanding generals of the American and Russian divisions met at Torgau to make the junction official, to discuss the repatriation of freed prisoners of war and the problems of tracking down and destroying the Nazis in their last retreats.

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, Kansas born commander of the American 5th corps, clasped hands with a Russian major general who presented Huebner with a battle stained red silk flag that flew over Stalingrad thruout the bitter battle there. The Russian also, taking off his own decorations, pinned them on Huebner's blouse, making him an honorary member of the Russian guards. The American general gave the soviet commander three bottles of American whisky. Then toasts were proposed in vodka.

Texan Leads "Task Force" to Junction

Col. C. M. Adams, Hazleton, Pa., commanding the 273d regiment, said the first American patrol to join with Red army patrols was part of a 28 man "task force" led by Lt. Albert L. Kotzehue, Houston, Tex.

"He and his men met, less than four miles west of Riesa, Cossack foot infantry at 1:32 p. m. Wednesday," Adams said. "A patrol of 31 men led by Maj. Fred W. Craig, Friendship, Tenn., made contact with Cossack horse mounted infantry five miles northwest of Riesa at 3:45 p. m. A third patrol of three men led by Lt. William D. Robertson, Los Angeles, Cal., contacted the Russians at Torgau on the Elbe river to the north at 4:40 p. m."

LONDON, April 28 [Saturday]—(AP)—Russian armies, conquering three-fourths of dying Berlin and seizing its last airdrome, left the German capital to storm troopers yesterday and struck west in twin offensives toward a second linkup with American forces and the isolation of Germany's last Baltic ports.

Berlin was a wildness of crumbled stone and steel swept by flame-tinged winds, and the its defenders resisted fanatically in a vain struggle, its inner and outer defenses were cracking fast.

Potsdam, cradle of Prussianism on the city's southwestern limits, fell and with it went the western suburb of Spandau and the city districts of Schmargendorf, Steglitz, Neukoelln and Tempelhof. The Tempelhof airdrome was overrun.

Nazis Admit Situation Critical.

German broadcasts admitted that the situation was "critical" as the soviets battered out advances of a mile and more around the blasted inner core of the capital.

Premier Stalin, in one of four orders of the day, announced that Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army had captured Rathenow, 33 miles west of Berlin, in a drive that by-passed Brandenburg.

Zhukov's sweep, in a 22 mile advance from Nauen, carried the Russians within 13 miles of the 9th army standing on the Elbe at Tangermuende. The Germans said small forces of the 9th army had crossed the river. Additionally, it deepened the band of steel around encircled Berlin and virtually wiped out any Nazi hopes of sending reenforcements into the city.

Brandenburg Under Assault.

Brandenburg, 16 miles southeast of Rathenow, was under assault from hundreds of Red army tanks and artillery guns, the Germans said.

Stalin also revealed that Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian army, which took part in the American-Russian meeting on the Elbe river at Torgau, had captured Wittenberg, on the Elbe's east bank 26 miles northwest of Torgau.

This indicated that Russian and American patrols may be meeting along a 50 mile front extending from Wittenberg southwest to Riesa. At any rate, Konev's troops at Wittenberg were only 17 miles east of other 1st army positions at Dessau.

Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army at the same time was striking out on a 63 mile front across the plains of Mecklenburg province below the Baltic coast north of Berlin, sweeping westward toward Rostock and Hamburg.

Gain 13 Miles.

With the apparent intention of cleaning out northern Germany in conjunction with the western allies, Rokossovsky's army advanced up to 13 miles while Red air force bombers blasted the Baltic seaports of Swinemuende and Greifswald, apparently the next Red army objectives.

On the rail line linking these two ports with Berlin, the 2d White Russians captured the communications center of Prenzlau, 47 miles north of Berlin, in a 10 mile surge from the Randow canal. Twenty-one miles to the south, they also swept up the rail center of Angermuende, where they were 16 miles northeast of a junction with Zhukov's troops storming the approaches to Eberswalde.

Behind Russian Lines

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY BEHIND RUSSIAN LINES, April 26 [Delayed]—As the first allied war correspondent to cross the Elbe lines and go behind Russian lines, I can report accurately that the Russians were extremely hospitable and most desirous of maintaining amicable relations.

Last night's venture behind Russian lines was accomplished with Lt. William D. Robertson, Los Angeles, Cal., who had made the original contact at Torgau, and a party in a number of other jeeps. It was made by driving more than 25 miles thru No Man's land.

Hospitality Formidable

Once over the swift Elbe with Yanks of the 69th division who had first contacted the Russians, the Americans found themselves up against the most formidable hospitality. Draining a full glass of vodka at breakfast—a breakfast of sardines, sauerkraut, and pressed pork—seemed the routine to the young Slavs.

Among those to whom the hospitality was offered was Sgt. Davis T. Colin, 5454 Cornell av., Chicago, who had been captured in Italy and freed from a camp near here.

This incredible and at times fantastic adventure had its beginning when Lt. Robertson and his three jeep mates met the Russians yesterday afternoon [Wednesday].

Travel No Man's Land

The meeting brought the Americans to the eastern bank, and resulted in a Russian major, a captain, a lieutenant, and a sergeant of infantry coming back with Robertson to his 273d regimental commander, Col. C. A. Adams of Hazleton, Pa., and later to Maj. Gen. E. F. Reinhardt, commanding the 69th division. The Russians and a party led by Col. Adams, riding in 13 jeeps, started back for the Elbe last night.

Under a bright moon the group moved slowly thru No Man's Land, sleeping villages, forests, and bare fields. There were no shots.

Once the colonel and nine jeeps were lost. The other jeeps halted while a scout car overtook the colonel's party, which had taken the wrong road at a fork.

Those who waited warmed out

'Put It There'

WITH THE U. S. 69TH INFANTRY DIVISION, April 25 [12 Midnight, Delayed]—(AP)—An American infantry officer and a Russian private squirmed across a girder of a blown bridge in the Elbe river today, pounded each other on the back and shook hands to seal a historic meeting of Gen. Hodges' American 1st army with Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian army group.

Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt

"Put it there," were the first words Lt. William D. Robertson, Los Angeles, called to his Red army friend in the bizarre meeting at 4:40 p. m. over the waters of the Elbe at Torgau, 28 miles northeast of Leipzig.

It was one of at least three contacts with the Russians made by men of the 69th division, which is commanded by Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt, Detroit, Mich.

Brings Back Proof

The first patrol to meet the Russians was led by Lt. Albert L. Kotzebue, Houston, Tex., but Lt. Robertson was the first to bring back proof of a meeting to his division headquarters. The proof was a Russian major, captain, lieutenant, and a sergeant.

"This is a great day on the meeting of two nations," said Maj. Anaphim Larionov of Konev's 58th guards division. "We extend warmest greetings and congratulations on the destruction of nazilism. We hope this meeting will be the basis for peace in the world to come."

Capt. Vassili Petrov Nedov added: "We have wanted to meet you for a long time. This is a great holiday for the whole world."

This linkup with the Russians was one of the strangest stories of the entire war.

Lt. Robertson's Story

This was the story as told by Lt. Robertson:

"Our company commander sent us out this morning [10 a. m., April 25] to chase civilians off the roads. They were piling into Wuertzen in droves, running away from the Russians.

"You have no idea of the number

Malinovsky, Tolbukhin Get Highest Red Honor

LONDON, April 27 [Reuters]—Marshal Rodion Malinovsky and Feodor Tolbukhin have been awarded the order of victory, Moscow radio announced today. This diamond studded insignia is the highest military decoration the soviet union can bestow.

were 86 miles southeast of Rostock and were driving toward the big cities of Neubrandenburg and Neustrelitz, 29 and 31 miles to the west.

North of captured Stettin, the soviets swept up the west bank of the Oder river mouth and captured Hammer, 22 air line miles across the Stettinerhaff from the port of Swinemuende.

WOMEN FIGHT REDS

MOSCOW, April 27 (AP)—Special Nazi brigades of women snipers late today took up rifles against Red columns smashing into the center of Berlin.

In the burning wasteland that is Berlin there are other scenes of direct contrast. Long lines of civilians stand gazing hopefully into empty shop windows amid famine conditions. Food is running low. Sometimes the hungry civilians break into stores, but find nothing.

The front correspondent of Red Fleet said three soviet soldiers were killed at one point by the specially recruited snipers. Breaking into a house whence the shots were fired other troops were met by three women who offered them flowers and candy. Searching the house the Russians found rifles and three machine guns. The women admitted they were snipers, the correspondent said.

Old Men Hide Guns

Elderly men also were found hiding machine guns which they had been using against soviet rear guards. These oldsters also were serving as artillery spotters for the German army, but none wore uniforms.

Dense clouds of rolling black smoke envelop Berlin and hardly a house stands intact. For 14 days no newspapers have appeared.

Red flags of the soviet union fly from many buildings. Many are torn from bullets fired by Nazis. From other buildings hang white flags. Some have been strung up by German civilians anxious to surrender. Bursts of machine gun fire beat against the armored sides of Red army tanks.

Soviet correspondents say the capital is unrecognizable while two great streams of people are seen on the streets. One stream goes into the capital, the other comes out. "The ones from Berlin are liberated people; on the other side of the road are Germans—pale, grim, frightened, and silent—returning to the city."

Battle Rises to Attics

"The struggle is mounting high above ground—in corridors and on staircases and even in attics," said the Red Star correspondent. "Now fighting has broken out afresh underground—in the concrete cellars, tunnels, and stations of the Berlin subway."

An Izvestia correspondent asked a commander on one street: "Why do we go forward without cleaning all blocks?"

"It is a difficult situation," the commander replied. "It is not difficult to blow up those upper floors. I have the ammunition and the explosives, but I also have information that the Germans are holding hostages there. We can't destroy our own people—there are Ukrainians and White Russians there."

REPORT U. S. BID FOR STUTTGART; SEE SHOWDOWN

PARIS, April 27 (AP)—The whole question of France's role in the post-war occupation of Germany probably will be brought to a head by the reported American request that the French withdraw their military government from Stuttgart, responsible diplomatic quarters said tonight.

Supreme allied headquarters declined any comment on War Minister Andre Diethelm's statement to the French council of ministers that the United States army had asked officially to take over the military government of Stuttgart. The council expressed its opposition to the change.

The French government maintained an official silence beyond announcing what Diethelm told the council, but both surprise and irritation were obvious in official quarters. The French failed to understand the reason for the request regarding Stuttgart. Government circles said they have not been informed who signed the order nor has its motive been explained. French 1st army troops occupied Stuttgart a little over a week ago.

ARGENTINA BAGS EX-OFFICERS ON REVOLT CHARGE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 27 (AP)—Several retired army officers, including Gen. Adolfo Espindola, have been arrested on charges of plotting a revolt against the Argentine government, it was announced today.

A special bulletin said there was ample evidence that the leaders planned to assassinate officials of President Edelmiro Farrell's administration and to eliminate all army officers who refused to participate in the coup.

The fall of Berlin was to be the signal for the revolt, the bulletin said.

GERMANS TREAT YANKS AS ALLIES AGAINST REDS

Even Americans Are Confused on Elbe

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY, Germany, April 27—An American patrol today entered a certain town east of the Elbe river, apparently with the Kremlin's permission—without which it seems United States armies may not penetrate beyond the river—and negotiated surrender of a German garrison of 500. They disarmed the Germans and formed them in lines to march to the river when an SS. column, fully equipped with machine guns, bazookas and a few light artillery pieces, moved into the town.

The situation looked grim for the handful of Yanks, but the American lieutenant commanding parleyed with the SS officer so successfully that the Nazi leader agreed not to interfere with the American patrol nor its 500 prisoners on condition that the Yanks make a promise not to impede the SS column's movements nor fire on them.

"Not Looking for Trouble"

"We are going to the north a certain distance to counter-attack the Russians," the SS officer explained, "but we are not looking for any trouble with you."

Farther to the north the Germans released 754 American prisoners and marched them under a protecting guard toward the Elbe to permit them to cross to the United States lines.

"America and Russia have broken off relations, and the United States and Germany are allying to fight the bolsheviks," a German captain explained.

Sgt. Maj. Robert Rager, Blairsville, Pa., a member of the 805th tank destroyer battalion which was captured at Kasserine pass, Tunisia, in February, 1943, reached the Elbe, yelled to the G. I. sentinel opposite and was rowed across.

"The German officers and soldiers seemed to believe that we have broken with the Russians and have lined up with the krauts, and the civilians certainly thought so, because I learned German during my captivity and they told me," Rager said.

Civilians Aid Americans

"We Americans began to believe it too because we never saw an American airplane and haven't heard any bombing for several weeks. More than 500 American prisoners dropped out during a circuitous march of a hundred miles from bad feet and sickness, but the German civilians took care of them and invited them to their homes.

"Two hundred reached a point a few miles from the Elbe, and a German captain said that an American patrol had arranged to meet him there and take delivery of the prisoners. When the Americans failed to appear he asked me to go to the river bank and ascertain the cause of the delay. I walked to the river, found no Americans on the east bank and walked back to tell the captain, but found that he and the 200 Americans had gone and that an armed SS detachment was there instead. They gave me some food and marched away, so I returned to the river and the Yanks rowed over and ferried me across. With us also was Sgt. Clyde Bennett, Pittsburgh, Pa."

CHICAGO YANK HAS UNFINISHED BUSINESS WITH EX-CHICAGO NAZI

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

EICHSTAETT, Germany, April 27—Staff Sgt. Thomas E. Manly, 5517 Sangamon st., Chicago, newly released from the German prison camp here, today told of meeting an SS [elite guard] sergeant, also from Chicago. Manly now is looking forward to another meeting with this fellow townsman. Manly explained:

"On our arrival at the prison camp here I was put in a small room, and about a half hour later an SS sergeant walked in and said, 'So you are from the gangster town? So am I.'

"I did not answer, and he continued, 'Are the joints still open on 22d st? I lived in Chicago for 10 years. My wife is from Nebraska, and I have two children born in Chicago.'

"I still did not say anything. Then he began to ask me about the radio code in my tank. I refused to tell him anything.

"'So you will not talk, huh?' he said. 'We got ways to make you talk, ways that will not scar your body.'

"With that he socked me in the belly with his fist. I guess I passed out for a minute. When I came to he was standing over me. He walked out, saying that he was going to return to show me some other methods that would make me talk.

"Before he returned the Germans started abandoning camp."

FREE 3,000 YANKS SOUTH OF BERLIN, EX-CAPTIVE SAYS

WITH U. S. AND RUSSIAN TROOPS ON THE ELBE, April 27 (AP)—Russian troops have liberated 18,000 allied prisoners of war, 3,000 of them Americans, from the Luchenwald prison camp south of Berlin.

Corp. Darrel Durfey, of Portland, Ore., who was liberated from the camp, brought the story thru the Russian lines. He had been captured by the Germans Feb. 17, 1943, when they broke thru the lines of the 34th and 168th divisions in the battle of Faid pass, Tunisia.

"The Germans treated me O. K.," Durfey said, "but they gave many of the boys some brutal treatment. There were men taken prisoner in the big German drive last December who were stripped of their shoes and marched barefoot thru the snow. Some had to have amputations."

HIMMLER HAS 20 DIVISIONS IN HIS REDOUBT, REPORT

ON THE GERMAN-SWISS FRONTIER, April 27 (AP)—Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, organizing the southern German redoubt for a last Nazi stand, has succeeded in jamming the Alpine retreat with the best of the wehrmacht's surviving legions and a heavy stock of armaments, reports reaching here said.

Himmler expects to have at least 30 divisions—300,000 to 450,000 men—available. Nearly 20 divisions already are in the redoubt, the reports said. Ten of these are classed as SS [Elite Guard] troops and the others are wehrmacht units. The Germans also expect to rescue four or five divisions from Italy and the rest of the planned reënforcements are expected to fall back from the north.

The armaments available are described as including important quantities of field and mountain artillery and plenty of ammunition.

U. S. FIFTH ARMY ENTERS GENOA, ITALIAN PORT

ROME, April 27 (AP)—American 5th army troops smashed into the port of Genoa today, allied headquarters announced, as the "Free Milan" radio said German commanders were trying to negotiate a general surrender in Italy.

Headquarters did not confirm the surrender, but conceded that American and other allied armored columns driving toward the Alps were meeting only "generally weak and disorganized" resistance. Both the 5th army and the British 8th army crossed the Adige river at "many points," the war bulletin said.

A task force consisting of American 473d and 442d infantry and elements of the 92d infantry division made the Genoa entry.

Partisans Seize Most of City

"Italian partisans had previously captured a large part of the city and facilitated the entry of our troops into the city," headquarters reported. "The condition of the port has not been determined yet."

The allied command said nothing of reported new gains toward Milan, where the partisan radio said the Germans and fascists had been ousted. All villages of Como province near the Swiss frontier also were reported in Italian patriot hands. The partisans also were said to be seizing control of Lombardy, Piedmonte and Liguria.

Drive Over Riviera Border

French forces from the Riviera joined in the squeeze on the harassed enemy, driving across the border into northwestern Italy and reaching the Tenda pass, 62 miles south of Turin. The French press agency said that the Alps maritime department of France had been "completely liberated."

Headquarters disclosed that Ranger Col. Bill Darby of Fort Smith, Ark., led a task force of the 10th mountain division which in a speedy forced march Wednesday surprised the enemy at Villafranca and captured an airport before the Germans were able to destroy it.

BRITISH SEIZE 16 U-BOATS AT BREMEN DOCKS

BREMEN, Germany, April 27 (AP)—Two generals, complete with staffs, and a vice admiral, 16 submarines, and a destroyer were captured today by British troops mopping up Bremen. Gen. Becker, operations commander of the Bremen area, and Maj. Gen. Werner Siber, garrison commander, were the generals. Siber's threatened "last stand" at Burger park collapsed before combined flame thrower, tank, and infantry attack.

Bremen now is clear except for some docks and submarine pens. The rest of Germany's second port—a shattered, burned out shell of a city—now is firmly controled by three British divisions. The big slips where the famous ships Bremen and Europa docked are in British hands.

PETAIN JAILED; ASKS FOR PHOTO OF DE GAULLE

100 Guards Posted at Old Paris Fortress

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 27—White haired Marshal Petain, leader of German occupied France, slept tonight in grim Montrouge fortress on the southern outskirts of Paris guarded by about 100 French republican guards and gendarmes who rigorously kept back curious onlookers.

Petain and his wife occupy two rooms on the ground floor, formerly the noncommissioned officers' quarters, which had been prepared for them. Madame Petain insisted on remaining with her husband.

From his room Petain can see the hilly background outside the fort, where in recent weeks collaborators condemned by the Paris purge courts have been shot.

Secrecy Clamped Down

The greatest secrecy has been clamped down on the old marshal's arrival in Paris, and no one has been allowed to get near him since he crossed the French frontier. The trial date has not been announced.

The Petain affair has stirred French opinion to the depths, and promises to become one of the greatest legal battles in French history.

According to the French news agency, Petain's arrival in France precedes by only a few days the return of his political adversaries, Leon Blum, Edouard Daladier, Paul Reynaud, Edouard Herriot, and Gen. Maurice Gamelin, who were reported in Paris today to be in Switzerland.

The old marshal looked pretty good when he arrived in Paris by special train at 6:30 this morning. He was calm and erect despite his 89 years. But he was pale.

Petain wore a civilian suit, and at his side was his wife, wearing black clothes.

The first thing Petain asked for on reaching prison was a picture of Gen. De Gaulle to pin on the wall of his room, the French ministry of information said. Petain is godfather of De Gaulle's son, and De Gaulle served under him in the same regiment early in World War I.

Petain reached Paris on the eve of the local elections. Last night at a Socialist political meeting in Paris Mme. Marcelle Belle, 55 year old manager of a printing establishment, made a speech in favor of Petain. She was arrested, the official French news agency said.

Report Sweden Decides Not to Attack Nazis Now

STOCKHOLM Sweden, April 27 (AP)—The Swedish parliament, meeting in secret session today to discuss the question of intervention in Norway, decided to accept the government's policy of "watchful waiting" rather than commit Sweden to armed action at present, responsible sources said tonight. Sweden is reported hopeful that German troops in Norway and Denmark will surrender peacefully.

The Metalizing Engineering company, 433 E. Erie st., reported to police yesterday that tools and gears in shipment, valued at $300, had been stolen from the company's loading dock.

GOERING FLEES BY AIR WITH 20 MILLION IN LOOT, SAY REDS

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—A German announcement that Reichsmarshal Goering had resigned as chief of the German air force because of "an acute heart condition" was followed today by a Moscow report that he had fled by air to an unknown destination.

The report asserted the man who once boasted that the allies could never bomb Berlin took with him his wife and loot valued at $20,000,000. The Russians said the Germans doubtless had proclaimed Goering's resignation to hide the fact of his sudden disappearance.

The radio announcement said he had been replaced by Gen. Ritter Von Grein, who was promoted to field marshal.

Japs Within 65 Miles of U. S. Base at Chihkiang

CHUNGKING, China, April 27 (AP)—Forward elements of Japanese pushing toward the American air base at Chihkiang were reported by an army spokesman today to be within 65 miles of their objective. Chihkiang is 250 miles southeast of Chungking. The Japanese are using a stretch of the Hunan-Kwanksi railroad between Hengyang and Kweilin, both formerly American bases.

$40 SPORTS COAT STOLEN

Peter Zukovsky, 2144 Concord pl., reported to police yesterday that a sports coat valued at $40 had been stolen from his automobile parked at Delaware pl., and Michigan av.

BRITISH MAKE NEW GAINS ON WAY TO RANGOON

CALCUTTA, India, April 27 (AP)—British tank columns dashing southward from Toungoo along the 150 mile road to the port of Rangoon made "considerable progress" today as American and British planes ranging ahead raked southern Burma and set scores of fires amid Japanese installations.

Hundreds of allied planes struck thruout southern Burma, ordered to "fire on anything moving." Two trains in the Rangoon area exploded under their fire.

FIND FRIENDSHIP A HAZARD WHEN VODKA FLOWS

Yanks and Reds Show Off Their Weapons

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY BEHIND RUSSIAN LINES, April 26 [Delayed]—Russian soldiers and officers who welcomed our 69th division across the Elbe from Torgau today were a clean cut and husky group and their combination of easy informality and discipline impressed this correspondent as being very similar to that in our own army.

Despite the language barrier, G. Is from both armies fraternized within a few minutes of the meeting, aided by generous bottles of fiery vodka and other liquor. In fact, fraternization came to hold certain dangers.

For soldiers of both armies were eager to demonstrate their weapons to their new friends. And with vodka making careful fingers less certain, we all felt somewhat insecure when a G. I. or his Russian pal started shooting into the river with Garands, Russian rifles, submachine guns, and even bazookas.

Shorter Than Yanks

The Russian G. Is for the most part were shorter than our men, but hard muscled. Some wore wraparound khaki puttees and hobnailed shoes, tho most had black leather hobnailed boots like the Germans.

Their trousers were cut like riding breeches and apparently made out of a mulberry cloth like whipcord. Their tunics buttoned to the neck. Some of the younger officers wore uniforms of light greenish blue. Others, such as the major who was the assistant battalion commander, boasted black leather jackets.

Most of the enlisted men wore caps somewhat similar to the American overseas caps. Most of the officers wore dress caps and their shoulder epaulets glistened as if freshly shined.

The officers, from the commander of this crack 58th guards division down to second lieutenants, were young. The general was not over 45. All were alert and several spoke German. Some even knew a few English phrases.

Machine Guns Like Yanks

The Americans said the Russian machine guns were similar to our 50 caliber guns. Their rifles resembled our older Springfields. All the guns we saw were apparently in good condition.

There were small howitzers, similar to our mountain howitzer or our 105 howitzer of an infantry cannon company. A few larger field pieces were emplaced just behind the Russian front line along the river bank.

Any move to travel farther to the rear of the Russian lines or along their flanks was discouraged. Two photographers visited an inland village and thought it deserted until two Russian guards stood up in a ditch and pulled the pins of their grenades.

The Americans shouted "Amerikanski!" and dived for the ditch. The Russians replaced their grenade pins but seemed unconvinced, and the photographers returned quickly to the river.

The festivities along the river bank, in the shade of an old forest's trees, were joined by two Russian "WACs," one wearing a red beret and the other a blue beret. Each husky girl wore a dark uniform-like skirt, and each carried a pistol on her belt. The Russians said the girls were soldiers, too.

STILL MUST ROOT OUT NAZI POWER, CHURCHILL SAYS

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today issued the following statement on the linkup of the American and Russian armies:

"After long journeys, toils, and victories across the land and oceans, across so many deadly battlefields, the armies of the great allies have traversed Germany and have joined hands together.

"Now their task will be the destruction of all remnants of German military resistance, the rooting out of the Nazi power and the subjugation of Hitler's reich.

"For these purposes ample forces are available and we meet in true and victorious comradeship and with inflexible resolve to fulfill our purpose and duty. Let all march forward upon the foe."

HITLER'S HOME BLOWN UP BY 18 TONS OF BOMBS

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Hitler's luxurious Swiss chalet at Berchtesgaden was blown apart by three hits with six ton earthquake bombs and other high explosives, air reconnaissance revealed today.

The air ministry said photos taken after Wednesday's R. A. F. raid on Hitler's Alpine retreat show part of the main building and his home were destroyed and both wings severely damaged.

Nazi Commentator Gets Jeep Ride

Lt. Gen. Dittmar Surrenders; Tells the Inside Story of Nazis

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MAGDEBURG, Germany, April 27—Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, German radio analyst and the "voice" of the German military hierarchy, surrendered today to Sgt. Thomas Diesendorfer, of Pittsfield, Ill., after crossing the Elbe river in a rowboat with his 16 year old son under a silk pocket handkerchief as a flag of truce. He talked volubly in German, saying "I am a national socialist but not a Hitlerite Nazi."

Dittmar asserted that until recently Hitler had not interfered with the high command's operation's altho "staff officers knew they were constantly under the spying eyes of the Gestapo. Hitler always followed every military operation closely, and even a machine gun battalion could not be moved from the east to the west front without Hitler's O. K.

Goering in Hiding

"Goering long ago lost all his prestige and now is in hiding, seeking to escape from Germany. Goebbels is with Hitler in Berlin and Himmler is in south Germany, but he is not boss and never can be."

[Associated Press dispatches quoted Dittmar as saying Goering probably already has been executed.]

Sgt. Diesendorfer and two privates were fired on by German troops when they went to the river bank to take the natty little Prussian radio commentator into custody. Sgt. Hugh McKinley, 1243 W. 71st pl., Chicago, conducted Dittmar to Capt. Henry Abbes, company commander, with Pvt. James Richard of Pawnee, Ill., and Sgt. Frank De Clerck, Moline, Ill., as guards.

"I wished to give myself up because the area east of the Elbe will be Russian territory and west of the Elbe will be British, and I preferred to surrender to the Americans while it was possible," said Dittmar.

"I first warned my radio public in Germany that victory for the reich was impossible after Stalingrad, and defeat became certain after the Avranches break-thru and failure of the Mortain counter-attack in Normandy last summer.

"The invasion in Normandy revealed that the German high command failed utterly to realize what superior air power guaranteed to the allies—it prevented the wehrmacht from forming strong counter-attacks.

Cites Two Mistakes

"Two German mistakes cost us the war: First, the Caucasus campaign in the summer of 1942, when we should have built a solid defensive line along the eastern front after failing to capture Moscow and Leningrad; second, the enormous losses in men and material which occurred during the fruitless struggle for Stalingrad—an objective not worth the price involved."

Dittmar betrayed reluctance to discuss Hitler because, he said, "I left my wife and other relatives on the other side of the Elbe and reprisals might result if I were indiscreet." He said, however, "Hitler has taken over active defense of Berlin and he will die there. When Berlin falls all resistance in Germany will collapse except in isolated cases of SS troops in southern Germany."

Calls Redoubt a Myth

The "national redoubt," he said, is "only a newspaper manufactured idea, altho some preparation has been made for a last stand there."

Regarding the future of Germany, Dittmar said: "There are three men capable of taking over control after Hitler—Generals Von Brauchitsch, Guderian, and Von Rundstedt, who enjoy the confidence of the majority of Germans, and their dictates would be obeyed."

A member of the German army for 40 years and of the German general staff since the war's outbreak, Dittmar helped plan and execute the Maginot line break-thru in 1940.

ALLIED LINK-UP CAUSE FOR JOY IN ALL RUSSIA

MOSCOW, April 27 (AP) — The dramatic announcement tonight of the meeting of Russian and American troops in the heart of Germany—and the warm expressions by Premier Stalin, President Truman, and Prime Minister Churchill as to what the great event means in terms of united nations solidarity—completely captured the Russian imagination.

People here had been expecting the news for several days, but the announcement nevertheless stimulated the whole Russian populace all across this vast land. There was cheering in the streets, toasts in hotels and restaurants, and genuine joy from the Kremlin to the little villages on the distant steppes.

Moscow Crowds Out

The news came to Moscow on the warmest evening of the year, at a time when the city's streets were thronged with people.

Broad thorofares were choked with people going home from work or doing shopping for the annual May 1 holiday.

Moscow already had a festive air, with brilliant red bunting going up thruout the downtown area and big red stars being placed in prominent places for celebration of May day. Loudspeakers boomed on every square.

The first inkling of what was coming was at 6:45 p. m. when the Moscow radio interrupted a musical program to say that news of great importance would be broadcast at 6:55 p. m.

In reporting the linkup the announcer said simply that Marshal Stalin, commander in chief of the Red army, "on this historic occasion, is saluting Marshal Konev and his 1st Ukrainian army troops and the allied Anglo-American armies for completing a junction in the heart of Germany."

324 Guns Begin Firing

At 7 p. m., as soon as the Kremlin bells had completed ringing the hour, 324 guns began firing 24 volleys in a salute to the memorable achievement. The 324 gun salute is reserved for Russia's greatest victories.

Houde New Co-Leader of Canadian Bloc Populaire

MONTREAL, Que., April 27 (AP)—Mayor Camillien Houde, veteran of Quebec politics, tonight accepted the co-leadership of the Bloc Populaire in the June 11 federal election campaign. His acceptance was contained in a joint announcement signed by Houde, Maxime Raymond, federal leader of the Bloc Populaire, and Andre Laurendeau, provincial leader. The announcement was issued a few hours after P. J. A. Cardin in a radio address confirmed the formation of a new party under the name of National Front.

Truman and Stalin Hail Link of Two Armies at Elbe River

'Toiled So Long'

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—The juncture of Anglo-American and soviet armies in the heart of Germany was announced at the White House at noon today [11 a. m. Chicago time].

President Truman issued the following statement which coincided with simultaneous prearranged announcements in Moscow and London:

"The Anglo-American armies under the command of Gen. Eisenhower have met the soviet forces where they intended to meet—in the heart of Nazi Germany. The enemy has been cut in two.

"This is not the hour of final victory in Europe, but the hour draws near, the hour for which all the American people, all the British peoples, and all the soviet people have toiled and prayed so long.

"Ends Hitler's Last Hope"

"The union of our arms in the heart of Germany has a meaning for the world which the world will not miss. It means,

"FIRST, that the last faint, desperate hope of Hitler and his gangster government has been extinguished. The common front and the common cause of the powers allied in this war against tyranny and inhumanity have been demonstrated in fact as they have long been demonstrated in determination. Nothing can divide or weaken the common purpose of our veteran armies to pursue their victorious purpose to its final allied triumph in Germany.

"SECOND, the junction of our forces at this moment signalizes to ourselves and to the world that the collaboration of our nations in the cause of peace and freedom is an effective collaboration which can surmount the greatest difficulties of the most extensive campaign in military history and succeed. Nations which can plan and fight together shoulder to shoulder in the face of such obstacles of distance and of language and of communications as we have overcome, can live together and can work together in the common labor of the organization of the world for peace.

"No Pause on Battle Fronts"

"Finally, this great triumph of allied arms and allied strategy is such a tribute to the courage and determination of Franklin Roosevelt as no words could ever speak, and that could be accomplished only by the persistence and the courage of the fighting soldiers and sailors of the allied nations.

"But, until our enemies are finally subdued in Europe and in the Pacific, there must be no relaxation of effort on the home front in support of our heroic soldiers and sailors as we all know there will be no pause on the battle fronts."

REPORTS LOSS OF WALLET
Gene Jostal, 3118 S. Hamlin av., told police yesterday that he lost his wallet, containing $3, near 34th st. and Christiana av.

'Clove Thru Nazis'

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Premier-Marshal Stalin proclaimed the juncture of Americans and Russians on the Elbe tonight in an order of the day which said:

"Troops of the 1st Ukrainian front and Anglo-American troops allied to us, by a blow from the east and west, clove thru the front of the German troops and on April 25 at 1:30 p. m. [Moscow time] linked up in the center of Germany in the area of the town of Torgau.

Cut Off from South

"Thus the Germans in northern Germany are cut off from the German troops in the southern districts of Germany. To commemorate the victory and in honor of this historic event, today, April 27, at 7 p. m. the capital of our motherland, Moscow, in the name of our motherland, will salute with 24 artillery salvos from 324 guns the gallant troops of the 1st Ukrainian front and the Anglo-American troops allied to us.

"Long live the victory of the freedom loving peoples over Germany!"

Message to Allied Troops

Addressing himself for the first time to the armies of Russia's allies, Stalin supplemented his order of the day to soviet troops with this statement:

"In the name of the soviet government, I address you commanders and men of the Red army and of the armies of our allies.

"The victorious armies of the allied powers, waging a war of liberation in Europe, have routed the German troops and linked up on the territory of Germany.

"Our task and our duty are to complete the destruction of the enemy, to force him to lay down his arms and surrender unconditionally.

"The Red army will fulfill to the end this task and this duty to our people and to all freedom loving peoples.

"I greet the valorous troops of our allies who are now standing on the territory of Germany shoulder to shoulder with the soviet troops and who are full of determination to carry out their duty to the end."

'PUT IT THERE,' OFFICER TELLS RED ARMY MAN

Meet on Blasted Bridge Over Elbe

of people on the roads. There were thousands of them and among them were many allied prisoners of war who escaped from prison camps.

"German troops had thrown their weapons into ditches and were standing waiting to be taken prisoner.

"We kept on the move, now and then getting off the congested roads. We met about 30 British boys who were headed for Wuertzen. We told them where they could get food.

Sme Wunded Americans

"The British told us they had seen some wounded Americans up the road at Torgau.

"We went on east to Torgau and found these Americans. They had been held by the Germans to be shot because they were accused of espionage. They had been in Bavaria quite a while. We got some German guns for them and they guarded German prisoners who had thrown down their arms.

"We could hear small arms fire very close and they told us the Russians were just across the river.

"We left our jeep and went down on foot toward the river. We rigged up a big white flag so they wouldn't shoot at us.

Paints an American Flag

"We didn't know what the Russian uniform looked like and I wasn't sure the Russians would recognize our uniform.

"Near the Elbe was a very large castle with a high tower.

"We broke into a drug store and got some paint. I painted four red stripes on our white flag and a field of blue, because I figured the Russians would recognize the American flag better than anything else.

"I climbed into the tower and stuck my head out and waved the flag. They stopped firing for a while.

"I yelled, 'American, Tovarich, Kamerad.'

"They were yelling at me from across the river and fired two flares but I didn't have any flares to fire back.

"I left the flag flying and went down and found a Russian who had been a prisoner of the Germans. He shouted at the Russians to stop firing and I saw one Russian start across the bridge which was partly blown."

Pvt. Paul Staub of New York went ahead of Robertson and swung himself over the girder of the bridge by his hands to reach the east bank. Robertson crawled along the girder and then met the Russian.

ANOTHER MEETING

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY BEYOND THE MULDE RIVER, April 25 [Delayed] — (AP) — Streaking past long columns of Germans troops fleeing westward from the Russians and hoping to surrender to the Americans, Lt. Albert L. Kotzebue, Houston, Tex., led 28 men in six jeeps to a junction with the surprised Russians four miles west of Riesa on the Elbe river today.

He had set out 24 hours before and his laconic message at 3 p. m. today electrified regimental and 69th divisional headquarters:

"Have completed mission and am arranging meeting between commanders."

To assist in arranging the details for a formal meeting of Russian and American commanders Lt. Col. Richard J. Conran of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a Russian-speaking interpreter, Staff Sgt. Charles Kulikowski, 5753 W. Gunnison av., Chicago, Ill., took off in an artillery Cub liaison plane for the junction point.

Tells of Dramatic Search

The successful patrol which first made contact with the soviets advancing past the Elbe was only one of several reconnaissance parties sent out by American divisions all along the Mulde river holding line.

The dramatic search of these patrols for the Russian vanguard was first told by Lt. Philip Sinnott, San Francisco, Cal., an officer in the 273d regiment.

"Lt. Kotzebue and 28 men took off late yesterday afternoon [April 24] in six jeeps and headed east. They didn't have a single armored vehicle and only 30 caliber machine guns on their jeeps.

"They looked until dark without finding anything and sat down for the night on the other side of the Mulde after reporting no contact. Every one was disappointed and confused because our Cub planes hadn't picked up any big road movements and we didn't know just where in hell the Russians were.

"Lot of People Running"

"All we knew was that there was a lot of people running toward our lines to get away from them.

"This morning at 4:45 a. m. the regimental commander—Col. C. A. Adams of Hazleton, Pa.—sent out another party of men.

"At daylight a third patrol, consisting of a regimental intelligence and reconnaissance platoon set out to find the elusive Russian.

"The last two patrols didn't have any luck, but all three groups ran into krauts right and left. They had an eerie sensation driving thru lanes of marching German soldiers fully armed and waving them on back to surrender.

"So far as I know not one German soldier fired on our patrols.

"Clogged with Housewives"

"All along the roads were clogged with wild eyed German housewives and husbands and children packing their clothes and silver in baby buggies and carts and on the back of bicycles as they hit out for the Mulde river.

"Thousands of American and French prisoners of war also were whooping along back in every kind of vehicle they could get to run or pull.

"Then at 3 p. m. we got a message from Lt. Kotzebue that he had contacted the Russians. He had kept pushing forward along roads full of refugees until finally he met them."

Sinnott described Kotzebue as one of the best platoon leaders in the army and added: "He's really got get-up-and-go." Kotzebue landed in England with the division last November and won the Purple Heart and bronze star for bravery during the fighting thru the Siegfried line last Feb. 27 at Remscheid, Germany.

NEW 69TH DIVISION, LEIPZIG CONQUERORS, FIRST TO MEET REDS

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—One of the army's new divisions, the 69th, made the historic junction with the Russian forces at Torgau.

The outfit, led by Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt of Detroit, made its first announced appearance on the western front March 8 as part of the 5th corps of the 1st army.

With the 11th armored division, it advanced on Leipzig, took Leuna on April 15, captured Leipzig four days later and reached the Mulde river east of Leipzig on April 22. Three days later, division patrols made the first contact with the soviets.

Reinhardt, 56 year old native of Bay City, Mich., is a regular army man and a graduate of West Point. During the first World war, he served at various posts in this country and in 1919 was sent to Mayen, Germany, staying there until March, 1922, when he was transferred to Coblenz, Germany.

JOY AND MISERY

WITH THE 1ST UKRAINIAN ARMY EAST OF THE ELBE, April 26 [Delayed]—(AP)—There were singing and dancing and music on the banks of the Elbe today as doughboys and Russians joined forces, but Americans found the road from the Mulde river to the Elbe a picture of defeated Germany etched in the pain, misery, and fear of people fleeing before the Russians.

On the east bank of the Mulde thousands of civilians were gathered, hoping that perhaps the Americans would let them into their lines before the Russian's arrival. They had stacked their belongings into little carts which seemed as tho they would crumple under the weight. Bedding, food, clothing, pots, pans, and bundles burdened the carts hauled along the highway.

Poverty and Riches, Too

There were incongruous lines of wagons with their tops covered by rich oriental rugs and wagons pulled by tractors or automobiles or anything that would make them mobile.

Mothers hauled their children in carts, and elderly persons rode in resignation, staring at passing American vehicles.

Women stumbled along in the choking dust with huge bundles on their backs. Fatigue and fear lined their faces. There was frantic urgency in their attitudes.

At one point a bridge was being repaired and hundreds stood in the fields beside the road waiting for a chance to start moving again—the old and the young, the ill and the crippled.

German Soldiers Have Enough

The roadside was littered with the debris of this army of misery—scattered clothing and trash and boxes and household goods. The burden was too great for many, and so they tossed aside the excess weight.

One strange sight consisted of columns of German soldiers marching along the road to the west with no one to guard them. Some of the soliders were carrying their arms; nobody had taken the trouble to disarm them, and they made no pretense of resistance. They voluntarily were marching into captivity.

It was not unusual to see liberated British prisoners of war walking in columns with German soldiers and Hitler Youth whose Nazi indoctrination had melted in their fear of the Russians.

"Where is this horde going?" asked Lt. William Gist, North Platte, Neb. "There isn't enough room for all these people in our lines."

9th Army Just Stands Still and Captures 4,461 Nazis

PARIS, April 27 [Reuters]—Without advancing a yard, the United States 9th army yesterday took 4,461 prisoners. The Germans streamed into the American camps along the Elbe and gave up.

chilled limbs in a farmhouse. The appearance of Lt. Alexander Sylvachko, a slim, husky-voiced Russian, with the Americans, struck terror into the farm folk. Then the party started off again. It reached Torgau without trouble and at 5:20 a. m. the Elbe was reached.

Russian Shouts to Reds

The Russian major, lumbering ahead in his short black leather coat, shouted across the river from ramparts where lay a litter of German helmets and abandoned guns.

Lt. Sylvachko, who had become a favorite of the Americans thru his ready laugh, raced for the broken bridge. He picked his way across the slippery girders, and once across added his shouts to those of the major.

Russian guards roused themselves and men began trotting toward the river. Thru an interpreter the major then explained that his men, members of an infantry battalion, would send a boat, and the Americans then descended to the river bank.

Two Russian soldiers on the far side started paddling a bargelike skiff across. Impatient, the Russian major and sergeant broke open a boat house on our side of the river and brought out a two man racing shell, which they deposited in the water.

Here was history! The Americans had often wondered how the Elbe would be crossed, but in the wildest imaginings no one ever considered a racing shell.

U. S. Colonel Hangs On

The major—Anaphin Larionov—sat in the stern. Lt. Edward A. Gumpert, Glen Ridge, N. J., stepped into the prow, and Col. Adams seated himself amidships and hung on grimly as his two oarsmen paddled him across the Elbe. The other Americans followed in the skiff.

With the major leading the way, the party strode thru deep grass icy with morning dew. Atop the rising ground, the Russian guards smoothed their uniforms, combed their hair with their fingers, and as the American party approached, with the major in the lead, snapped smartly to attention and saluted.

The sun was rising as the Americans marched up a brick walk to a building occupied by the Russians. Gun crews stood at attention, saluting. The entry into the building had an air of informality, with the Russian major and the lieutenant joking back and forth.

Bottle Opening Begins

Inside, the Americans gathered in a mess hall. A Russian soldier cleared last night's meal away by heaving the remains thru a window.

Some one started opening bottles. More officers came in. A Russian captain brought in boxes of captured German rations and began breaking them open with a dagger.

Every one joked with the Russian lieutenant but remained somewhat aloof, principally because of the language barrier, with the others. Then, at a horseshoe shaped table, all the Americans sat down to a breakfast of German rations liberally spliced with vodka and captured German schnapps [liqueurs].

The Russian major proposed a toast to the juncture of the Red and American armies. The American colonel responded with a similar tone, and in about half an hour most every one at the table was in good spirits.

Names Get Into History

A notebook made the round of the table and autographs were entered. The Russians' were indecipherable, but among the American names were those of Col. Adams, Capt. Ralph Phillips, Union, S. C.; Pvt. Walter Hajdamacha, Manville, N. J.; Pvt. Richard Johnson, Rochester, N. Y.; Pvt. Lowell R. Martin, Lagro, Ind.; Lt. Gumpert; Pvt. Charles W. Carson, Syracuse, N. Y.; T/5 Bernard E. Kirschenbaum, the Bronx, N. Y., and Pvt. Fred Hermann, Trenton, N. J.

By 8 a. m. the Russians and the Americans were pledging eternal friendship; G. I.'s and officers had their arms linked around the shoulders of their Russian comrades.

By 8:30 another Russian custom was introduced. The major took the colonel to his quarters for a nap until 11 o'clock, when they were to meet the Russian colonel. And with the exception of some soldiers who went on guard, almost the entire American contingent followed suit, sleeping under a shade tree.

This afternoon, Maj. Gen. E. F. Rheinhart of Bay City, Mich., commander of the 69th division, met with the Russian division commander. That called for more toasts and another banquet—Russian style.

RUSSIANS MET AUSTRIANS AT TORGAU IN 1761

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Torgau, site of the momentous Russian-American meeting, lies on the west bank of the Elbe river, 30 miles northeast of Leipzig and 65 southwest of Berlin, in a flat region marked by a few low hills.

It dates from about 973, and was important since its early times as a convenient crossing of the Elbe. Its normal population is 14,000.

There nearly two centuries ago—in 1761—Russians met another western ally, the Austrians, to resist Frederick the Great of Prussia, their mutual enemy in the Seven Years war. Frederick had defeated the Austrians at Torgau a year earlier.

A castle built in 1533 on an island in the Elbe at Torgau was once the residence of the electors of Saxony.

2 FRONTS JOINED BY TOTAL DRIVES OF 5,900 MILES

Juncture of the American and Russian armies at Torgau, 75 miles south of Berlin, marked the closing phase of an offensive without any parallel in history.

To reach Torgau, the Americans had come an air line distance of 650 miles from the beaches of the Cherbourg peninsula in less than 11 months. But to mount the offensive which started last June 6, they had to land on the fortified shores of France and supply themselves without port facilities.

In two years two allies had traveled 5,900 miles to make this historic junction—the Americans 3,800 miles from the great ports of America and nearly 700 miles across Europe; the Russians 1,400 bloody miles from the ruins of Stalingrad, where they broke the German 6th army and turned the whole tide of the war.

No Longer East and West

Now there no longer was an eastern or a western front. There were instead, north and south fronts—more properly two pockets, for Hitler's once feared armies were left incapable of fighting as integrated units.

The allies had fought over the breadth of Europe—2,100 miles from Stalingrad to the beaches of Normandy.

And when they met on the green Elbe plain they shared equally the honor of smashing the most formidable fortress and one of the mightiest fighting forces on earth.

The Americans had come one-one-third of the difficult way in a little less than one-third of the time.

Russia's recuperation, accomplished with substantial quantities of planes, tanks, guns, and motorized equipment supplied by the allies, was also a magnificent military feat. From Stalingrad, where a surrounded German army surrendered on Feb. 1, 1943, the Russians moved to the juncture with the Americans two years and almost three months later.

Measured from Moscow, at whose gates the Germans were knocking as late as July 5, 1943, the Russian advance to Torgau was 1,035 air line miles.

Bradley Issues Orders

ON THE ELBE, Germany, April 27 (AP)—In an order of the day Gen. Bradley, commander of the 12th army group, reviewed American and Russian achievements in reaching the Elbe.

The order addressed to soldiers of the 1st, 3d, 9th, and 15th American armies said:

"At 1640 hours [4:40 p. m.] on April 25, 1945, in the 29th month of our war against the German government, American troops of the 12th army group joined forces with soviet elements of Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian army group.

"These armies [Russian] have come to you from the ruins of Stalingrad and Sevastopol—across the scorched cities of the Ukraine. In two years they have smashed 1,400 miles thru the German armies to drive the enemy from Russia and pursue him to the Elbe.

"Their achievements—and they have given immortality to a people that would not be conquered—are made more meaningful by your own deeds.

"Across 3,800 miles of an ocean supply line you forced a coast the enemy had been years preparing against you. Within four months after landing you destroyed whole armies—to take Paris, free France, and give the world the symbol of freedom."

PAULEY GIVEN REPARATIONS JOB BY TRUMAN

Lesser Post for Lubin, Roosevelt's Choice

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 27—Edwin V. Pauley of California, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, today was named as the United States member of the reparations committee which will meet in Moscow to determine reparations in kind for German damages in Europe.

Edwin V. Pauley

The appointment, which carries ambassadorial rank, was announced by President Truman at a hastily summoned news conference. It was understood that the appointment was urged by Democratic National Chairman Hannegan. Pauley, an oil man, became a Democrat and New Dealer in the 1940 third term campaign, having been a Republican.

F. D. R.'s Choice Denied Post

Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, who had been designated by President Roosevelt as the American member of the commission, is to accompany Pauley to Moscow and assist him with the rank of minister.

Pauley, who was present at the announcement, issued a statement in which he delivered a lengthy personal pledge that a world war will not happen again. Newspaper men raised their eyebrows at his acceptance of the post as a personal mission to halt World War III.

"I regard my assignment as one involving a tremendous responsibility. While the just and forthright solution of problems left to us by World War II. will be one phase of the great crisis that has involved all nations, and the formation of an international organization to prevent World War III. is another and perhaps distinct phase, certainly the two are not unrelated.

"Peace cannot endure unless it is a just peace. And among the factors that will determine this quality of justice, reparations—the underlying philosophy and the practical application, in form, in terms, in methods—are certain to weigh heavily.

Wants No "Brittle Peace"

"I am not a 'soft peace' man. I have no reluctance in making that fact known. But whether we have a 'hard peace' or a 'soft peace' is a question for all the united nations and their governments to decide. What I can promise in my new position is that once the peace is made I shall do everything in my power to prevent it from being a 'brittle' peace—that is, one that may be hard in the making but will not hold together under the strain of post-war economics.

"That is the mistake that was made at the end of World War I. Subsequently, and partly because of that brittle quality of the peace, Germany was able to rearm.

"I make my pledge that it will not happen again."

In announcing the appointment Mr. Truman said Pauley will report personally to him and that ambassadors in Europe had been notified to coöperate with the mission.

No Cash Reparations

The commission is to consider the extent and methods for exacting reparations in kind from the Germans. At Yalta, according to the official report on the conference, it was recognized that Germany should be obliged to pay to the greatest extent possible, but not in money. Money payments were eliminated to avoid a repetition of the economic repercussions which followed the exaction of money payments after the World war.

One of the most serious problems the commission will decide is the suggestion for employment of slave labor which has precipitated heated controversy. The suggestion is that Germans be forced to repair the damage Nazi armies wrought in Europe.

LT. R. W. ICKES, INJURED AT IWO, RETURNS TO U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27 (AP)—Marine 2d Lt. Raymond Wilmarth Ickes, 32, son of the secretary of interior, has arrived at the naval receiving hospital here for treatment of a bullet wound in his left chest, received March 7 in the fierce fighting at Iwo, the marine corps said late today.

He may be transferred to an eastern hospital soon. He anticipates a visit with his wife, Miralotte, and 15 month old daughter, Andrea, of Silver Spring, Md., whom he last saw before shipping overseas in June, 1944.

Ickes went ashore at Iwo with the 3d division soon after D-day. He and the man in the foxhole beside him were shot simultaneously as Ickes, half kneeling, directed his rifle platoon along a ridge at the northern end of the island.

B-29S RAID JAP KYUSHU BASES FOR THIRD DAY

GUAM, April 28 [Saturday]—(AP)—For the third straight day, Marianas-based Super Forts numbering 100 to 150 bombed Kyushu air fields today.

The Japanese have attacked American forces in the Ryukyus only once in strength since April 16, when carrier planes, Iwo-based army fighters, and now the B-29s began their series of neutralizing raids on Kyushu.

Sweeping over the island by daylight, Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay's Super Forts struck at six air fields at medium altitude. Clear weather permitted the bombardiers to release their explosives visually. The results were reported good. Enemy opposition was "moderate."

FISTICUFFS HALT ZONING MEETING; C. K. HUNTER HIT

Realtor Slugged at Barrington Session

A fist swinging battle yesterday broke up a heated Lake county zoning board meeting in Barrington to determine whether a 100 acre tract of land north and west of the village should be changed from residential zoning to light manufacturing zoning to accommodate a prospective new industry. Of the 200 persons present, most of them against the change, 150 were women.

Principal casualty of the melee was C. Kenneth Hunter, vice president of Hogan & Farwell, real estate company. Shoved around, but not hurt, was Paul Trier, vice president of Arnold Bros., Inc., packers. Hunter's assailant was Kenneth Shoup, a tavern owner.

Council, Merchants for Change

The zoning change is being sought by the Pure Oil company, which contemplates a $1,000,000 experimental plant employing 400 chemists and with an annual pay roll of $750,000 a year. In favor of the change, it is said, are most of Barrington's merchants, the Barrington Lions club, and the village council. Opposed are 350 home owners whose properties range from small to large estates, covering 12,000 acres. Among the protesters is Fowler McCormick, Harvester company head. They assert their property rights will be infringed upon by the intrusion of manufacturing.

Yesterday's meeting, held in the Atkins hotel, was called to order by John J. Hogan, zoning chairman, but immediately David Maloney, village attorney, moved for a continuance. Atty. William R. Behanna, for the home owners, objected.

Hunter Struck in Eye

The closely packed audience took up the argument, several women adding their protests. Suddenly fists were flying. In the center of the commotion were Hunter and Shoup, with Trier trying to break up the battle. Hunter, witnesses said, was struck in the eye. Chairman Hogan promptly adjourned the meeting, saying later he had decided to do so before the fight occurred. Both Hunter and Shoup told about the fight later.

"Hunter called me an alien," said Shoup. "I spent 13 months overseas in the last war, and I said, 'Don't call me that again.' But he did, and I hit him."

Next Meeting May 19

"This man came in a bit intoxicated," said Hunter. "He hollered, 'We're going to force this down your throats.' He wasn't talking to me, and I never suspected he meant to hit me."

Among the objectors at the meeting were Mark Kemper, Lafayette Markle, Robert White Jr., Walter L. Ditfurth, Willard Richardson, Thomas Bohan, and Max Hurd, retired chairman of the Link Belt company. The next meeting will be held at 10 a. m. May 19 in the Catlow theater, Barrington.

MARINE FLYERS BOMB JAP GUNS SHELLING WOUNDED AMERICANS

OKINAWA, April 28 [Saturday]—(AP)—Marine Corsair fighter pilots today bombed Japanese guns which had been shelling United States ambulances evacuating American wounded to the rear. The positions were near Machinato air field, on the west coast. Elements of the 27th infantry division are believed already to have reached the northern edge of the air field. The Corsair pilots knocked out several of the Jap guns.

Americans pressing toward Okinawa's two largest cities advanced within 5,000 yards of Naha, the capital, on the west coast and less than two miles of Shuri toward the east coast.

Units of the 7th division killed more than 150 Japanese they surprised withdrawing supplies from caves.

Japs Claim U. S. Cruiser

San Francisco, Cal., April 27 (AP)—Tokyo radio asserted without confirmation that Japanese aircraft sank the United States cruiser Savannah off Okinawa yesterday and damaged another cruiser.

ALLIES STICK TO DECISION TO FEED DUTCH

PARIS, April 27 (AP) — Supreme allied headquarters said today it still intended to supply food to civilians pocketed in Nazi held areas of Holland, altho original plans to drop supplies by parachute had not materialized.

No planes have been sent yet on these relief missions, which Gen. Eisenhower said were to start immediately when he announced the plans three days ago. SHAEF declined comment, however, on a Netherlands Aneta agency report in London that the arrangement had been dropped or suspended.

It is assumed the delay is because the Germans refused to accept Eisenhower's demand that they not fire on the mercy planes, which he said would fly in low and unarmed.

RUSSIANS VOTED THREE SEATS IN WORLD LEAGUE

Plea for Invitation to Lublin Poles Denied

denberg and Sen. Connally [D., Texas] with him to the steering committee meeting for moral support. Stettinius also was armed with a letter from President Truman directing him to support the Russian demand. Mr. Truman said that President Roosevelt had agreed to the admission of the White Russians and the Ukrainians to the international organization.

Special Consideration

"You have explained to me," Mr. Truman added, "that in agreeing to support the proposal of the soviet government on this question, President Roosevelt felt that the importance of the Ukraine and White Russia among the soviet republics and their contribution to the prosecution of the war and the untold devastation and sacrifices which their people have undergone in the cause of the united nations entitled them to special consideration.

"The decision as to the admission of these two republics as initial members in the proposed international organization is of course a matter for the conference itself to decide. In the loyal execution at the conference of the obligation assumed on this question by President Roosevelt on behalf of the United States, I direct you to cast the vote of the United States in favor of the admission of the Ukrainian and White Russian republics as initial members of the international organization."

After reading the Truman letter to the steering committee, Stettinius said he was complying with the President's direction by indorsing Molotov's three votes proposal.

But Molotov persisted and the small nations failed the embarrassed Americans, who now are left to explain in the senate and elsewhere why Russia should have three votes, Britain six, and America one.

The steering committee, composed of the heads of the 46 delegations, unanimously recommended three votes for Russia and when the recommendation was presented to the plenary session of the conference a few hours later no delegate registered an objection. It had been supported from the first by the British as well as the Americans, Prime Minister Churchill having consented to Stalin's request at Yalta and also to Mr. Roosevelt's reservation of three votes for the United States.

Overreaches On Poland

Whether Molotov found clear sailing on the demand for three votes because he was being turned down on his maneuver on the Polish issue is a matter of speculation. At any rate he overreached himself on Poland. By proposing that the Russian sponsored Lublin government of Poland be invited to the conference Molotov set out to outflank the British and American governments.

Twice Stalin had demanded that the Lublin government be seated at San Francisco and twice the British and American governments refused on the ground that the agreement at Yalta had not been complied with. This agreement was that the Lublin government should be broadened and reorganized by creating a new government of national unity, including not only Communists but other anti-Fascist elements. Stalin had rejected all the Polish Democrats proposed by London and Washington.

Molotov sought to go over the heads of the British and American governments by getting the conference to invite the Lublin government which London and Washington had refused to recognize. Here he ran into a stone wall. The members of the steering committee overwhelmingly supported the British and American position.

Substitute Resolution

Then Belgian Foreign Minister Spaak offered a substitute resolution which was unanimously adopted by the steering committee and later unanimously by the conference. The Spaak resolution declared:

"The governments of the united nations express to the people of Poland their sympathy and their admiration. They hope that the constitution of a Polish government, recognized as such by the sponsoring nations, will make it possible for Polish delegates to come and take part as soon as possible in the work of the conference."

Following the row Molotov kicked up in the steering committee yesterday when he blocked the election of Stettinius as the permanent president of the conference a good deal of work was done behind the scenes overnight to patch up the differences. The effort was successful. When the steering committee met Molotov had agreed to a compromise.

The compromise was a modification of Molotov's original proposal when he objected to the election of Stettinius as permanent president despite customary protocol to honor the host nation. Molotov then had proposed four presidents. British Foreign Secretary Eden moved that the presidents representing the Big Four powers rotate in alphatbetical order by count. [illegible] in presiding over the plenary sessions.

Stettinius to Preside

Today Molotov accepted the Eden modification broadened with a provision that Stettinius should preside over meetings of the four presidents and be chairman of the steering and executive committees, the three other presidents delegating to him full powers to conduct the business of the conference. The executive committee was constituted with a membership consisting of Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Czechoslovakia, France, Iran, Mexico, the Netherlands, Russia, Great Britain, the United States, and Yugoslavia.

Chinese Foreign Minister Soong will preside over a plenary session tomorrow morning, Molotov at another in the afternoon, Eden at the next one thereafter, and Stettinius at the next one after that.

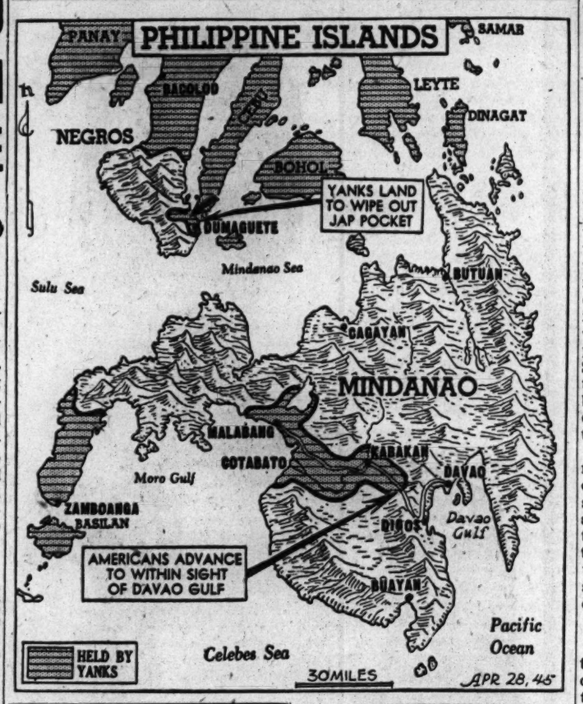
Exception for Poland

In an effort to speed the conference to a conclusion in about four weeks, the steering committee announced that next Friday will be the deadline on submission of amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks peace league plan, which will be the basis of discussion. An exception will be made for Poland if it is later admitted to the conference.

The question of admitting Argentina to the conference was not taken up, nor were such subjects as trusteeships, mandates, and the Palestine question.

During the steering committee meeting, the news of the junction of the American and Russian armies in the heart of Germany was announced. It produced a "great emotional reaction," said Stettinius afterwards, "An example of effective collaboration of the united nations."

Yanks' Progress in Philippines



New Negros Landing

MANILA, April 28 [Saturday]—(AP)—American assault units landed on southern Negros island Thursday and today were clearing Japanese from the city of Dumaguete, to which the enemy had put the torch.

This second invasion thrust into Negros within less than a month had the objective of wiping out a resistance area where the Nipponese have held out for months.

Yank forces have advanced to within sight of Davao gulf, on Mindanao Island, and in northern Luzon Island have seized commanding positions overlooking Balete pass, a strong point in the Japanese defenses, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

United States air forces, working closely with ground troops, hit the enemy in the Cagayan valley, beyond Balete pass, with an unusually large cargo of bombs, 730 tons, and with strafing tactics. They also attacked Basco airfield in the Batan Islands north of Luzon.

URGES BRITAIN TO CONSOLIDATE EUROPE POSITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 27—Britain should take steps to consolidate her position in western Europe, regardless of what transpires in San Francisco, Leslie Hore-Belisha, a Conservative member of parliament, declared in a speech at Davenport today.

Asserting that the moment is opportune for some formal recognition of the strategic interdependence of Britain and her neighbors in western Europe after the war, Hore-Belisha advocated setting up a general staff council for northwestern Europe. He said he believed public opinion would support an agreement placing naval bases and military air fields at the general disposal of countries in this area.

"A strategic arrangement is a vital necessity because it is no more than a recognition of geographical facts," he said.

Hore-Belisha said such a grouping would buttress the strategic positions of South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, and Canada. He urged all British political parties to reach a broad basis of agreement on foreign affairs before the present coalition government is broken up prior to the general election.

OPA FIXES FOOD AND GAS RATION FOR DELEGATES

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—OPA today authorized the allotment of rationed food and gasoline for delegates at the San Francisco Security conference if the state department certifies their needs in writing.

Food allotments will be provided for luncheon meals served to delegates and official banquets attended by accredited delegates, as well as meals served them in official residences, OPA said.

Authority to grant the special allotments was granted to OPA's regional administrator Charles R. Baird. The Hotel Employers' association of San Francisco, in a recent series of advertisments, had said it would be unable to feed the delegates properly because of OPA regulations.

British Press Finds Fault with Lend-Lease Houses

LONDON, April 27 [Reuters].—The American prefabricated bungalows, the first consignment of which —30,000—have now arrived in Britain, were described by the London News Chronicles architectural correspondent today as "packing case buildings." "Workmanship and finish are very poor," he wrote. "Obviously the job is intended to be temporary." Britain is expecting 145,000 houses from the United States under lend-lease.

AUSTRALIAN RIPS VETO POWERS OF LARGER NATIONS

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 27—Delegation of "veto" power to the five great nations of the world in the decisions of a new league of nations security council was criticized today by Francis M. Forde, prime minister of Australia and chairman of the Australian delegation at the international conference to abolish war. He spoke before the second plenary session of the conference in San Francisco's opera house where the "standing room only" sign has been hanging for the last three days. Galleries again were packed to the rafters.

"Why any of five powers which is not a party to a dispute should be empowered to prevent attempts to settle it by means of conciliation and arbitration, we are quite unable to discover," Forde declared. "We think a mistake has been made and that all the powers concerned should be ready to correct it at this conference."

Busiest Meeting

Forde was the most forthright of the five diplomats and delegation chairmen who gave statements of their countries' positions at this session. It was the busiest and most productive meeting of the conference, so far, starting off with a rapid-fire report of the steering committee which settled many knotty problems. The report was adopted by the full assembly of 46 delegations without an objection.

Forde was followed by Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian minister for foreign affairs and chairman of his delegation; Victor Andrade, Bolivian delegate and ambassador to the United States; Pedro L. Velloso, Brazilian chairman and minister of state for foreign affairs, and W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada and chairman of the Canadian delegation.

The red plush seats in the eighth row of San Francisco's opera house held, for the third straight day, as great a portion of the world's political power as has been seen in any theater in America. Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, occupied the eighth row aisle seat, center. To his left, at the end of the row, sat V. M. Molotov, soviet foreign commissar, and A. A. Gromyko, soviet ambassador to the United States.

Eden and Attlee

Five seats to Molotov's left, beyond another aisle, were Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary and Clement Attlee, deput; prime minister of the United Kingdom. Just behind Eden, in the ninth row, sat Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Virginia Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college, American delegates. Both of them leaned over to whisper to the British foreign secretary. Secretary Stettinius, who presided as temporary chairman, called today's meeting the second plenary session, apparently refusing to count the formal gathering which opened the conference in the same blue and gray stage setting on last Wednesday.

Stettinius opened the meeting with an announcement that the first part would be devoted to business. Again, he occupied a golden chair before the blue gray rostrum which is decorated with softly draped green garlands, a reminder to the delegates of the period of mourning occasioned by the death of President Roosevelt.

Called for Report

Stettinius called Dr. Guillermo Belt, Cuban ambassador to the United States and chairman of his country's delegation, to the speaker's stand just beneath the rostrum, to report on the work of the steering committee, composed of the chairmen of the 46 delegations.

Dr. Belt reported that the steering committee recommended that plenary sessions of the conference recognize English and French as official languages and that delegates were free to use other languages in addressing these sessions if they provided translations into either of the official tongues. The motion was adopted.

A similar motion to make English, Russian, Chinese, French, and Spanish the official languages of the conference outside of the plenary session was approved without comment. The appointment of Dr. Belt as rapporteur [reporter-secretary] of the steering committee was approved with applause, as was the appointment of Alger Hiss as secretary general. In this office, Hiss occupies a golden chair like that of the chairman, at the right end of the big blue-gray rostrum.

Reads Recommendations

Dr. Belt then read the recommendation for the appointment of four conference presidents, who are the chairmen of delegations of the sponsoring powers, and the delegation of authority to Stettinius to be chairmen of both the executive and steering committees. Not a sound was heard when Stettinius asked for comment or objections. Applause greeted his announcement of the motion's adoption.

Dr. Belt then announced the appointment of the executive committee of 14, a motion approving the Dumbarton Oaks charter as amended at the Yalta conference and by Chinese amendments as a working basis for this conference, and the recommendation that delegations from the Ukraine and White Russia be seated. All were approved without objection.

Business was completed with the appointment of a credentials committee and the adoption of a resolution expressing hope that the constitution of the Polish government would make it possible for Poland to take a seat at the parley. Every suggestion of the steering committee was received in docile silence by the delegates, indicating that the right of dispute so far apparently had been delegated to the chairmen.

Area of Common Agreement

Forde, first speaker of the afternoon, told the delegates that Australia shared "the desire for dispatch" voiced by Eden yesterday when he told the conference it had a "job of work" to do—now. He declared the Dumbarton Oaks charter, which drafted the machinery for a new world league "is a suitable basis of discussion" but added that there is "even a wider area of common agreement" in the Atlantic charter.

He outlined three "great postulates" to which the allied nations are agreed: [1] Establishment of a peace that offers all nations means of dwelling in safety within their boundaries in freedom from fear and want. [2] Fullest collaboration in the economic field to secure improved labor standards; economic advancement and social security. [3] "The eventual abandonment of the use of force but in the meantime the immediate use of force to curb aggression."

"The new association of nations must be endowed with sufficient military power to deal effectively and ruthlessly with any resurgence of fascism and with any immediate threat to world peace," Forde said. "At the same time, the constitution of the association must be made capable of development to meet new situations as they arise."

Application in Pacific

The principles of the Atlantic Charter must apply in the Pacific as well as in the Atlantic, he said. Australia's position, he declared, calls for [1] speedy and orderly procedures for peaceful handling of international disputes, [2] a system of sanctions "imposed very rapidly" and based on united military strength of the great powers but shared in by all powers and [3] a permanent system of security based on a "foundation in economic and social justice."

Forde said his government recognizes that for international security the "greater powers should act as a unit and therefore that these powers can be properly accorded special recognition."

"But the very considerations which are appropriate to enforcement action by the greater powers are out of place in relation to the settlement of disputes by means of conciliation, arbitration, or by other pacific means," he declared. "In such cases, the security council should be empowered to act by the proposed majority of seven without the requirement of the approval by each and every one of the five great powers. I think that this point of view is implicit in the Yalta formula."

Recognition of Smaller Powers

He called for special recognition of the smaller nations which have fought bravely in the war in making up the security council.

"Certain powers," he said, "not classified as great, have proved by their record in two world wars that they not only have the capacity, but also the will to fight in resistance of aggressors threatening the world with tyranny.

"These powers are in a sense proved veterans in the struggle against fascist dictatorship threatening the security of the world. They are in truth 'security powers.' They have a claim to special recognition in any security organization."

Machine-Gun French

Paul Henri Spaak, Belgian minister for foreign affairs, delivered the next speech in machine-gun French with a heavy Belgian accent. The galleries listened intently for a minute or two, and when even those possessed of some linguistic ability gave up, a murmur of gabbling and conversation swept thru the crowd. Spaak went on for 20 minutes unperturbed and even drew one round of applause from his fellow Belgian delegates.

There was no English translation, but nobody in the upstairs seats seemed disappointed. The state department press secretariat even neglected to do the minister the honor of furnishing translations to the press.

Victor Andrade, the Bolivian ambassador, who followed Spaak, told the delegates there was need for "classification of an aggressor" in the proposed world charter and asked for the creation of an international order "capable of eliminating all injustice."

Pedro Leao Velloso, Brazilian chairman, whose bald head gleamed in the movie lights which illuminated the whole theater, announced he would speak in English so that "the people of the United States may understand me at first hand." A copy of his text distributed to newsmen in the dress circle helped a lot.

"It is in the equality of political rights that we must set the foundations of our system," he said.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, who wound up the day's program, drew a big hand when he finished with the declaration that "nations everywhere must unite to save and to serve humanity."

The CONFERENCE—Reported in Full and from the American Viewpoint

NOW in San Francisco, getting the facts about every significant development and trend at the conference, is a crack staff of Tribune news gatherers whose work you have known for years.

With Stewart Owen, Tribune news editor, on the job to marshal the coverage, the Tribune's well rounded daily account of every important move and countermove will feature the reporting of Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Tribune Washington news bureau and veteran observer of national and international affairs.

Backing him up are Willard Edwards and William Moore of the Washington bureau, Arthur Evans, Frank Hughes, and Eugene Griffin of the Chicago staff, and Jack Burket, San Francisco correspondent.

To keep informed of what happens in San Francisco, read the Tribune, the newspaper which has the facilities to get the facts and the courage to present them, completely and without compromise, from the American viewpoint.

HOTEL REMOVES BEDS SO SYRIAN DELEGATES CAN SLEEP ON RUGS

San Francisco, Cal., April 27—The bedroom of the Syrian delegation at the Mark Hopkins hotel has been cleared of the beds by request of the chairman, Faris Elkhouri. The Syrians, it seems, would rather curl up on soft rugs. Maids said they didn't know whether they were supposed to change the rugs every few days.

Secretary of State Stettinius has a direct wire to the hospital room of former Secretary Hull at the Bethesda, Md., naval hospital. Hull, senior adviser to the American delegation, is being kept fully informed of conference developments and is being consulted on critical questions. Friends of Hull said there still is a good chance he may come to San Francisco.

An already hackneyed gag at San Francisco bars is to request a "Molotov cocktail." One bartender said he was going to get a small supply of gasoline and serve a genuine version to the next jokester.

Most popular statement in all the flood of oratory voiced at the plenary sessions thus far was Anthony Eden's assertion that a charter should be agreed upon "four weeks from now."

The gavel wielded by State Secretary Stettinius at the sessions is made of California redwood, taken from a tree thousands of years old. It is banded with silver and is the gift of the state chamber of commerce.

Foreign Commissar Molotov was the only delegate who looked happy coming out of the secret meeting of the conference steering committee today. He showed his teeth in a wide grin when photographers flashed their lights. Molotov walked to his limousine one pace ahead of six husky bodyguards. Three of them kept their right hands in their pockets. Delegates from smaller nations looked weary and listless after the four hour session. None of them smiled. Neither did Secretary of State Stettinius.

HUGE OWI STAFF POURS PARLEY NEWS TO WORLD

Flash! Egypt's Delegates Visit Arabians

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 27—Elmer Davis' office of war information is having a field day—at American taxpayers' expense—flooding the far reaches of the world with details of the international security conference.

Like Henry Wallace's bottle of milk for every Hottentot, OWI reports are going to be furnished wherever there are people—unless they're Latin Americans—even tho professional news experts have come here from many parts of the globe to tell the world what goes on.

OWI has facilities for keeping South and Central America "in, too, on its version of the proceedings, but government agencies don't believe in crowding each other out of lucrative fields. South and Central America are the concession of the office of inter-American affairs payrollers.

In MacLeish's Province

This agency until recently was headed by Nelson Rockefeller, now assistant secretary of state, who came under fire when Latin American "good neighbor" spending was branded in the senate as a six billion dollar boondoggle. The agency is now under the general influence of Assistant Secretary of State Archibald MacLeish, the poet.

Because of the paper shortage and the professional service of digesting news to save the reader time, many speeches and conference documents are condensed by the newspapers and radio.

OWI, however, is loading its wires and radio with lengthy texts. Its photographers, with expensive equipment which the newspapers have difficulty obtaining under war conditions, are snapping celebrities and making movies for which the taxpayers pay the bill.

Many large newspapers have only one correspondent here. Half a dozen correspondents constitute a large newspaper staff and two dozen an excellent staff for large news agencies.

OWI has 22 news, radio, film, and language workers here from its Washington and New York offices alone, and a special staff of 14, to be supplemented from time to time, from its San Francisco headquarters.

Hundreds of Employes

But this huge staff is dwarfed by comparison to the total OWI personnel in this city, where the agency is concentrating on the conference. The San Francisco OWI office has 600 regular employes to join with the conference reporters in issuing its reports thru every known channel of communication.

The OWI is employing 23 languages and dialects in sending its reports by radio from San Francisco and New York to Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia.

The agency does not confine itself to spending American money reporting to the allies and propagandizing the enemy. It also makes its reports available to neutrals, such as Sweden, Switzerland, and Portugal.

The man power shortage does not prevent OWI from reporting minor news for individual countries. When the Egyptian delegates visited the Arabians OWI supplied Egypt with a full account. OWI's explanation: "It's big news in Egypt."

ARMY PHYSICAL STANDARDS NOW AT ROCK BOTTOM

Physical standards now laid down by the army for inductees are at rock bottom, Col. Leonard G. Rowntree, Washington, D. C., chief of the medical division of selective service, said yesterday at a press conference here. He explained that in the latest adjustment of standards some requirements were raised and others lowered, with the result that a better over-all screening was obtained.

Mental, nervous, and emotional ailments, the colonel said, are among the greatest problems encountered at army induction stations. But confidential information giving the background of registrants is proving a big factor in weeding out the unfit, he said. Thru schools and welfare social workers, he added, this information is now being furnished on 73 per cent of all registrants in the country. In Illinois, he said, the figure is 86 per cent.

Col. Rowntree said the system has been in effect over a year and he was regretful that it had not been adopted sooner because of its great value.

INQUIRY STARTED ON BRIBERY TALE OF GIRL WITNESS

The state's attorney's office last night was investigating the testimony of June Chapman, 20, blond dice girl, that she was to be bribed for refusing to identify Peter Boulahanis, 27, Greek gambler, as the slayer of Michael Dooman, 37.

Boulahanis is on trial before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Frank M. Padden for the fatal shooting of Dooman Jan. 1 in a tavern at 938 Belmont av. The girl testified Thursday that she could not identify Boulahanis tho she previously had pointed him out as the killer in a police lineup.

The girl was questioned in court again yesterday by Asst. State's Atty. James A. Brown. She pointed out Boulahanis as the gunman.

Later the dice girl told Brown she had received an anonymous telephone call about five weeks ago in which the caller said, "It won't be well for you if you don't change your testimony." She said the caller added that if she could not identify Boulahanis "it would be worth" $300 to her.

The case is scheduled to go to the jury today.

Baby Week Emphasizes Child Care

Society Tells Work

The 31st annual observation of National Baby week opens tomorrow, sponsored here by the Infant Welfare society of Chicago. The week is planned in conjunction with other child health organizations thruout the country to coincide with Child Health day, May 1. In the week of observance here, the Infant Welfare society seeks to draw attention to its work which, in 1944, included serving 11,311 children and expectant mothers, who called at the 21 welfare stations operated here. In addition, the society's nurses and nutritionists made 71,303 calls to homes.

4 KILLED, 8 HURT IN PLANE CRASH AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—Four persons were killed and eight injured in the crash of a chartered transport plane today as it was taking off at the Washington National airport. The plane, en route from Miami to Rochester, N. Y., burned at the edge of the field.

The dead: Mrs. J. Whellan, of New York City; Ralph Weisman, of Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. Ralph Weisman, and Theodore Funk, New York City.

Injured included: Mr. and Mrs. B. Bell of Forest Hills, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Nagourney, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Levy of Forest Hills, N. Y.; John W. Decker, the pilot, former employe of American Airlines, and Edwin A. Sanford, the co-pilot.

Decker was not seriously hurt and assisted in removing the passengers from the burning wreckage.

Two Killed in Indiana

Vincennes, Ind., April 27 [Special]—Two crewmen from George field, Lawrenceville, Ill., were killed and two injured in the crash of a C-47 transport plane here today, Col. Tracy K. Dorsett, commanding officer of the field announced. The dead were Flight Officer Paul E. Forker, 20, Albion, Ind., pilot, and Sgt. Monte Lee Holman, 23, St. Joseph, Mo. Injured are Flight Officer Benjamin D. F. Bennett Jr., 20, Pitsburgh, Pa., co-pilot, and Corp. William H. Heron, 23, Oakmont, Pa.

CLOAK AND SUIT JOB PROFFERED TO ROSENMAN

New York, April 27 [Special]—Former New York State Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, adviser to the late President Roosevelt, probably will be named to succeed James J. Walker as impartial chairman of the cloak and suit industry, it was learned today.

While no formal offer of the post has been tendered, it is understood negotiations are in progress. Rosenman's acceptance would depend on his being permitted to engage also in the practice of law here, it was reported. The position would pay $20,000 or $25,000 a year.

Judge Rosenman now is staying on in Washington reportedly at President Truman's request.

Former Mayor Walker still nominally occupies the chairmanship under a contract which has until June 1 to run, but he has assumed the presidency of Majestic Records, Inc., and is ready to resign the chairmanship when a successor is named, he said recently.

ARMY RULES OUT NAZI SALUTES IN PRISONER CAMPS

Omaha, Neb., April 27 (AP)—Prisoners of war in this country have been forbidden use of the straight-arm fascist salute, Maj. Gen. C. H. Danielson, commanding general of the 7th service command, said today. Gen. Danielson said a war department order, affecting both German and Italian prisoners of war, requires the American army right hand salute be used from now on. He added that all German flags on which the swastika appears will be confiscated. Prisoners will be prohibited from having in their possession or displaying Nazi emblems, insignia, or pictures.

LIQUOR DEALER SHOT IN 1933 IS WOUNDED AGAIN

John Falcione, 37, owner of the Paragon Liquor company tavern and store at 1104 Madison st., who was wounded by an assassin in 1933, was shot again last night. He was wounded in the same right leg, which was shortened by the 1933 bullet injury.

A gunman described as thin faced stood at the end of Falcione's bar, lined by 40 customers, and fired six shots at Falcione's back as the owner was ringing up a sale on the cash register. One of his shots also wounded a mailman, John E. Naun, 49, of 1522 N. Springfield av., in the back as Naun stood at the bar. The gunman fled in an automobile.

Twelve years ago Falcione was shot in a liquor store at 1538 W. 63d st., which he then owned, and in 1939 he shot and killed Dominick De Carlo, former member of the old 42 gang. He pleaded he shot De Carlo in self defense and was freed.

Both Falcione and Naun are expected to survive. Falcione was held in the Bridewell hospital.

CHURCHILL BLOC LOSES ANOTHER COMMONS SEAT

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 27—For the third time in two weeks, a government candidate backed by all the party leaders in the Churchill coalition has been defeated in a by-election. This was revealed today with an announcement that the Common Wealth candidate, Wing Comdr. Ernest Millington, was elected to parliament from Chelmsford, usually regarded as a Conservative stronghold.

Millington received 24,548 votes; his Conservative opponent, Flight Lt. Brian Cook, 18,117.

All three major parties in the coalition government shared the setbacks, in the recent contests, which some political observers regarded as rehearsals for the general election. Both Laborites and Liberals recently lost a seat each to Scottish Nationalist and Independent candidates.

More cheerful news for the government came later tonight when it was disclosed the official Liberal candidate, D. Seaborn Davies, had retained the late David Lloyd George's old East Carnarvon boroughs. Davies defeated the Welsh Nationalist candidate, Prof. J. E. Daniel, 20,754 votes to 6,844.

Service Men Vote.

Sixty-nine per cent of the Chelmsford electorate voted in the by-election, caused by the death of a Conservative member of parliament. The poll included proxy votes of service men and women overseas and of repatriated prisoners.

Millington, at 28 one of the youngest members of parliament, commands a squadron of bombers. He attributed his victory to the fact "people are tired of the old order." He said the result wasn't a blow against Churchill, but Richard Acland, leader of the Common Wealth party, which now boasts three M. P.'s, said he was convinced the left wingers "have nothing to fear from the myth of Churchill prestige."

Cook, who is attached to the air ministry, declared, "I lost on the personality of the bomber squadron leader, not on his policy." In parliament lobbies most M. P.'s supporting the government seemed convinced the defeat was due to the changed political character of the constituency, because thousands of war workers have come in from outside areas.

Labor Party Denounced

The Common Wealth party was organized by Acland, who, to prove his theory in the nationalization of wealth, donated his valuable estates to a national trust. It made a strong showing in by-elections last year. This fact, the party said, "conclusively proves that public opinion is swinging determinedly to the left."

The party has denounced the present Labor party because it "is directed by trade union leaders who lend their powers to building a corporate state, and political leaders who daily are being compromised by the policy of the coalition cabinet."

Ex-G. I. Robs 2 at Bar, but Passes Up 5 Soldiers

A bandit who described himself as an ex-service man held up Nick Van Hanxleden's tavern at 11044 Michigan av. yesterday but refused to molest five soldiers in the place. With an accomplice, he stole a $5,200 diamond ring from Van Hanxleden, $15 from the till, and $85 from Fran Curran, 7200 Kimbark av., a beer truck driver.

Houseman and Diamonds Valued at $2,500 Gone

B. P. Alschuler, 106 Le Grand blvd., Aurora, last night asked Aurora police to search for a Negro houseman, hired only a week ago, who disappeared yesterday, allegedly with $2,500 in diamonds, and $60 in cash. The man was described as 26, recently arrived from New York City.

FARM ORCHARDS, GARDENS SUFFER IN HARD FROST

Frost nipped hard at city vegetable gardens and farm orchards early yesterday morning causing damage which will be difficult to estimate until harvest time, agricultural experts said. The temperature dropped to 29 degrees in Chicago and the suburbs reported readings as low as 27 degrees. Ice formed in ponds and puddles in some places.

L. A. Boyd, director of the Michigan Fruit Sponsors, said peach trees in and near Benton Harbor received little harm as the temperature did not go below 32 degrees there. Some strawberries have been harmed, he said. In Traverse City, Mich., more than half of the normal cherry crop has been ruined, L. P. Pettitt of the Cherry Growers, Inc., said. Pettitt predicted the area would produce less than half of the 60 million pounds harvested last year.

In Chicago damage generally was confined to flowers and shrubs with some harm to vegetables. Grapes were especially hard hit around Harvey, Flossmoor, and thruout southern Cook county, reports said. Tomatoes and beans also were damaged.

The chief damage to crops has not been caused by yesterday's frost but by the continued cold, cloudy, and wet weather, experts said. This type of weather has impeded polinization of fruit trees in particular, they said.

'OUR BABY,' NOT U. S., PUT FIRST BY LEND-LEASE

Coax French in Africa to Accept Everything

(This is the sixth and final article in a series on lend-lease abroad by a South Dakota newspaper man who entered the lend-lease administration in May 1943, and served abroad until last autumn.)

BY RALPH M. HORTON
[Former lend-lease official]

North African lend-lease officials sometimes so far forgot their responsibilities as American citizens that they strove for the economic advancement of the French and Arabs in that area even over the welfare of their fellow Americans back home.

There were those of us who still felt the interests of the United States came first but some of the staff, and particularly some of the higher officers who had been selected less for their particular fitness for the job than for party loyalty and relationships to New Deal officials, were imbued with the idea of giving away as much of American materials as they could get the willing French to accept.

Barometer of a Burocrat

They seemed to possess that burocratic mania of striving to see who could get the greatest tonnage and dollar value tied up, looking on that as the indication of successful performance, and in doing this developed the tendency to coax French officials to accept anything and everything that entered their minds. They looked upon themselves primarily as procurement executives for the French and not as protectors of the American economy.

Fred Huber, one of the higher lend-lease officials in Washington, D. C., visited us in North Africa in the spring of 1944 and the lend-lease staff was called into conference to obtain from him the latest information about conditions back in the good old U. S. A.

Huber began his report by saying that "things back home don't look too good." He told us that in some categories of important supplies the United States was "scraping the bottom of the barrel" and that it was quite evident there would not be enough of all kinds of supplies to go around. Somebody would simply have to go without.

Ordered to Get Busy

With this preliminary warning, he informed all mission officers that we must get busy immediately on our 1945 programs, complete them at the earliest possible moment, and rush them to Washington so that the North African requests would be sure to be filled.

I questioned the wisdom of this, pointing out that North Africa was no longer vital as a fighting front and that if there were sure to be shortages, as he had plainly indicated, then the army probably could use the material we were requisitioning to greater advantage elsewhere. I also pointed out what to us was one of the obvious facts then—that the continent of Europe would be invaded before the 1945 programs could become effective and that would lessen still more the relationship of North Africa to the war program as a whole.

All of these objections were brushed aside by Huber, who informed me that "North Africa is our baby" and inferred that he was going to see that all requests from that area would be filled, regardless of the consequences elsewhere.

"Strengthen Their Requests."

Shortly after that, mission officers were instructed by Huber to give all possible aid to the French in wording the justifications on the requisitions. "They sometimes have trouble with the English language," he said. He instructed us to strengthen the requests where it appeared the French had not demonstrated adequate need for the materials when he should have told us to screen carefully every requisition to see that not a single pound more than necessary was sent.

North Africa had been an important source of food to metropolitan France in pre-war days, but the methods of farming there were vastly different from those in the United States.

Coastal Regions Fertile

While interior Africa is a desert, the coastal regions of North Africa are fertile, the best land being devoted to grapes, olives, fruit, and vegetables. Wheat farming is carried on mostly in small tracts of 10 to 15 acres.

The ground is plowed in more accurate description would be scratched] by a one-handle wooden plow, to which is hitched an ox, an ass, a camel, or a combination of these.

Lend-lease brought the biggest change in centuries when hundreds of large American combines were shipped over and the astonished Arabs were treated to a showing of modern American agricultural harvesting. Many were still in the warehouses and more were on order when I left North Africa, tho American farmers back home had to patch up their old binders and combines and get along as best they could.

CURB ON COMBAT OF 18 YEAR OLDS VOTED BY HOUSE

Truman Gets Draft Extension Bill

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 27—The house, voting to extend the selective service act for one year, today concurred in a senate amendment directing the military services to give 18 year old inductees at least six months' training before sending them into combat.

The bill, adopted unanimously, now goes to the White House. President Truman is expected to approve it. It extends the selective service system for one year, until May 15, 1946, or until the end of the war, whichever comes first.

The measure was passed jut after the allied announcement of the joining of American and Russian forces was read to the house to the accompaniment of cheers and applause.

Rep. Sparkman [D., Ala.], floor manager for the bill, said the announcement strengthened congress' position that no emergency now exists for rushing youths into combat with little training.

Army Objections Dropped

High army officials previously opposed the restriction, but it was understood their objections have been withdrawn in view of the victorious war trend in Europe.

Sparkman said the six months training proviso applies to inductees under 19 years of age in the army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard.

He explained, however, that the committee did not intend to apply it to men already in combat who have received less than six months training.

The restriction will apply, he said, to those under 19 who are overseas or in transit but who have not already been assigned to combat units; are still in the United States, or are inducted hereafter.

Sparkman further explained that the navy and coast guard are not to be prevented from assigning those under 19 to combat vessels and overseas naval bases for their training.

Army personnel requiring further training under the bill could be trained either in this country or overseas, he added.

Policy Under Fire

Adoption of the training restriction climaxed a torrent of protests in and out of congress against the army's policy of putting 18 year olds in front line combat after only three month's training. Army chiefs contended it was necessary to beat the enemy, particularly during the German breakthru last December.

"The conditions have greatly changed since that time," said Sparkman.

Rep. Harness said he would have preferred to see the six months training requirement applied to inductees of all ages, but the measure was not subject to amendment under house rules.

Some members expressed doubt the restriction as written applied to the marine corps, but Sparkman assured them it does.

Aids Paper Drive

A fleet of 1,000 trucks manned by 11,000 volunteer workers will pick up waste paper at the curbs today in a city wide drive described by John R. Robinson, general chairman for waste paper salvage, as the greatest ever undertaken by any city in the nation.

Bundles that will count toward the goal of 5,000 tons appeared yesterday in front of hotels, apartment houses, business places, and dwellings as a reminder of today's collection. Two bales of paper, weighing 1,754 pounds and 1,694 pounds, were contributed by THE TRIBUNE and placed in front of Tribune Tower.

William L. McFetridge, president of the Flat Janitors union, has called on the union's 8,000 members to salvage paper. Clay Smith, 516 Cornelia av., a janitor, has five tons of paper ready, McFetridge reported.

If any paper is missed in the collection, householders are asked to call Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets, at city hall. An additional 5,000 tons will be sought today in suburbs within a 75 mile radius of the loop.

TAXPAYERS GET A NEW WARNING; JUST READ THIS

More than 15,000 tax bills still remain in the county treasurer's office because efforts to deliver them by mail were unsuccessful, County Treasurer Schlaeger said yesterday.

He urged real estate and personal property owners who have not received bills to telephone or call at his office so they may make payments before the May 1 deadline—next Tuesday—and avoid penalties. About 5,000 taxpayers called for bills since last Tuesday.

The treasurer estimated that between 90 and 95 per cent will have paid the first instalment by the deadline.

Stewart was struck by Davidson's car in front of 3445 Dempster st., Skokie, after Stewart had gotten out of his car to inspect the damage caused when his car was struck by another machine.

ALDERMEN HEAR FOES OF HOUSING TAX EXEMPTION

More Numerous than Its Advocates

Opponents of tax exemption for public housing, as provided in the Kelly-Green program before the legislature, outnumbered supporters of the principle at a hearing before the city council committee on housing in the council chambers yesterday. Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman, said the committee particularly sought information on south side slums, where it is expected the five million dollar city bonds and the five million dollar state money called for in pending legislation will be used to make a start.

A third group of opinion, more numerous than that speaking for tax exemption, thought the task of rebuilding Chicago's 22 square miles of slums would require the best efforts of both public housers and private builders. One of them, Clarence W. Beatty, condemnation specialist in the United States attorney's office, said that if the job is to be done in less than a thousand years it will require practice of the Sermon on the Mount.

Speaks for Small Flat Owners

Most outspoken of those protesting tax exemption was Charles E. Fox, chairman of the taxation and legislation committee of the Chicago Real Estate board. He said he spoke for 300,000 owners of single dwellings and two and three flat buildings, who, he said, pay 60 per cent of realty taxes in Chicago.

"I have yet to meet any one who is opposed to adequate housing for all our citizens," he said. "But I feel that the families who must have public assistance should be given rent certificates, as was done during the depression, instead of subsidizing brick and mortar."

Fox said the building industry would suffer if private operators had to compete with tax exempt public projects.

Sees Subsidy to Industry

One reason tax exemption is advocated is that some industries have pay scales so low their employes need public aid, said Mrs. William F. Conlon, president of the newly organized Property Holders Union of Illinois.

Arthur Kruggel, real estate dealer and director of the National Public Housing Conference of Chicago, declared that tax exemption was feared without reason. He said that the tax load shifted to private property would amount to 6¾ cents a month on each of 15 apartments in a "de luxe" building.

Speaking, he said, for 3,600 Negro property owners, H. A. Spaulding declared that the Kelly-Green bills threatened loss of their homes under condemnation.

OPA RAIDS FOOD LOCKERS TO FIND HOARDED MEAT

Office of price administration investigators late yesterday began methodical inspection of the 2,150 lockers of the Dutch Dairy Frozen Locker company, 3316 Devon av., Lincolnwood, in a hunt for hoarded meat after Rudolph Malz, the owner, dropped his opposition to the inspection in the face of a federal court threat of jail. He was locked up for two hours before yielding.

Rudolph Malz

More than 20 OPA agents, under Homer Clay, chief OPA enforcement lawyer, took over the place. They immediately established a sort of honor system whereby locker renters will be asked for honest statements of their meat possessions. These statements will be checked against whatever lists Malz may have. If discrepancies are found, the lockers will be opened.

Expect Honest Statements

It is expected that the inspection, to be resumed at 10 a. m. today, will take all of next week. OPA inspectors said they expect most renters will make honest statements in the knowledge that the OPA has a court order authorizing the opening of the lockers at any time. The first locker opened yesterday was Malz's; it disclosed 24 fowl, ration free, and 10 pounds of pork, for which red points had been paid.

OPA agents raided the Dutch locker plant Thursday in the first of what probably will be a series of inspections of 20 locker houses in the metropolitan area. Out of 30 lockers examined with voluntary consent of the renters, only four were found to contain legitimately acquired meat.

Hoarding Blamed for Shortage

At that ratio, OPA men said, 85 per cent of the locker meat, almost all owned by private individuals, is black market food. They contended that this private hoarding contributes to the current meat shortage. One renter, it was said, had enough meat to feed an entire family one year.

Malz, who owns the plant with his brother, Eric, now in the army, protested the raid, and OPA officials obtained from federal Judge John P. Barnes an order restraining interference. On advice of his lawyer, Harry Adler, Malz opened his books and main locker to the agents, but refused to permit inspection of privately rented lockers. He remained in his store all night, as did OPA guards, to prevent interference.

Yesterday Malz was haled before Judge Barnes in federal District court, where Atty. Clay petitioned for a contempt citation against the defendant. Atty. Adler protested that Judge Barnes' order did not provide for locker inspection.

"My client did not wilfully disobey the order as it is written," Adler argued. "He has turned over all his books, and he owns no meat."

"Your client is going to allow the OPA to inspect the meat or he's going to jail, and it will take a writ of habeas corpus to get him out—if he does get out," Judge Barnes warned.

Court Refuses Delay

Adler protested that Malz might be held liable by his clients if he opened their lockers, but the judge suggested Malz get their consent or impartial witnesses. Adler hesitated. At that Judge Barnes ordered the deputy United States marshal, "Lock that man up." The judge indicated Stanley Pulaski, another of Malz's lawyers, and the deputy started to take Pulaski away. The error was quickly rectified, and Malz was led to the lockup.

Malz was locked up for two hours 15 minutes before he appeared again before Judge Barnes for possible contempt action. His lawyer announced he had agreed to the OPA inspection, but wanted time to notify his clients. "No, it's going to be done this afternoon, right away, forthwith," Judge Barnes said.

Malz then capitulated.

ROLE OF SEC. WALLACE TO BE TRUMAN TEST, WILLIAMS ASSERTS

The test of President Truman as a liberal will be in the use he makes of Secretary of Commerce Wallace, Aubrey Williams, who was recently refused confirmation as rural electrification administrator, asserted here yesterday. Williams is in Chicago to make a series of addresses before liberal groups.

"If he gives Wallace power, then I am hopeful of the future," said Williams, who added that he was watching "with my tongue in my cheek" the results of Truman's appointment of RFC Administrator Snyder, St. Louis banker.

Williams said the death of President Roosevelt had split the Democratic party "wide open" and that liberals of America, facing their greatest crisis, must seize control of the Democratic party or form a third party that will hold the balance of power between the Republicans and Democrats.

He expressed doubt that the senate, under its present leadership, would provide the post-war program that is necessary to maintain the present level of national income; he said this must be done if the national debt is to be financed. Private initiative will never do all the things that are necessary, and deficit financing must be continued to maintain the present level of national production, he contended.

Highland Park High Gets Citizens' Salute Today

The Citizens of Tomorrow program will salute Highland Park High school over W-G-N at 10 a. m. today. Arthur E. Wolters, principal, will be host. Phillip Maxwell, master of ceremonies, will add two names to the program's roll of honor: Marjorie Mann of Highland Park High and Eunice Guse of Marinette, Wis. Louis Calderelli, violinist, will be the star student entertainer.

OUSTED PANEL REVOLTS AT OPA 'GESTAPO' RAID

Protests Fines Levied on Waukesha Dealers

BY CHARLES CHEADLE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Waukesha, Wis., April 27—The 12 members of the Waukesha ration board's price panel, ousted today on orders of the Milwaukee district office of price administration, defied the OPA to take over their jobs and revealed they were carrying their case to Washington and to members of congress.

The panel members' revolt over what they called gestapo tactics of the Milwaukee office in going over their heads in fining Waukesha merchants for minor price violations, was led by T. E. Ryan, former Chicago hosiery executive who is secretary of the association of commerce here, and by County Judge Allen D. Young.

Each panel member today received a letter from John R. Gray, chairman of the Waukesha board, stating he was "compelled to withdraw your assignment to the price panel, effective at once." All 12 members said they could no nothing about losing their price panel jobs, but will continue their fight as board members against interference by the Milwaukee office.

Merchants Seized

"The panel got its first taste of this remote control crackdown three weeks ago when a gang of OPA agents from Milwaukee swooped down on a score of Waukesha merchants, hauled them into the district office, and fined them from $100 to $250 each for alleged price violations," said J. B. Crouch, chairman of the ousted panel and executive of a book publishing firm.

"All except a few of them were minor and unintentional violations, but we were treated to the spectacle of honest business men being clubbed into submission by an arm of their government and being made to pay hush money for fear of being branded as crooks.

"The district office acted in direct violation of OPA regulations, which provide that local price panels must be the first judge of whether a merchant is a violator. We are all business men and housewives on the panel, and we want to hold prices down and ward off inflation, but we do not intend to have another Hitler running this country some day.

Work Without Pay

"We have spent nearly three years on this job, buying our own gasoline, using our own cars, and some of us devoting up to half our time without pay. We resent being told by a former small college professor like Harold Smith, the OPA's $7,100 a year Milwaukee district director, how to do our job here. We know our people and we know the great majority of them would not wilfully violate a price regulation.

"The regulations are difficult enough for a lawyer to figure out and we can't believe a small grocer or furniture dealer or any other merchant is to be blamed and fined if he happens to be one cent out of line on one of the several hundred or several thousand items he carries in stock. And we will not willingly stand by and see Prof. Smith or any of his stooges come into Waukesha and haul our honest citizens over the burocratic coals just to make an enforcement record for Washington or the regional office to gloat over."

Ryan revealed he had protested to Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.], Sen. La Follette [P., Wis.], Rep. Henry [R., Wis.], and to Chester Bowles, OPA director. All have promised an investigation of the Milwaukee office, he said, and Bowles said he had asked Rae E. Walters, regional administrator at Chicago, to make a special investigation.

"Not the First Instance"

Rep. Henry, in replies to Ryan's letters, said: "This is not the first instance brought to my attention, and Mr. Bowles undoubtedly has a pretty fat file on the subject."

"The New Dealers are getting so accustomed to issuing edicts and demanding obedience they not only carry it out in Washington but even to the smallest community in the country," he said.

Ryan said his board was the fourth to clash with the Milwaukee office. He said three others—at Fond du Lac, Oconomowoc, and Beloit—had resigned en masse within the last two months, but that Waukesha members had determined to stick to their guns and fight it out with Smith.

Crouch said the 12 former panel members would refuse to take action against 210 liquor dealers in Waukesha county accused by the Milwaukee office of violating price regulations after a secret survey conducted by agents from the district office yesterday. Most of the dealers' violations, he said, were errors or due to misunderstanding of the regulations. All 210, he said, will be given a chance to correct their mistakes before the board will consider action against any of them.

Hopes Grocer Sues

He said he hoped one grocer, the victim of an OPA mistake, would sue the Milwaukee office. This store, he said, sold a health food product for 19 cents a package—the ceiling price as listed by the OPA—for which it paid more than 19 cents. It took the OPA 10 days, he said, to discover the price should have been 25 cents. Crouch said the OPA "would have wanted to put this merchant in jail if he had sold the item for 25 cents before the mistake was corrected."

The president of one of Waukesha's two banks praised the records of the panel members and promised them the backing of the town's commercial interests.

Assessed $2,567 Damages by Jury on OPA Charge

Max Cohen, operator of the Joliet farm market, Joliet, was assessed $2,567 damages yesterday for overceiling prices on chickens by a jury in the federal District court of Judge John P. Barnes. The case was the first office of price administration civil suit to be heard by a jury in this court district.

"Any new babies, Doc? I'm gonna sell a war savings stamp to every single person on my route."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

April 27, 1945.

A HEAVY rain on an April day causes a temporary cessation of important field work, but busy farmers usually can find some necessary job to be done in the barns while the rain fills their creeks and roadside ditches.

We visited the Wheaton and Fox River farms on a rainy day of this week. The Fox River workers would have preferred a bright day which would permit them to complete the plowing and fitting of their corn lands, and the men on the Wheaton farm are anxious to seed one more oat field.

Build New Field Wagon

The rain forced the Fox River workers to move into a cattle feeding yard for the job of hauling manure and readying the area for 49 Angus steers soon to be kept there. At the Wheaton farm we found the men building a new field wagon. This homemade wagon will be an important vehicle when the men inaugurate a new system of harvesting and storing hay this summer. A ventilating fan and a series of ventilating ducts now are being installed in one of the barns. Hay will be chopped in the field and only partially cured before being delivered to the barn for blowing into the mow. The ventilating system will complete the curing process in the loft.

The wagon which the men built is designed to haul the heavy chopped hay from the field to the blower, and a major consideration is the elimination of most of the manual forking.

Chassis of Old Auto Used

The frame of the wagon is the chassis of an old automobile. The rubber tired wheels were retained. A new wagon bed was bolted to the frame and later the men will install a sheet metal floor.

Before haying time the men will buy some sort of a crane or jack for lifting the front end of this hay wagon, so the chopped forage will automatically be dumped into the blower trough, thus eliminating almost all of the hand forking. Some farmers are making revolving canvas or chain floors for delivery of hay into the blower trough, but the men on the Wheaton farm believe the jacking arrangement will be equally satisfactory.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who do not have wheel hoes or rotary hoes, described yesterday in this space, can depend upon a hand cultivator with assurance that their plots will be well cultivated. In fact, many veteran gardeners who have small or medium sized plots refuse to use wheel cultivators, believing they can do a more thoro job with hand implements. One of the most efficient hand cultivators is the common type containing five semi-circular tines about three inches long.

This type of implement is especially effective for cultivating the soil up close to rows of onions, beets, carrots, radishes, and other vegetables having fleshy roots. Onions particularly require close cultivation, because if the soil is left packed around them they will not develop properly.

This type of close cultivation is not recommended for sweet corn, snap beans, and other vegetables which have spreading or fibrous roots, because disruption of the soil around these roots causes displacement which retards growth.

MOVES TO OUST OPA BLUNDERERS IN MEAT MIXUP

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 27—Office of price administration tactics, declared by witnesses before the senate food investigating committee to be responsible for the nation's meat shortage, today brought threats of reprisals from committee members.

After hearing testimony from meat industry spokesmen that the OPA's recently revised subsidy program will cause them to continue to lose money, Chairman Thomas [D., Okla.] of the committee said congress may have to use force to keep the OPA from driving meat packers into bankruptcy.

"First," said Thomas, "we will have to try to amend the price control extension bill. If that fails, we will demand that OPA meat executive be replaced."

Officials' Attack Read

The threat of financial reprisals against the OPA came after Thomas read into the record a press release from Elcon C. Shoup, OPA administrator at Boston, Mass., charging attacks on the OPA made before Thomas' committee constituted "vicious pressure group tactics."

Thomas accused Shoup of attacking "citizens who have a right to petition congress for relief." Sen. Wilson [R., Iowa] demanded to know by what right OPA can use money appropriated by congress to "circulate propaganda" against congressional functions.

"We'll probably take that up later at an executive session," said Thomas grimly.

The particular target of Shoup's statement was testimony given the committe several weeks ago by Wilbur La Roe Jr., of the National Independent Meat Packers' association, who told of losses suffered by packers' under OPA regulations.

La Roe Assails Program

La Roe today returned to the witness stand and launched an attack on the 10 point meat subsidy program, announced this week by Economic Stabilizer Davis as a means of aiding small packers.

"In some cases this plan will mean less meat for civilians," La Roe asserted. "The promised relief will be utterly inadequate. . . . Why not first bring the black market under control and then determine whether it is necessary to inflict this injury on legitimate packers?"

A chain store executive, also a witness today, told the committee "unrealistic and discriminatory administrative actions" have contributed to the present food shortage. The witness was M. S. Christensen, Los Angeles, Cal., vice president of Safeway Stores, Inc.

"These actions have brought the entire price control effort to the dangerously low point of efficiency that exists today," Christensen said.

Another Safeway witness, M. L. Langford, Washington, D. C., division manager, gave the committee a graphic illustration of the losses suffered by meat packers under present OPA regulations.

Tells Steps in Operation

Langford said his company bought a packing plant last year because it was unable to obtain meat from its usual sources.

"In order to get meat," Langford said, "we have bought live stock and, when fattened cattle were not to be had, have fed them for slaughter. Let me take a steer from the range to the meat counter for an illustration.

"Before slaughtering, the steer is fed for 60 days. There is a loss of $4.35 on sale of the steer from feedlot to the slaughter house and a loss of $13.84 at wholesale by the slaughterhouse. Shipped from Nebraska to Washington and sold at retail, there is a gain of $10.04. That profit applied against the two earlier losses leaves a net loss on the steer of $8.15."

Langford gave statistics on other steers followed from the range to Washington meat counters indicating that losses ran as high as $16.41 per animal. Applying the subsidies announced by Davis would reduce the losses by less than $3 per animal, he said.

CANAL BILL DUE FOR QUICK O. K. IN WASHINGTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 27—Prompt passage of federal legislation giving the state of Illinois full title to the abandoned Illinois-Michigan ship canal was urged today by State Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa] at a meeting with the Illinois congressional delegation.

Smith, chairman of the canal commission, said early action by congress would pave the way for the state assembly to pass enabling legislation before June 30 for construction of a superhighway along the canal route from Chicago to Joliet, Ill. The canal runs from Chicago to Peru, Ill.

Support for the measure was expressed by members of both the house and senate at today's session. Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] has already introduced a bill to give the state title, as recommended by the canal commission.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] said he would offer an identical bill in the senate Monday, and predicted it will be passed without delay.

WAITRESS SAYS MYSTERY BOY IS HER CHILD

Mrs. Evelyn Kenning, 20, a waitress in the restaurant at 26th st. and California av., yesterday identified the picture of Thomas Allen McGuire as her son born in St. Vincent's orphanage Sept. 9, 1942. She was questioned by Assistant State's Atty. Samuel Papanek after Thomas became the subject of speculation as to the possibility he could be Ronald Thompson, a child kidnaped in Dayton, O., last October.

Mrs. Kenning admitted she had given Thomas to Mr. and Mrs. James Bagley, 1903 E. 79th st., for adoption. She explained she had failed to appear in the office of the Begley's attorney, Rudolph Johnson, to draw up adoption papers because she had mislaid her legal documents and had forgotten the name of the lawyer.

The investigation began when Mrs. Begley, with the child in tow, met Detective Edward Kirby April 20 in the restaurant at 740 S. Wabash av., where she worked as a waitress. She told Kirby about the proposed adoption and added that the mother had disappeared from her room at 4539 Lake Park av.

RED POINTS

The meat shortage grows worse right along.

In Chicago, the world's greatest meat packing center, many people have not been able for weeks to buy beefsteak or roast, pork chops or boiled ham. A housewife boasts of finding a shop where kidneys can be had. Another knows where wieners are for sale. A butcher in one of the north suburbs nearly precipitated a riot recently when he was seen wrapping up a leg of lamb.

The meat shortage is something never before experienced. It is the product of the managed economy. The government has had full control of production, distribution, and pricing of all live stock and meats. It has never lacked for power or money.

Meat is created by the process of giving feed to animals. To have more meat, you need an abundance of animals and an abundance of feed. Corn is the basic hog feed. There is more corn on the farm than ever before at this time of year. There ought to be a maximum of pork for sale, but the receipts of hogs during April in Chicago were the smallest for that month in the 60 years that records have been kept.

The government cannot escape responsibility for this anomaly. Nobody has received as much discouragement as the hog raiser during the war. After he responded to the appeal of the government to raise all the hogs he could, he found early in 1944 that they couldn't be sold. After he was told to raise hogs with as much fat on them as possible and the government would insure him a profitable price, he found that the promised protection went only to those who sold medium and small sized animals.

Early in 1944 rationing of pork had cut down consumption so much that with the large production, the storage facilities of the packers were inadequate. Railroads were ordered to refuse shipment of hogs to a number of markets. Farmers had to board hogs for nothing, or lose money on them. In these columns we urged relaxation of rationing, and that was done reluctantly and almost too late. With this experience, when it was time to breed sows again last spring the hog raisers were determined not to be gypped again. The fall pig crop was the smallest in several years.

Beef producers have been treated no better, altho the full effects of the ruinous policy have not yet been fully felt. The first of this year, the total cattle supply was 81.8 million head. Deducting the milk cows and heifers, this left 47.8 million head of beef cattle. With the exception of last year, this is the greatest number the country has ever seen.

Our beef generally gets its start on the ranches in the far west. When steers have gotten along as far as they can on grass, under the supervision of a cowboy, they have attained but half of their full potential development. The other half they used to be able to get by eating corn and silage in corn belt feed lots. To turn a 700 pound steer into a 1,400 pound prime beef takes about a year. The gain produced by feeding is even larger than these figures suggest, for the growth is concentrated in the edible portions of the animal. A 700 pound steer will dress out at 40 per cent and yield 280 pounds of food. A 1,400 pound steer, however, will yield 60 per cent food, or 840 pounds. With a 100 per cent increase in weight, there is a 150 per cent increase in eatables.

How long cattle are fed is determined by price relationships. The differentials set by the government during the war have been such that long feeding was unprofitable. Beef cattle have been sold before attaining their full growth. Long feeders from central Illinois who went to Washington were told there was no place for their operations in war time, and to find something else to do. Much skinny and underdeveloped cattle have been coming to market.

There is more to this meat shortage, but the rest of it is rather technical.

Nothing within memory has been managed as badly as the meat supply in this war. With conditions favorable for plenty, our controled economy has given us a severe shortage. It won't be enough to eliminate the black market. The whole meat control machinery ought to go, and at once. Let the meat producers supply us as they always have. Washington has shown it is incompetent to do it.

ONCE A COMMY, ALWAYS A COMMY

Mr. Molotov's opening moves at San Francisco seem to have tossed his diplomatic associates into a bit of a dither.

When the heads of delegations met to elect the permanent chairman of the conference, Mr. Eden, in accordance with custom, which allots the job to the host nation, nominated Mr. Stettinius. Mr. Molotov threw his Russian into high gear. The interpreter said he wanted to pass the job around among the Big Four. When Mr. Padilla of Mexico quoted precedent, Mr. Molotov said that it wasn't a matter of precedent; it was a matter of prestige.

Mr. Molotov won this point, but Stettinius was then elected chairman of the steering committee and of the executive committee, where the real work will be done. However, when the Big Four representatives returned to the meeting to report on details for operating under this plan, Molotov was on his feet, protesting that there had been no agreement on the points under discussion. The matter was postponed for the day.

If his behavior was deemed peculiar by the gentlemen in spats, there is nothing in the pattern to astonish the gentlemen in shirtsleeves who conduct the affairs of local unions, particularly locals in the CIO, in which the Commies are constantly on the prod. Apparently the party line is cut to fit all occasions, whether a business meeting of automobile tool makers in Detroit or a congress of world saviors in San Francisco. In the union meetings the communist tactic is to debate, and debate endlessly. If precedent is cited against them, they say to hell with the precedent. If a matter is put to a vote and they lose they start the argument all over in five minutes, just as if the vote hadn't been taken.

One reason these tactics are often successful is that workmen have to get up early in the morning, and after three or four hours of pointless oratory are tempted to go home and go to bed. The Communists stick around and when most of the majority has left they put across their resolutions. This, of course, may not work at San Francisco. The delegates there haven't anything else to do, they're living on an expense account, and their hosts are straining themselves to find more red points for their provender. The delegates will probably be on hand to vote when the last commy orator has talked himself hoarse.

The delegates might well take note of a recent report in the New Yorker magazine on the operations of our army's Persian Gulf command, which was set up primarily to move across Iran the tanks, guns, and other munitions that made the current Russian offensive possible.

"There were a number of operations in which the PGC and the Russian army worked together," said the reporter. "Almost without exception, this was the experience of the PGC officers and men who did the actual shoulder-to-shoulder work: at first the Russians would try to run over you, but if you let them know at once that you were tough, too, from then on everything went fine. Since the PGC was honeycombed with toughness, the shoulder-to-shoulder relations were excellent. Perhaps there is a lesson in statecraft in all that."

Perhaps, also, Mr. Molotov has become so voluble in San Francisco because he found out in Washington that President Truman is a fellow who can push back.

THE BUROCRATS AND THE PORK BARRELERS

Prophets of the New Deal's planned society have the blueprints all drawn for half a dozen or more projects like the Tennessee Valley authority. Of these the proposed Missouri Valley authority is perhaps the most ambitious and the farthest advanced in plan.

The proposal is for a unified development of all of the water and land resources of the area. The agency that will do this would be a government corporation, similar to the TVA. Once it got its appropriations from congress it would be virtually independent of that body, spending its revenues as it saw fit and thumbing its nose at congress and the latter's accounting agent, the controler general, as the TVA has been quite successful in doing.

The organization would be ideal for realizing the burocrat's ambition to order the lives of every one about him. In the western states, where the river authorities are proposed, water is not only a potential source of electric power but also the mainstay of agriculture in arid regions, where crops can only be grown by irrigation, and an essential as well to successful stock raising, mining, and other activities. The burocrats who ran the valley authorities would tell industry where it might build and what it might make with the power supplied at public expense, tell farmers how to farm, and stock raisers how to manage their herds. The economy of whole states would be under the burocrats' thumb, to alter, or hamstring, or destroy, as their fancy directed.

Now there appears a knight in shining armor to defend private enterprise against this fate. The rescuer is the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which is beating the drums against the proposal to have this work done by authorities like the TVA. The congress is run by and in the interests of the pork barrel contractors who execute the various projects for deepening Catfish creek and building levies along Smallgullion river. Its membership also includes a number of the members of congress who have been most avid for these pork barrel appropriations.

The pork barrel crowd looks with considerable dismay upon duplications of the TVA because, among other things, the TVA didn't employ many contractors, but did its own construction. Aligned with these defenders of vested gravy and gravied vests is Honest Harold Ickes. Harold thinks no more of his authority over a single Indian, an Alaskan brown bear, or an acre of reclamation project land than he does of his right eye, and the river authority crowd would strip him of a good many powers now vested in the reclamation service and other park agencies of the department of the interior.

All of these selfless protectors of the public weal declaim that "it would be a grave mistake if the nonpolitical experience of competent army engineers [who on more than one occasion have done a flip-flop in their technical findings in response to political pressure] and the other old established government agencies were supplanted by inexperienced, politically appointed amateurs in the form of federal authorities or corporations." These authorities, the Rivers and Harbors congress and its allies charge, quite truthfully, would be free of many congressional restraints, would reduce the states in the areas where they operated to the role of archaic governmental units, and would establish a dictatorship over the basic resources of the whole area. Still worse, from the contractors' standpoint, they would kick over the good old fashioned pork barrel and substitute for it a hogshead of burocratic patronage and power.

The poor taxpayer, who is going to pay for all these developments, can hardly take comfort. All he gets is a brief stay of sentence, while the momentous battle rages over whether the burocrats or the pork barrelers are to have the privilege of plucking him.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of these cities is farthest south? Winnipeg Montreal Toronto Quebec.
2. Which one of these words is inappropriate in this general grouping? Gavel Ads Hammer Mallet.
3. Which one of these is a native American product? Tobacco Orange Olive Lemon.
4. The name of Izaak Walton should make one think of which art? Culinary Piscatorial Thespian Terpsichorean.
5. Pari-mutuels should make one think of which city? Cincinnati Boston Louisville Seattle.
6. Try to match the players named in the left hand column below with the types of sport wherein they would normally be found. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Goalie	[v] Track
[b] Southpaw	[w] Football
[c] Forward	[x] Baseball
[d] Anchor man	[y] Hockey
[e] Full back	[z] Basketball

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

MR. PEPYS MUTTERS

28th April—Spent the week reading the newspapers, as usual, and muttering to myself, "The moving finger writes, and having writ, begins again to write some more of it." Found the premises in which I work suddenly invaded by calciminers, which makes this a typical Chicago April, inside and outside.

Decided to do some invading myself, so marched over to the Majestic theater, which has been dead 11 years and looks it, to inspect the work on its restoration. Remembered when I used to spend my Monday afternoons there, watching vaudeville shows which contained performers from all over the globe, including dwarfs and gnomes. Shall make a point of attending the second unveiling of this fine, big playhouse whenever that happens.

Heard, in goodly company, an address on China's past and present. Learned that the T'ai P'ing rebellion, which happened almost 100 years ago, was a more dreadful affair than our own Civil war. Also that Li Hung Chang, Chinese statesman, whom I saw several times when he visited this country, had a hand in that fracas. Remember him as a gentle old mandarin, but it seems he was famous for whacking off T'ai P'ing heads.

Noted in the press that great numbers of well-informed people have been traveling to San Francisco. Don't they know there's a war on?

THE ALMIGHTY APPLE

An apple is a tasty thing, 'tis true,
But often it has started pots to brew
Of trouble. Once a handsome Trojan lad
Awarded one, and what a time was had!
And then, of course, there was the one in Eden
Which Eve gave Adam while the man was weedin',
Like as not, since weeds have no respect
For any garden, common or select.
Again, we have the rosy killer-diller
The queen gave Snow White in the Disney thriller;
And likewise that decisive bit of fruit
Which showed the world that Bill Tell sure could shoot!
But Newton's was a helpful little apple
Which led his scientific mind to grapple
With a law whose working was not found
Until that juicy tidbit hit the ground.
Yea, verily, that small orb of nutrition
Supposed to thwart the family physician
(Altho, God wot, there is no need today
Of striving to keep medicos away),
Has been appointed duly now and then
To star in history's show of mice and men.

"This Is a Good Day"—for What?

"This is a good day for conferring, making friends, writing, etc.," said my horoscope, and tho not a horoscope fan [for lookit what's happening to Hitler!], I decided to see if it was on the ball.

I had the chance to try it a few minutes later when, upon entering a restaurant, I saw a friend seated at a table with a gorgeous blonde. He didn't notice me until I barged up, stuck out my greeting hand, and said, "Well, hiya, chum! Let's confer!"

Apparently he didn't know about my horoscope because he looked at me with an annoyed expression and mumbled, "Scram, dope; I'm busy."

Then I remembered what it said about making friends. So I pulled up a chair and turned all my charm on the blonde. "Well, hello, honey," I began airily, "let's get to know each other better."

The look she gave me was enough. Meanwhile my friend rose menacingly to his feet, so I decided it was time to go home and see what I could do with writing, and this is what happened!

Do you wonder why I have no faith in horoscopes?

MORE THAN AN ISLAND

Okinawa is more
Than a distant shore,
Caught in the bloody
Vortex of war.
Okinawa is more
Than a spot in the blue—
It's an air-mail letter
Long overdue.
Okinawa is more

More than a terse
Communiqué,
More than an island
Turned battleground grim—
It's all of our hopes
And dreams for him.

Okinawa's a prayer,
Now that Bud is there.

Ever See a Wish-Ton-Wish?

The play in which A. E. G. saw Princess Red Deer at the old American theater [April 25] was no doubt a dramatization of Fenimore Cooper's novel, "The Wept of Wish-Ton-Wish." In Cooper, the Wept is a child stolen by Indians from a New England settlement, mourned thereafter by her mother. "Wish-Ton-Wish," scene of the raid, is a valley near Hartford. Cooper gives the valley what he believes to be the Indian name for "whippoorwill," but Noah Webster says "Wish-Ton-Wish" really means "prairie dog." The novel contains sorties, savages, scalps, and whippoorwills, but no dogs of consequence. It is Cooper at his next to best.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks answers questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents. Replies will be given by mail if stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice may be obtained from The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 So. Dearborn st., or by phone, Superior 0200.]

Mrs. L. S. asks: "Can letters and parcels be sent to any of the liberated countries in Europe?"

The postoffice department this week extended mail service to Greece and Belgium. Letters and packages weighing up to four pounds six ounces may be sent prepaid at the letter rate of postage. Printed matter also may be sent and non-illustrated postcards are acceptable. Letters and packages prepaid at the letter rate may not contain merchandise of any kind. Periodicals and newspapers are restricted to those mailed directly by a publisher in the United States to a publisher or a subscriber.

C. H. asks: "May a veteran receiving retirement pay also receive a pension?"

Persons who are receiving retirement pay from the army or navy and who are eligible to receive pension or compensation from the veterans' administration if not receiving retired pay are entitled to receive such pension or compensation upon the filing with the department a waiver of so much of their retired pay and allowance as is equal to the pension or compensation. Duplication of payment is not permitted.

OUR HEAT REGULATING MECHANISM

MAN, like other warm blooded animals, is capable of keeping the temperature of the blood and internal organs on an even keel regardless of his environment. The mechanism is regulated by several processes under the direct influence of a special center in the brain.

What happens when we are exposed to cold air? Our own little furnace starts working by increasing the activity of the muscles. When the need is great this may become visible in the form of shivering. Heat is then carried to all the organs and cells via the blood stream. To prevent cooling when the skin is reached, nature has provided a beautiful system of control whereby many of the surface capillaries are shut off temporarily, thus transforming this outer layer into a coat as efficient as one of wool or cotton. This does not mean, however, that we can leave off protecting garments when the north wind blows.

The opposite situation occurs when we expose ourselves to hot weather. The system now must eliminate excess warmth. Muscle effort is reduced to a minimum and blood is sent to the skin where it gives off its energy to the outside. At the same time the sweat glands pour out water and this maneuver aids greatly in cooling. Dogs lack the ability to perspire and make up for it by panting and drooling.

What is the normal body temperature? This differs in healthy people but an average can be placed at 98.4 degrees Fahrenheit by mouth. Readings over 99 are usually looked upon as abnormal. The rectal figure is approximately 1 degree higher. It is more constant and therefore preferred but, because of the inconvenience, is seldom used. In children it is more reliable as there may be difficulty in holding the thermometer under the tongue. Furthermore, the oral figure may be altered just after drinking hot or cold liquids.

Frequently the patient is frightened by finding his temperature low in the morning. This is part of the daily variation which may amount to as much as 2 degrees. It is lowest after a good night's sleep and highest in the late afternoon due to muscular activity and the digestion of food. One writer states that in night workers, whose hours of rest and work are topsy-turvy, the routine pattern is reversed.

Children may run a higher temperature than adults. This is more marked after ordinary play, such as baseball. In some youngsters there may be a rise of 1 degree or more. This should be kept in mind when considering the cause of fever. In the elderly, on the other hand, the level is likely to be decreased, especially on chilly days. In both these age groups heat control is more easily upset.

The level may be elevated greatly in soldiers doing strenuous exercise or marching with heavy packs. Cases have been known in which a height of 104 degrees Fahrenheit was attained. After a 30 minute rest period there was a quick return to normal.

BUILD RESISTANCE

J. M. writes: What is the cause of the appearance of sties about every six weeks?

REPLY

With recurrences of this condition, scrupulous eye hygiene and general health measures are advised. This includes an adequate diet, sufficient rest, the avoidance of excesses, and removal of any existing infection in the body.

ENNUI

N. M. writes: What disease of the mind occurs when a person becomes bored to the extent of nausea, vomiting, and crying?

REPLY

Many individuals become bored to tears but not to the point of vomiting. There's plenty to do in these times so don't let your emotions get the best of you.

INFLAMED LIVER

Mrs. R. writes: My brother is hospitalized overseas with hepatitis. Is it a serious disease?

REPLY

Most individuals recover from this type of inflammation of the liver.

"ACID" CONDITION

M. B. writes: Is citrus fruit bad for one with an acid stomach?

REPLY

The amount of acid in this fruit is so small that I doubt if it will make any difference in your symptoms.

ANEMIA

K. L. writes: Can infection in the system cause a low blood count?

REPLY

Yes, certain diseases are capable of destroying the blood cells.

The Long Day Is Ending

The long day is ending. Those who called it night over Europe were wrong. This was no nightmare, no shocking distortion from which we could suddenly awake. Nowhere in it was there rest or comfort or leavening. Its horrors were stark and bright, every line perceptible at all times in the unshadowed light of long day. It was incessantly shocking, incessantly mad, incessantly true.

Yet now at last comes the twilight. Now comes the dusk. Now comes the Götterdämmerung.

The Wotan who broke a bough from the world ash to make a shaft for his spear has seen the ash wither and die. He taught his children the power of doing without happiness and when he had given them this terrible training, he abandoned them to roam at will, the gleam of the snake in their eyes, and one by one he has seen them die. The shambling, twisted dwarfs with whom he disported also are gone, and finally he has called upon his heroes, those grotesque bags of wind he created, to cut down the withered world ash and stack its fagots in a mighty pyre about Valhalla. There he sits in state in the great hall, a stump of his broken spear in his hand. The gods and heroes sit around him as tho in council, solemnly awaiting the end.

High on another crag the three Norns spin their thread of destiny. Suddenly the thread snaps as they twist it. Man has taken his destiny into his own hands to shape it for himself. What he once bowed to—circumstance, environment, necessity—no longer to him are inevitables. Thru the air comes the surge of the Rhine, the lament of the maidens, the trolling of a horn, the cadence of marching men.

This is the overture to Hitler's favorite opera, "The Twilight of the Gods." Perhaps he can hear it now. The music is dark and baleful. The rhythm of death pulsates ominously thru it. The mighty strains pound slowly thru the world toward the one inevitable—the end of all things for the man and men who renounced love and humanity for wealth and power.

The circle of fire long has been broken. The ring forged from the stolen Rhinegold long has brought only a curse to its wearer. The Rhine overflows its bankr and the Rhine maidens, singing imprecations, leap out. Siegfried is dead, five million Siegfrieds of lesser, ignoble image, and Brunhilde is riding his warhorse, Grane, into his funeral pyre. In the distant crags, crags easily called Berchtesgaden, Valhalla perishes in the fire of Loki. Loki is the lie.

It is Götterdämmerung. It is the end. The music of vengeance, of wicked glee, of death to all opposers, has died away. Valhalla is in flames, and the only music is that of expiation.

The man who thought himself Siegfried can look in the mirror. The man he will see there is Wotan. When he walked among men, he left no trace but an empty wolf skin. When he looks at his face, he will see only one eye. He forfeited the other for greed. His spear is broken, his great hall floored with bones. The sword he forged for himself out of smashed bits [Siegfried's Nothung, he thought] had two edges. The edge he didn't want is turned toward himself.

The explanation of Götterdämmerung and the great trilogy preceding it was given long ago by Wagner:

"How came it," he asked, "that love, the highest blessedness to all things living, was so far lost sight of by the human race that at last it came to this: all that mankind did, ordered, and established was conceived only in fear of the end?"

Yet there are no fagots to pile around the Valhalla on the crags of Bavaria. The flames close but do not crush. The music that pounds inexorably is that of expiation. The flames are the sunset of a bitter day.

WHAT EQUALITY?

GERMANY, March 27—The Stars and Stripes of March 26 published an article titled "War Workers Units to Get Vets Rights."

We G. I.s probably express the opinion of a majority in arguing that war workers have played an important part in the war and are entitled to equal rights with veterans if they can truthfully answer "Yes" to the following questions:

1. Have you taken a war job with no thought of dodging the draft?
2. Have you taken a war job without consideration to the high war wages?
3. Have you worked unlimited hours without being paid more than your base wage?
4. Have you been separated from your family with no opportunity of getting home?
5. Has your life been actually or potentially in danger thru enemy action?
6. Have you been subject to regimentation 24 hours per day, every day?
7. Have you had to sleep on the ground or in foxholes?

To the members of the War Workers League of America who can affirmatively answer all the above questions we say, "More power to you." To those who cannot we say that we will gladly give you all of our rights for the opportunity of trading places with you and we will gladly accept a reduction of your present wage scale for such a chance. You want equal rights, but based on what equality?

The war workers lose sight of the fact that working for a living is an economic necessity for the majority of us and they are doing no more than they would normally do. They would be working in the same plants or similar plants because of the necessity of bread and board money, and the fact that the manufactured product today is a war material is basically of little significance.

MAIL TO ARMY HOSPITALS

Chicago, April 18—We are constantly being urged to write V-mail and keep up our correspondence with the boys in the services. Then why should there be poor service to the army general hospitals, where our dear ones lie wounded and sick, battling for their lives? Today we received word that a box of candy mailed March 27 for Easter, via insured parcel post, to Topeka, Kas., has not yet been received. Also there are instances where letters were never received or were one and one-half to two weeks reaching the addressee. M. M.

CONVICT COLONIES

Princess Anne, Md., April 23—There are still some vast, uninhabited tracts in the world, particularly in South America. Why not arrange to send Nazi prisoners of war to such places and let them build there anew? Former convict colonies, started with the dregs of Europe, now are respectable members of the family of nations.

To return these prisoners to Germany is like forcing a man to drink poisons already drained from his own body.

ENOUGH WORK FOR ALL

Chicago, April 20—A combat engineer recently wrote that the War Workers' league being organized might seek an unfair advantage over veterans for those who worked in war production. I would say to him that there is a movement afoot to pit the war veteran against the war worker. This is being done by a Fascist movement to break labor unions. Veterans shouldn't fall for this.

I am a war worker in the sense that our plant is doing almost 100 per cent war work. When this mess is done and the veterans return to civil life, let's all work together. I want to keep my job and I also want them to have work at good wages. Their taking my job will solve nothing. We both must work.

As the engineer says, "Labor, all thru the war, was and still is boss." When he gets back let's work together and make our objective work for all, and labor will stay boss.

LEO PETROSKEY

JOYS OF PUBLIC HOUSING

Chicago, April 16—Floyd Dana of the Chicago Real Estate board was quoted in an article today as saying that while incomes generally have gone up as much as two and one-half times, rents in Chicago public housing projects remain low. Our rent in a public project [Cabrini] was raised from $37 to $52.

Any one living in the Cabrini project is not getting a break. There are 3,000 children pushed together, all living in rooms with cement floors. Many have colds and sore throats from the cold cement. The only places where they can play are two small playgrounds, about 30 by 100 feet. Most of the children have to play in the streets or be kept in the house.

This neighborhood is about the worst for shopping in the city. If you want any decent food, you have to board a street car to get it. If we need more homes, let's have homes with an adequate place for children to play, and not places like this horrible example. These apartments aren't worth what we are asked to pay for them. All I can say is live in one yourself and find out.

"UNCLE SUGAR"

Chicago, April 24—David Darrah notes with disgust in today's Voice of the People that American soldiers in Europe refer to the United States as "the States," an unconscious adoption of a foreign term. Marines in the Pacific often refer to things "Stateside," but I have never heard our nation referred to as "the States." Almost to a man, however, Pacific marines speak of "Uncle Sugar," derived, of course, from the code words for the letters U. S.

FENCED-IN PARKWAY

Chicago, April 24—1. My husband was seriously injured when he tripped and fell over a wire fence strung around a parkway. 2. Can the landlord be held responsible?

L. T.

1. Ordinarily the lot boundaries extend only to the sidewalk. It must follow that the lot owner has no right to install such a fence, and your husband could recover from him by court proceedings. 2. Yes, if he is the one who installed the fence.

WIFE TESTIFIES FOR HUSBAND AS HE ASKS DIVORCE

The only witness appearing before Circuit Judge Leonard C. Reid yesterday in behalf of Walter Newman, 20, somewhere in the Pacific with the navy, was his wife, Catherine, 18, of 30 S. Kedzie av., whom he was seeking to divorce. His attorney, Samuel H. Shapiro, explained the unusual circumstance:

"My client is off in the Pacific somewhere," he said. "We couldn't even reach him to get a deposition, so I subpenaed his wife—the defendant in the case."

Mrs. Newman admitted that her husband's allegation of desertion was well founded. She said they were married when she was 14, and that she left him a year later, telling him that she thought their marriage had been a failure. And nothing had happened since to make her change her mind, she said. Judge Reid granted Newman the divorce.

SLAYING OF FARM WIFE ADMITTED BY HUSBAND, 80

Muskegon, Mich., April 27 (AP)—Prosecutor Joseph B. Legatz said tonight that James F. Thorp, 80, Muskegon township farmer, had admitted in a signed statement the brutal slaying earlier this evening of his wife, Florence, 67.

Sheriff's Deputies Charles Harken and Golden Huston, summoned by Thorp, found the woman suffering from severe injuries and a bullet wound in the head. She died two hours later.

Legatz quoted Thorp as saying he struck his wife once with a stove poker and twice with an ax, then shot her with a revolver, because she refused to obey his orders to stay away from a class for Sunday school teachers.

Home from Pacific

Capt. Joseph McCarthy and his wife yesterday after his return from duty with the marines.

Marine Capt. Joseph McCarthy, 34, of 5715 May st., a veteran of the invasions of Saipan, Kwajalein, Tinian, and Iwo Jima, said yesterday he believed the Iwo campaign will prove to be the toughest battle of the entire war for the marine corps.

The invasion was the worst he participated in, McCarthy said, because the marines were facing the best Jap troops, strongly fortified, and for the first time using effectively their adaptation of the German robot bomb. The bomb, he explained, is particularly devastating because it kills more by concussion and shock than by fragmentation.

Capt. McCarthy also said that he had met Thomas Morrow, one of the Tribune correspondents in the South Pacific area. Morrow, he said, earned the respect of every marine on the island for his method of gathering news. "Morrow landed with the invasion troops because he wanted to, not because he had to," McCarthy said. McCarthy, a former Chicago fireman, is visiting his wife, Mildred, on a 30 day furlough.

CIRCUS LADDER ACT CRUMBLES; 5 GIRLS INJURED

14,000 See Jittery Actors Tumble

New York, April 27 [Special]—Return of the "big top jinx" today brought unexpected and grim thrills to 14,000 spectators of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus as five girl acrobats were seriously injured in a plunge from aerial ladders at Madison Square Garden.

For several moments peril-packed drama swept the entire arena as a twin act in simultaneous performance almost duplicated the mishap.

A sudden outbreak of jitters was said to have gripped one troupe, a high ladder balancing act called "The Galassos." A team of eight girls and two men were performing on 40 foot ladders balanced in an upside down V on a table. At the top the two men were making head and hand stands on a tiny platform.

Girl Loses Balance

The act, next to the closing number on the program, opened smoothly. The girls were working on the inside of the V, holding the ladders together.

Then one of the girls lost her balance. The pyramid wavered. A long, in-drawn breath swept the crowd. Frantically the acrobats struggled for equilibrium. They failed, and bodies and ladders crashed to the floor in an awkward tangle.

At that moment the twin act at the other end of the arena also developed trouble. Carl Wallenda, who trained the teams in the twin spectacle, was handling an identical troupe of eight girls and two men when they also got the shakes. He averted a duplicate accident by slapping one fainting girl whose wavering threatened to send her team to the floor.

Meantime, attendants had run to the aid of the Galassos team. The two men had leaped clear. But the eight girls were sprawled in confusion on the ground. Three were only bruised but the others were hurt.

Victims Carried Out

Angela Antalek was carried from the arena on a stretcher, her right leg broken. Her sister Monsy, and three others girls Yvonne Tremblay, Jery Hill, and Violet Repensky—also were carried out suffering from injuries not immediately ascertained. All were taken to Polyclinic hospital.

Despite the accident, the show went on. The closing spectacle was performed on schedule. But the word quickly spread around the big top that "the jinx" was back.

Numerous mishaps of similar nature have plagued the circus the last two seasons. The greatest tragedy was last year's fire at Hartford, Conn., in which 168 persons died. Even marital difficulties have beset the circus, the Wallenda troupe of high wire performers having had near falls caused by the wavering of a performer disturbed by his aerialist wife having divorced him.

'ATABRINE COCKTAIL HOUR' ORIGINATOR IS PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Spencer M. Allen, former news commentator on W-G-N, has been promoted from captain to major and is serving as chief of the armed forces radio service in Maj. Gen. Frederick Gilbreath's South Pacific base command. Maj. Allen set up the first army expeditionary station on Guadalcanal. There he originated the program still known as the "Atabrine Cocktail Hour" which comes on each day at 5:30 p. m. to remind garrisons to take the anti-malarial drug.

Numerous listeners observed yesterday that if the San Francisco conference follows its practice of Thursday evening, it won't develop a high rating in broadcasting listener surveys. Molotov's long speech in Russian was followed by a complete translation in English, and then in French! Those who survived the Russian to hear the English translation dialed out rapidly when the third version came along.

DOCTOR'S INSTRUMENTS STOLEN

Dr. Maurice Cottle, 530 Hawthorne pl., told police yesterday that thieves took his surgical bag, containing instruments worth $1,350, from the vestibule of the apartment building where he lives Thursday night.

DRIVERS' UNION BACKS DAD TO G.I. BOND CRUSADE

More Chicago labor leaders and their unions yesterday signified approval of a suggestion, made in a recent editorial in THE TRIBUNE, that fathers of service men buy war bonds in their son's name as concrete evidence of their appreciation of the work of American soldiers and sailors.

Officials of the Milk Drivers' union, local 753 of the International Brotherhood of Chauffeurs, Teamsters, Warehousemen, and Helpers, said they would attempt to have their members subscribe to the idea as a group.

At the next union meeting, said Gus Moline, union trustee and business agent, the membership will be asked to support the plan wholeheartedly. Present indications, he said, are that every union member with a son or daughter in service will buy a bond.

Hundred from Union Families

More than 500 sons and daughters of members of the union are in uniform, he said. The union meeting will be held May 10 in Plasterers' hall, 330 S. Marshfield av.

Moline has a son, Wilber, serving with the navy in the South Pacific, and a daughter, Lucille, serving with the SPARS. Joseph Therry, union secretary and business agent, has a son, Wayne, with the army in Europe.

Meanwhile, private clubs also joined the mounting list of organizations backing the idea.

Athletic Club Joins Move

The Illinois Athletic club, 112 S. Michigan av., will attempt to get a full representation of its membership on the bond buying list, officials said; within a few days a formal campaign will be organized.

A special appeal also will be made at 8 p. m. Monday in Greenfield park, 5100 N. Ridgeway av., at a meeting of all members of the district office of civilian defense organizations. Frank Rathje, chairman of the OCD house to house canvass for the 7th war loan, will speak.

One step toward high level employment

In the 34th editorial of this series, it was pointed out that sustained prosperity, based on high level employment, was a major postwar goal accepted by government, management and labor.

That editorial developed the theme that, if the goal were to be approached without undue sacrifice of our essential liberties, we must forego the search for magic panaceas, and follow the harder but more promising course of analyzing step by step, and industry by industry, the measures that might contribute toward the end sought.

This is the first of a number of editorials following such a particular

AMERICAN JEWS' FUTURE WILL BE TOPIC AT PARLEY

Annual Conference Set for Tomorrow

BY THE REV JOHN EVANS

The annual conference of the Chicago council of Conservative synagogs will consider the question, "Whither the American Jew?" at sessions tomorrow in the Stevens hotel. Each of the 10 synagogs in the council will be represented by a large official delegation and by many members who will participate in afternoon panel discussions.

Rabbi David Goldstein of Omaha, Neb., will address the plenary session at 2 o'clock and four panel discussions will open at 3:30. These panels, each with a rabbinical consultant, will consider the following subjects: "The Jewish Community Tomorrow," "The Pattern for Jewish Youth of Tomorrow," "The Role of the Sisterhoods," and "The Role of the Men's Clubs."

Rabbi Goldman to Speak

Following dinner, Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Temple Anshe Emet, Pine Grove av. and Grace st., will address the conference and answer questions from the audience. Cantor Moses Silverman will offer selections during the dinner. Reuben R. Kaufman is general chairman of the conference under appointment of Leon Silvertrust, president of the council, which is affiliated with the Jewish Theological seminary of America, New York.

The annual community "Melaveh Malkah" [ushering out the Sabbath Queen] of the alumni and students of the College of Jewish Studies, 220 S. State st., will be held tonight in the Standard club. The musical dramatic feature of the evening will be a dialog and choral chant by Sidney J. Jacobs, presented by the Halevi Choral society, led by Hyman Reznick and the Pargod Dramatic group directed by Rozetta Alk.

Prof. Simon Halkin of the Jewish Institute of Religion, New York, will be the guest speaker, and Dr. Leo L. Honor, executive director of the Jewish board of education, will address the group. Bert B. Weinstein, president of the alumni association, will preside.

Presidents' Night Planned.

In Memoriam

LINDBERG—Hulda S. Lindberg. In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away one year ago today.
ALLIE.

OSKAR—Pvt. Bruno C. Oskar, U. S. A. F., April 28, 1944. In loving memory on your 27th birthday, dear son and brother, who left us a year ago today to join the rest of the glorious youth in flyers' heaven. But in our hearts and minds you shall always be with us.
LOVING MOTHER AND SISTERS.

PALMISANO—Maria Palmisano. Fifteen years since you left us, but your memory is always in our hearts and thoughts.
LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

SCHWARTZ—Rose Schwartz. In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, who passed away 14 years ago today. May she rest in peace.
LOVING CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN.

TREPINA—Joseph Frank Trepina, two years ago today.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile,
Little do they know our heartache
That our smiles hide all the while.
How often do we tread the path
That leads us to the grave.
Where rests the one we loved so well,
But whom we could not save.
Long days, long nights, you bore your pain,
Waiting for a cure, but all in vain.
God saw the hills were hard to climb
So He closed your eyes and whispered,
"Peace be thine."
LOVING WIFE AND DAUGHTERS.

WARD—Ena Tiegs Ward. In loving memory.
SISTERS.

Yachting Fans Eagerly Wait Racing Season Start May 26

BY JUDITH CASS

WHEN sails are unfurled May 26 for the start of the racing season at the Chicago Yacht club, yachting enthusiasts will be out in full force for the debut appearance of the Luders 16, widely heralded newcomer to sailing circles. The club is inaugurating a class of the new boats, which are 26 foot one design sloops with hulls of molded plywood. The first Luders 16 was built experimentally last year, and already three yacht club members, Samuel Clarke, Russell F. Moon, and Clare Udell, are awaiting delivery of their sloops, which will be named, respectively, Gleam, Delight, and Falconet.

In addition to the new class, "everything that floats," in the words of one of the members, will be attracted by the opening week festivities at the club. The tune-up races on the 26th will be followed that night by a dinner-dance in the Belmont harbor clubhouse. Another large competition is planned for the following Wednesday, Memorial day.

Meanwhile, pre-season dinghy races will continue every Saturday and Sunday in Belmont harbor under the direction of Alfred David Dowrie Jr., chairman of the committee and secretary of the dinghy fleet. Among the skippers who sail the little boats from 1:15 p. m. "until exhausted" are Mr. Clarke, Mr. Moon, Mrs. Dowrie, Lt. Roger Brett of the navy, Paul Cook, Americus Nye, Herman Van Mell, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hedden. Joan and Donnie Buckingham, whose parents, the Donald F. Buckinghams own the power boat, Circe, also have their own dinghy.

On the Calendar

Next Saturday's matinee performance of "Norma," by the New York Metropolitan Opera company will attract a large group of opera's "old guard" who never miss a matinee, as well as many young women whose years of opera going are limited because of their age. Among the younger members of the audience will be Illinois Opera Guild Juniors, who will be familiar with the opera because they will hear it interpreted by Miss Edna Kellogg at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hoskins, 199 Lake Shore dr.

Tomorrow afternoon in the Eighth Street theater the seniors of Barat College of the Sacred Heart will present an old Gaelic legend, "Deidre of the Sorrows," as their class play.

The Red Cross will receive the proceeds from the sale of water colors by Mrs. Laura J. A. Neese of Beloit, Wis., which will go on view tomorrow in the Findlay Art galleries, 338 S. Michigan av. The exhibit will be opened with a tea from 3:30 to 6 p. m.

A Maypole with ribbon streamers leading to booths from which attractive gifts will be offered for sale will provide the theme of today's annual spring sale, a Maypole fair, of the women's guild and auxiliary of Christ church, Winnetka. The sale will be held from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. in the parish house.

Wedding News

Miss Catherine Elouise Loucks and Ensign Richard Wheat Whitten of the naval reserve will be married at 4:30 p. m. today in the First Methodist church of Evanston, with a reception following in the Indian Hill club, given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon R. Loucks of Kenilworth.

With her wedding ensemble the bride will wear her mother's coronet of rose-pointe lace and a string of pearls given to her by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Loucks. Here for the wedding are the bride's aunts, Mrs. D. Ray Thomas and Mrs. John Harpole of Nashville, Tenn., and Ensign Whitten's parents, the Harold C. Whittens, and aunt, Mrs. R. A. Whitten of Minneapolis, Minn.

Miss Sue Ellen Loucks will serve as maid of honor for her sister, and their young brother, Vernon Jr., will escort the junior bridesmaid, Joanne Blackburn, to the altar. The bridegroom's sisters and sister-in-law, Miss Marilyn and Miss Sara Whitten and Mrs. Thomas P. Whitten, will be bridesmaids. James B. Carey Jr. will serve as best man.

Ensign Whitten and his bride will drive to his new post in Norfolk, Va. He received his commission Thursday from the midshipmen's school at Columbia university.

At 5 p. m. today in the Bruton Parish church, Williamsburg, Va., Miss Cordelia Anne Brinton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison Brinton, will become the bride of Roswell Miller III., son of Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Miller Jr. and grandson of the late Roswell Miller of Chicago and of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie of New York and the late Mr. Carnegie. A reception will follow in the home of the bride, Cumberland Farm, New Kent, Va.

The bride will wear the wedding gown of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. A. C. Morck of Oil City, Pa. The senior Mrs. Miller of New York, Mrs. Morck, and Mrs. Carnegie will be among the wedding guests.

The marriage of Miss Ebba Samuelson to Birger Nohlin will take place at 8 o'clock tonight in the home of Miss Samuelson's niece, Mrs. Enrique A. Arias, and Mr. Arias, who is the consul of Panama. Miss Samuelson, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Samuelson of Vestervik, Sweden, has been living in Chicago. Mr. Nohlin, whose home also was in Sweden, and his bride will live here.

Cabeeses?

A question, pliz. I have been losing a lot of shut-eye over this caboose business. The notation in the WCG department was gleefully welcomed and we thought the problem solved. But no, no, no! Do we say, "I saw two cabeeses," or "I saw two cabeese??????"

In all of my railroading in the office of the New York Central we always have referred to the plural of caboose as cabooses, but to settle the question, just refer to them as caboose cars and your troubles will be over. WEE WILLIE

One of the 1944 winners of Illinois Bell's bronze veil medal was Henrietta Ryan, an assistant chief operator whose initiative saved the lives of four persons. . . . Do you know the first words ever written on a typewriter? According to Maclaskey's "Shorthand Refresher," when Sholes exhibited his machine in Milwaukee there was a political campaign in progress, so the first sentence was: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party." The first machine went to a court reporter in St. Louis to transcribe an impeachment trial. . . . Thru the Looking Glass

It's a wise woman who makes it her business to carry a well organized and tidy handbag, with a place for the necessities—all the necessities in their place and nothing more than the necessities in the bag! Fumbling in a jammed, cluttered bag for keys, compact, or handkerchief is one of the less lovely of feminine tricks. And pulling out of the depths of that disordered bag any article that won't stand inspection is unforgivable. Rumpled, grimy handkerchiefs, old cleansing tissues, ragged shopping lists, and battered compacts are invariably a sight that displeases the male eye.

There is no alibi for any of these, of course, tho we imagine every woman in the world has been guilty of carrying a disorganized handbag on occasion. The grimy handkerchiefs and old papers are there just because we're too lazy to tidy the bag, and the battered compacts are there because we're too lazy to shop for a new one.

Compacts, when you think about it, are pretty wonderful American items. Good looking ones are inexpensive, so there's no excuse for toting old horrors. Right now, for example, the metal ones are reappearing, and more than ever we are struck by the fact that we get such high style, such good workmanship, and such durability for such small sums.

Using metals not needed now for the weapons of war, one fine compact house has recently brought out nine new vanities, none costing more than $3. These are in silver plated metal, with generous loose powder wells, good mirrors, and really elegant designs on the tops. One, for example, is a Persian pattern in the rich colors or an old and elaborate rug design. Others are in florals, just as smart and as exciting as the blossoms on new hats—and very nice costume accents with those new spring outfits, too. Two others are in streamlined geometric designs, modern and simple, that are fashion right with tailored clothes. They're buys.

An Injury Gives Girl Idea; Wins Tribune Award

An attractive young woman who once made hair pins and now makes artillery shell fuses is the 33d winner of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S War Workers Award and is the 4th Chicagoland woman to get the honor. She is Miss Fannie Kelley, an employe of Gaylord Products, Inc., a corporation whose president is a woman: Mrs. R. K. Gaylord.

Miss Fannie Kelley

Col. John Slezak, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, will present the award—symbolized with a diamond studded gold pin—to Miss Kelley on behalf of the award committee. The ceremony will be broadcast by W-G-N at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

A cut on the hand was responsible for the achievement for which Miss Kelley won the award: An improvement in manufacturing procedure that increased production of vitally needed shell fuses by about 25 per cent.

Because she showed special aptitude for the work when Gaylord took on its war work, Miss Kelley was assigned to operate a huge screw machine—the only woman in the plant to get such a task.

Shell fuses go thru several operations on machines of the type run by Miss Kelley. Before the last machining operation, the fuses must be thoroly cleaned because the smallest chip left on them might ruin them.

It had been the practice to clean fuses individually in a degreasing solution, but Miss Kelley tried holding them under a flow of oil from the machine's lubricating system instead. It worked—and saved time.

One day, in holding a fuse in the oil, she cut her hand on a sharp spot on the machine. So she set to work to improve the operation and developed a plan for a by-pass in the oil line that made possible a separate line, which shot oil under pressure on the fuses as they passed along the machine's conveyor system and which did a thoro cleaning job. This cleaning operation was made an integral part of the manufacturing operation.

Miss Kelley thus ended the loss of 2½ hours per machine in each 8 hour shift consumed in hand cleaning the fuses.

Fuses made at the Gaylord plant are for shells ranging in size from 75 mm. to 240 mm. They are precision products in which tolerances are held to a thousandth of an inch and they have been in such demand that the ordnance department took all that could be delivered, regardless of the contract size.

Miss Kelley was born in Faith, S. D., went thru high school at Pipestone, Minn., and has been a resident of Chicago 13 years. She lives with a sister at 2625 Princeton av.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. T. C. Methvin, Dexter, Ga.]

THE QUESTION

Whom do you envy most?

WHERE ASKED

Diamond Horseshoe preview, Stevens hotel.

THE ANSWERS

Mrs. Charles Hamed, housewife, 618 Willow st.—Many people have told me I look like Barbara Stanwyck, and how I envy her for being who she is. She never seems to get older—acts so natural and seems like such a grand person. And that husband! Who wouldn't like to be married to Robert Taylor?

Mrs. L. Robert Lewthwaite, housewife, 122 S. Waller av.—I envy Jose Iturbi for playing Chopin's music the way he does, and all piano music for that matter. I have phonograph records of great pianists and a collection of classical pieces. I always practice with the desire in mind that some day I'd like to play like Iturbi.

Vivianne Nelson, beautician, 3748 Irving Park rd.—Betty Grable. She has everything—a career, beauty, ability to sing and dance and act, a famous husband, and a baby. She can give her family everything. Her family doesn't seem to interfere with her career, either. I certainly would be happy if I were in her shoes.

Helen Rzechula, housewife, 2147 Haddon av.—Being a housewife and staying at home I don't get the chance to get out and meet as many people as I'd like. I envy the columnists on newspapers who meet so many interesting people and get to travel around the country. I certainly wish I had the ability to do that.

Margaret Cashion, housewife, 6448 Newark av.—I'm envious of any one who can do anything really well. I've tried to ice skate and have tried all sports but I don't excel in any of them. I'd like to be good but I can't stick to any one thing long enough to master it. How proud I'd be if I could skate like Sonja Henie.

Francine Wood, singer, Eastgate hotel—The admiration I have for Dinah Shore could almost be termed envy. She's made so many boys happy overseas by entertaining them. Her voice is so rich, deep, and sincere. She's my idea of a real success who will be remembered for years to come. I think she's truly a charming personality.

Use Thought in Choosing Baby's Name

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

How did you choose your baby's name?

"I've loved the name we gave the baby ever since I was a little girl," said my little grandson's young mother.

"If it had been a girl instead of a boy," I asked, "what name had you decided on?"

"We couldn't make up our minds," was the reply.

"Didn't you like the two I sent you as my favorites—Daphne and Diana?"

"Yes, I loved 'Diana'," was the reply, "but when we considered 'Daphne' I could just hear the school children turning it into 'Daffy.' Now wouldn't that be awful?"

As a matter of fact, it's something to consider [the possible nickname for a full name] in choosing a name for your new baby. But there are other things we thought worth considering, too, as we sat talking that evening after the baby was asleep. For instance, how does the first, or even the first and middle name you are considering sound with the family name? Say them over aloud. Also, if you want to give your little son his father's first name, how are you going to side-step the pitfall of his being called "Junior"?

There's also the matter of how your child may feel about a name when he or she grows old enough to care. An extremely "Fancy," peculiar, or trick name can be embarrassing to a child, altho, to be sure, some names which are classic really, and may be casually accepted in England, have an affected ring in American ears, names, such as: Cuthbert, Ethelbert, Cecil, Algernon, or Percival.

Name choosing for a baby is a serious matter. I don't agree with Shakespeare's:

What's in a name? That which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet.

To me, a rose just has to be called a rose—that's all!

Igor Gorin Sings With Marshall Field Chorus; Eddie Dowling Reports on "Menagerie"

Saluting the spring in Orchestra hall last night, the Marshall Field & Co. Choral society tucked its 39th annual concert between Hallelujahs from Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" and Vincent Youmans' "Hit the Deck," both delightful ways of saying the same thing. Cut down in size that its few remaining men might not be engulfed in a sea of singing women, the chorus followed Edgar Nelson valiantly thru oratorio, folk song, and operetta, with no mishaps except that it sang "Morning Comes Early" late. That was because Igor Gorin jumped his entrance cue, and every one tactfully pretended he was right. But when the Slovakian melody finally arrived, it was as buoyantly sung as Dvorak's "Heartache," a deceptive title for a lilting song about unrequited love.

Wrong entrance or right, Mr. Gorin was the hero of the evening. His singing is strikingly improved since I heard him last, and his baritone now has remarkably high range and flexibility. Handel's Invocation from "Radamisto" lacked the depth and breath [not breadth] for its ultimate expression, but it had style, as did his Scarlatti and the Haydn setting of Viola's rueful lines from "Twelfth Night." Here, and later in the brilliant vocalization of some passages from Verdi's "Don Carlos," he sounded like a man on his way to better things. Otto Herz was Mr. Gorin's expert accompanist, while the chorus was assisted by Grace T. Fredenhagen, Robert Yale Smith, and Stanley Martin.

Mr. Dowling Reports

"Gosh," writes Eddie Dowling, "we are sure the rich ones. We are sold out until the end of July—isn't that fabulous? In sending out any other companies I have specified no other company will ever play 'The Glass Menagerie' in Chicago but this, the original one. The next company looks like Pauline Lord and, I hope, Franchot Tone. I'll know in a few days. I have a play called 'The Stones Begin to Dance' that I may do next. I am trying to get Spencer Tracy for it. I miss all the wonderful people in Chicago. Wait until I get on my feet and see me come running back." If you don't, Eddie, after all those promises, I hope Frank Fay's "Harvey" drops in some night to kibitz your drunk scene.

Miss Martin Says Yes

Mary Martin said yesterday she hopes her next show will be "Lute Song," an adaptation by the late Sidney Howard and Will Irwin of a Chinese classic, which no less a star than Ethel Barrymore will direct. It will have a cast of 60.

University Plans

The University of Chicago department of music has postponed until next season its planned productions of Darius Milhaud's opera, "Les Malheurs d'Orphée," and the new ballet being put together by Remi Gassmann, Ruth Page, Maude Phelps Hutchins, Ray Hunt, and Alexander Calder. Summer concerts in Mandel hall will feature the Albeneri trio July 13 and the Philharmonic quartet, with assisting artists, July 25.

Song Recital

Nancy Carr, a soprano who gave a debut recital before a large audience in Kimball hall last night, proved to be one of the best prepared young singers heard this season. Because she is a personable young woman as well, she also is one of the most likely to advance to better things.

Miss Carr has both vocal and interpretative gifts. The voice needs to gain in luster and individual quality, but even now it boasts an attractive freshness, is capable of flights of brilliance, and is generally well used.

As an interpreter she commands an intuitive sense of style and has the enormous advantage of a clear cut enunciation that renders justice to each word, be it French, German, Italian, or most rare of all, English. A long and varied program emerged in nearly uniform excellence. For the moment Miss Carr seemed to excel in German lieder, particularly Brahms' "Wenn du nur zuweilen lächelst" and Marx's "Selige Nacht," but as it turned out these were not one whit better than Debussy's "La Chevelure," Chausson's "Les Papillons," or Ravel's "La Flute Enchantée." And in her admirable English she made much of Griffes' "By a Lonely Pathway" and Jeanne Boyd's charming "Balloons in the Snow."

Donna Esselstyn was the expert accompanist. A. G.

Repair Clinic Has Answer to Shoe Shortage

BY REA SEEGER.

A shoe clinic for ailing footwear is one of the busiest spots in town. Located in a State st. store, it is working at top speed to repair and rebuild shoes so that they will outlast the war. Besides doing repair work, the clinic has other services that have completely sold the shoppers. If you have shoes that are too narrow, it will widen them to fit you, and if they're too short, it will lengthen them.

Shoes can be dyed expertly, pumps can have toe sections smartly cut out, and suede footgear can be made smooth. Heels can be changed from high to low or medium. Instep bows can be ordered to match exactly, especially those dyed to match a slipper. Ancient footgear can be resoled, rebuilt, and made to look brand new.

All this tested service takes time, but it's worth the waiting. Since real leather shoes are hard to find, both because of supplies as well as limited ration stamps, there has been a dash to the shoe closets to dig out oldsters which have plenty of foot service left if they're treated to a good repair job. Such is the purpose of this shoe clinic. The prices are very reasonable considering the finished results.

'Midsummer Nightmare'

By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, assigned to them by Sybrand Jennesma, and cared for by Tillie. The Jennesma furniture factory, now making gliders for war, is in charge of Dirk Adams. At his country home Sybrand Jennesma is concentrating on plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention—a motor for a new type car—and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, chief owner in a car body company. Senator North is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley. The staff dines each evening with the Jennesmas. Jason Kimball handles the publicity. At Sybrand's request, Winnie leaves an envelope containing money at Hilda Jennesma Paradine's cottage. Hilda claims some of the money is missing and must be returned. Early next morning Olivia and Winnie are summoned to the big house by Sybrand. On the way over, Olivia finds Sen. North waiting for her. He proposes, stating his position would be a protection to her in case of trouble, but Olivia is not in love with him. Hilda Paradine was found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia about Hilda and her husbands, and about the occupants of the cottage. Olivia heard nothing during the night. The cottage was locked. Miss Leslie was in bed. Olivia could not state positively that Tillie was in the cottage. French has been told Olivia went downstairs during the night and took a knife from the drawer in the kitchen table—the knife.

INSTALMENT VI.

ACCUSED

This isn't real, Miss Warburton told herself. This is simply an unpleasant nightmare. She heard her voice saying quite steadily that that was not so, either.

"You were seen to take the knife."

For one earth shaking moment Miss Warburton felt everything dissolve around her. Had Winifred told him that? Is that what her agonized glance had meant?

"May I ask who accuses me?"

"I don't see why not. It is the cook, Tillie."

In her relief she was almost sick. "And what does Miss Leslie say? She sleeps in the room next to mine."

A brief smile twitched at her lips. "Miss Leslie is excessively prejudiced. I can hardly take any testimony of hers without a large discount."

"Would you call Tillie an ideal witness?"

"Hardly. But one violent prejudice against another simply doesn't make sense."

She began to shake again. "But Lt. French, how can Tillie be so sure about the knife?"

"Tillie claims there were five of these knives bought originally by Mrs. Klaas Jennesma. Two were put into the Jennesma kitchen and they are there now. One was given Hilda and it is in her kitchen now. One was used out in the barn and dairy buildings, and it is there. The fifth was in the cottage . . . your cottage . . . and it is not there."

"But Tillie must be lying about me. Surely you don't believe I could have done such a horrible thing, do you?"

He said with gentle reluctance, "Perhaps not, when you were awake."

"O, O, . . . but even in my sleep . . . murder . . . No!"

"But you do walk in your sleep, don't you, Miss Warburton?"

The fact that he was so kind, so sorry for her already made it all the worse.

"Yes," she whispered. "But not that. I couldn't."

Miss Warburton came out of her office a little drunkenly. Some one caught her arm and drew her out on the porch.

A firm hand pushed her down in a chair and guided hot black coffee to her mouth. She shuddered but obediently began to sip. The coffee began to have effect. Kim was standing by the porch railing, Winnie presiding over a coffee pot and cups on a table near-by, and it was North who was holding the coffee cup. Miss Warburton took it into her own hands with a bleak little smile.

"Thanks."

"What did he do to you, that lieutenant?" North demanded. "Did he try to bully you?"

"No, no. Nothing." Her voice was immeasurably dreary. "He was very polite. Very kind."

Winnie leaned forward. "Nobody believes it. Nobody! That spiteful Tillie has always detested both of us. She's lying her head off. The lieutenant surely didn't believe her, did he?"

Miss Warburton said dazedly, "I don't know."

She was too exhausted. What did it matter, after all? She leaned back in her chair and began to fan herself with a newspaper. The senator snatched it away and wielded it for her. "Relax!" he commanded.

Her lips twitched with hysterical despair. She asked him, "I suppose you had heard Tillie's accusation when you met this morning?"

"Certainly. The woman rises at some ungodly hour every day and helps milk the cows. She met the maid who'd discovered the body before she'd had a chance to tell any one else. They roused the two Jennesma brothers first. Then every one seemed to know it at once. You know how such things are. Sybrand came to me with Tillie's tale about you."

"But why didn't you tell me? Prepare me in advance."

"I decided it was much better not to. You'd have been too alarmed. I was sure he would see you were entirely innocent, by your amazement."

She wet her dry lips. "I suppose you're right. But I . . . I keep thinking . . . maybe . . ." She turned, "Winnie were you awake at any time last night?"

Winnie gave her a wary glance. "I'm not sure. Maybe I was. Just when did you mean?"

"Of course you're sure. You've got to tell the truth. No matter what it is."

"If you are going to be such an utter imbecile as to imagine for one minute," Winnie's voice smoldered. "But no. You couldn't."

"But you'll have to admit I came downstairs the night before. And I didn't know a thing about it until you awakened me."

"Don't talk like that!" North roared in her ear. "Don't even think such things. Get it fixed in your mind. You . . . did . . . not . . . leave . . . that . . . cottage . . . last . . . night! Stick to it!"

"But . . . how can I be sure?" North rolled his eyes. "Look. Be reasonable for a minute. You couldn't have come downstairs, opened that drawer in the kitchen, taken out that knife, and started across the grass without waking. The grass is simply soaked in dew. Were your slippers wet this morning?"

She shook her head. "I don't know."

"But you wore them down to the door when the maid brought the note, didn't you?"

"Yes. But I didn't notice. I could go back to see now."

"Too late," Kim by the railing put in. "French has a couple of experts going over the cottage with a vacuum cleaner."

North said savagely, "Stop tormenting yourself and us. I shall demand that the maid submit to a polygraph test."

"What's that?" Winnie asked.

"The lie detector, to you," Kim said.

"O, I thought that thing wasn't any good. Somebody said it wasn't infallible," Winnie retorted.

Kim laughed rudely. "Is the microscope infallible? Can the stethoscope make mistakes? Don't be so childish. It's only a machine. It's the person who operates it, who counts. They've got a captain at headquarters who's a wizard at it."

"But no human being is infallible, either," North said.

"No one said so."

"That's good enough for Tillie's case."

"Yes. Of course it's not jury evidence, yet, but the police generally get a confession after they show the person the record of his lies. Another thing," Kim added, "You can't be forced to take it. Tillie will have to be persuaded."

"Ha!" said the senator. "She'll take it, believe me!"

Mrs. Hazel W., Chicago—Here is a safe way to shorten the drying time of a child's woolen garments: I shape the garments, after washing and rinsing, and lay them between two heavy turkish towels. Then I roll them on a hard surface until towels are thoroly wet. Finally I place the shaped garments on dry towels until dry.

Nora T., Evanston—When one of my children has to take a bitter pill I dissolve the pill in ginger ale or root beer. It makes a hard task easy.

Treat Mother as a Good Pal, Girl, 17, Urged

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

"It is easy to find out things teen aged girls should know about how to act, how to dress, and what to say to be interesting, but why doesn't some one write something for parents. I am 17, and my parents think it is terrible because I want to go out more than one night a week. I go to school and I work on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights. Those are the only nights I am permitted to go out. I either will have to quit working or not go out at all. My parents say they don't approve of the way teen aged girls and boys act, they just 'don't like it' without trying to realize that there is nothing harmful in going to a dance or a movie. They never trust me. When my boy friend brings me home from work my mother comes up to me to smell my breath. I don't know if it's to find out if I've been smoking or if she thinks I drink. It is so embarrassing to both me and my boy friend. My mother makes sarcastic remarks to me when we are alone and in front of friends. Sometimes I think she takes pleasure in having me unhappy. Can't some one show parents that we aren't as bad as they seem to think? After all, we do like to have fun and we can have fun without doing anything wrong. I can't love parents who neither trust me nor try to understand. . . ."

ON THE SOLID side

And maybe you don't understand your parents, either. They aren't used to having you grown up—it might take your mother a while to realize that you're a big gal now, interested in a life of your own. For about 17 years you have depended on her for almost everything, and she can't realize overnight that you want to be on your own. You might try to make her understand by "talking" to her more often. You don't have to take her into your confidence about things which you have a right to keep private, but try to think her more as a friend, some one who is interested in you.

Make it casual but tell her little things—what happened at work today, something you heard in school, what your friends are doing. Before long she will think of you as an individual with thoughts and plans of your own. Don't do anything to humiliate her, and don't allow her to do anything to humiliate you. Your mother was a smooth gal herself not too long ago; maybe she's forgotten about it but you can help her to remember. You've been on her mind for so many years she might have forgotten how to have fun—but you can't expect her to stop living just because you are ready to begin.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Cauliflower Casserole
[Serves four]

1 medium head cauliflower
2 cups thin white sauce
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
4 thin slices boiled ham
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook cauliflower in boiling salted water. Break cauliflower into flowers and place in greased casserole. Add hot white sauce combined with seasonings and ham cut in small pieces. Top with crumbs and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. MRS. JOHN D. RUFFEL, 434 Pine Tree rd., Kohler, Wis.

Mystery Film More Comedy than Mystery

"HAVING WONDERFUL CRIME"

By Mae Tinée

Craig Rice has written a number of popular mystery stories, and here's a screen version of one, but I'm sorry to say you'd hardly recognize it. Aside from the fact that the characters include that well-known barrister, Michael J. Malone, and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Justus, his long-suffering playmates and assistants, any resemblance to the book of the same title is purely accidental.

Carole Landis' Helene is beautiful but a bit of a moron—the author's was beautiful and smart and could do a lot more than wise crack. George Murphy's Jake is likable, but very different from the man portrayed in the best selling mysteries. The one role that does fit without gapping is Pat O'Brien's, and the guy is good. He turns in some nice bits of comedy.

In fact, the film is more of a comedy than a mystery. As the former it's not bad, if a bit on the slap stick side, but as the latter—uh. uh. Pure coincidence plays too great a part, and there are far too many senseless twists and turns.

The Houdini act they force on Malone is just too much after following him on the printed page—O'Brien does it with good grace, but Malone never would, I'm sure. The authori's description of wild chases on Chicago's lower level, drinks in Clark st. saloons, and cavortings in Lincoln park, with bodies strewn about in warehouses—all interesting to Chicagoans—are missing. They moved the whole business out of our fascinating city to an anonymous sort of resort.

Come, come, folks, you bought a good story—why the heck didn't you use it?

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 27—My friend, the late Irvin S. Cobb, said, "The host always gets the short end of the deal." So, quite correctly, the American delegation took rear seats at opening sessions of the allied nations' conference. Other nations were placed in alphabetical order. This arrangement brought Russia's Molotov half way back in the hall. That apple cheeked little gent has caught the public fancy. He and the Arabian contingent get the loudest cheers from the man on the street. . . . This is the first time in the history of San Francisco's opera house that an assembled crowd did not hear "The Star Spangled Banner" played. The host nation couldn't play its national anthem without doing as much for all the other nations. And 46 national anthems might have been a little thick. Besides, Saudi Arabia has none. And one other country has one that our bands can't manage. You guess which country it is.

Truly a Modern Babel

Delegate Soong and his Chinese cohorts strolled in slowly, conversing audibly in their own language. "That's Mandarin," explained an onlooker to his lady. "Don't be silly," was her comeback, "Mandarin isn't a language—it's an orange." . . . When the cautious city equipped its roofs with anti-aircraft guns air raid instructions were posted in the hotel corridors. Which prompted one of my sex to chirp, "O, look at the funny old air raid notice that's been here ever since the war!" Joking aside, women of the conference are brilliant and a wide variety of types. Mme. Bonnet has a weary chic, emphasized by her slenderness. And the ageless beauty of China is seen to perfection in young Madame Soong. Soignee is the word for Mexico's Senora Santacilia. And for that little-brown-wren look there is British Laborite Ellen Wilkinson, whose hands and eyes and tongue seldom are still.

What a Strong Woman

And, speaking of things falling apart, Hollywood just phoned me that Joan Leslie put a crick in Edward Arnold's neck while doing a massaging scene from "Janie Gets Married." It was only a sprained ligament, doctors said, but for a time it looked as if the 200 pound heman was in for real trouble. You see, Joan has been a jujitsu student for some time now. She just doesn't know her own strength! . . . The delegates who have been grousing about cramped

ZION MAN FALLS; SECOND SOLDIER IN FAMILY TO DIE

Aurora Private Killed on German Front

PVT. FRED R. McNABB, 21, was killed in Germany on April 16 while serving with the 7th army, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. McNabb, 2716 Gilboa av., Zion, were informed yesterday. Pvt. He was wounded in North Africa and later in Italy. His brother, Pvt. Raymond, 17, a marine, was wounded on Iwo Island.

PVT. DONALD TEMPLETON, 19, of 1131 S. Linden av., Highland Park, is reported missing in Germany as of April 7, his wife, Barbara, said yesterday. Pvt. Templeton was graduated from Highland Park High school. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Templeton Sr., live at 565 S. Linden av., Highland Park.

SGT. ROBERT DEAN, 27, who had been reported missing in action Dec. 21, is a prisoner of war in Germany, his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Dean, 6957 Greenview av., have learned. He has been in the army two years.

CHARGE FARMER WITH RAPING HIS STEPDAUGHTER

Charged with raping his 11 year old stepdaughter, Homer Byrnes, 33, farmer residing near Kankakee, was bound over to the grand jury under $3,500 bond yesterday after the stepdaughter told the court that Byrnes had raped her on four occasions from April 15 to 24.

The girl, Geraldine Lewis, a fifth grade pupil, testified under questioning by State's Atty. Joseph Tolson that her stepfather visited her in her bedroom on April 15 and 16.

Mrs. Byrnes, the child's mother, testified that she had grown suspicious of her husband's actions and had confirmed her suspicions when she heard thru a floor register a conversation between the couple. She also said she surprised her husband and her daughter in the girl's bedroom once.

JOE'S 80 AND HIS DRINKING MAKES A JUDGE CURIOUS

A charge of assault and battery filed by Anthony Michaelski, 73, of 2421 W. 45th st., against his brother, Joseph, 80, of 4416 W. 36th st., was dismissed in Stock Yards court yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli, who advised them not to let slight differences mar their declining years. Anthony said his brother struck him with a cane in Anthony's home on April 21. "He drinks," Anthony said. The judge then asked: "What kind of whisky does he drink? I want to look as spry when I'm 80."

COATS STOLEN FROM TRUCK

Jack Handleman, 5911 Bernard st., told police yesterday that three fur trim coats, valued at $150, were stolen from his truck in the vicinity of Chicago and Ashland avs.

Y. M. C. A. HEAD AVERS COLLEGE WILL CONTINUE

The Central Y. M. C. A. college, 19 S. La Salle st., will continue to function as a part of the Y. M. C. A., and a committee of faculty members has refused to follow the lead of their colleagues whose resignations were "designed to destroy the college," James F. Oates Jr., president of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. said yesterday.

In a five point program beginning with the continuance of a "complete schedule of classes," the faculty committee authorized Walter D. Gilliland, acting president, "to take effective measures to restore the faculty." The committee also ordered three faculty members to the board with full voting rights, promised to continue relationship with the Chicago Y. M. C. A. and asked in turn, that the Y. M. C. A. give public assurance of "its continued interest and financial support."

The college lost several faculty members recently after the resignation of President Edward J. Sparling, who expressed a desire to found a new college. On the heels of the resignation, publicly stated charges of race discrimination and interference with academic freedom were made against the college. Early this week, students held a mass meeting protesting President Sparling's resignation.

GIVE ARMY RITES TO 3D OF 6 SONS IN FORCES TO DIE

Eleven soldiers from Camp Skokie participated yesterday in a military funeral of St. Ladislaus church for Lt. Chester W. Mrozek, 24, of the army air forces, third of six brothers to die in uniform. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mrozek of 5129 Roscoe st., Lt. Mrozek was killed in a plane crash near Sweetwater, Tex., April 20, while en route home on an emergency leave. He had served as a bombardier on a B-17 with the 8th air force over Germany.

His death occurred a week after the family had been notified of the loss of his brother, Staff Sgt. Stanley Mrozek, 28, on Luzon on March 30. Sgt. Edward Mrozek, 31, was killed in France last July.

Of the remaining three brothers in uniform, two are in Germany, and one is in Hawaii. Members of the family said yesterday that application had been made to the adjutant general to have them all put on nonhazardous assignments.

CIO DEFEATED IN PLANT VOTE AT STEEL FIRM

Despite a ruling of the national labor relations board which bars company employes in the military forces from taking part in NLRB elections, the Progressive Steel Workers' union [independent] defeated a local of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO] in a vote at the Wisconsin Steel company yesterday, Walker Butler, attorney for the independent union, announced.

Claude Crowe, president of the independent union, had protested the board's ruling, because it barred 1,600 service men on leave from the company from participating in the election. The CIO had petitioned for the election in the absence of the employes.

SON CONFESSES HE FIRED FATAL SHOT AT MOTHER

Baltimore, Md., April 27 [Special]—James Smiley, 15, who had been sought since Monday night for the slaying of his foster mother, Mrs. Edna Lindell Smiley, 46, of 1100 Hinman av., Evanston, Ill., at their Michigan cottage, was being held at the Western police station here today after telling police officers he had shot her.

At Big Rapids, Mich., where the slaying took place, Prosecuting Atty. Fred R. Everett prepared extradition papers for Smiley's return. He and Sheriff Judd Arnold will go to Lansing, Mich., tomorrow to have Gov. Harry F. Kelly sign them, after which they will go to Baltimore.

Police Capt. John R. Hollman said James had agreed to waive extradition, but would be taken before a Baltimore Supreme bench justice tomorrow for the formality of a hearing.

Walks Into Station

Young Smiley, shivering from the cold, walked into the police station at 3 a. m. today. Dressed only in trousers, a pullover sweater, and shoes but no socks, he said he wanted to place a sleep for the night.

In the morning Patrolman Charles Slipper told Lt. Louis Vinup the young man tallied with the description of the one wanted for the Michigan slaying. Questioned by the lieutenant, James admitted the shooting.

James said he had had a quarrel with his foster mother "about five days ago." After brooding over it, he took a .22 caliber rifle his father had given him and shot his foster mother, he related, and then ran away without waiting to see how badly she was hurt.

Smiley said he boarded a train at Chicago, got off at a town "about a hundred miles from Baltimore," and hitch-hiked here aboard a truck.

A Michigan autopsy had indicated that Mrs. Smiley was killed last Saturday. James had been missing since 10 a. m. Sunday when he checked out of a Big Rapids hotel where he and a chum, James Hayes, 15, had spent the night. Mrs. Smiley's body was found Monday night by a neighbor.

Support of Father

Clinton E. Smiley, the boy's foster father, said in Evanston that he would stand behind his son until "something is proved." He disclosed he has retained Don H. Worcester, a Big Rapids attorney, to defend his son.

"I believe the shooting was an accident," Smiley said.

STATE CAPITOL, OFFICES ON LAKE FRONT PROPOSED

Erection by the state of Illinois of an office building to house all its Chicago activities, on the north side of Randoph st. east of Michigan av., overlooking Grant park, was suggested yesterday by the North Central association. It also urged that a new state capitol be erected at Randolph st. and Eriksen dr., adjoining the proposed office building.

The association will submit its proposals to the office facilities commission, created to explore the possibilities of centralizing the state's Chicago offices now scattered about in 24 buildings, said Arthur J. Dalies of Ogden, Sheldon & Co., a member of the association's committee on development and promotion.

The proposed office building would be directly east of the site suggested for a great new railway terminal housing all railroads entering Chicago from the south. Tentative plans for an eight story office building would provide 528,000 square feet of floor space. This would equal the floor area of the Burnham and Le Moyne buildings now being considered by the state, Dalies said.

The proposed location would have the advantage of accessibility to the loop and near north side, would be close to a great terminal, and would overlook Chicago's lake front park area, Dalies said.

Traveling Beautician Loses His Gas Rations

Ralph Love, 3140 Sheridan rd., the beauty parlor owner who told his ration board he pooled his B coupons with another man's to visit Miami this winter, has been penalized by revocation of his gasoline rations, S. S. Sennot, chairman of board 44, said yesterday.

DOG WHICH SLEW CHILD REFUSED STAY BY COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27 (AP)—Superior Judge William R. McKay today denied a petition which sought to prevent destruction of Woof, a Staffordshire bull terrier that killed a 21 month old baby Feb. 13, on the ground that the court lacked jurisdiction.

However, an attorney for Grady Terry, a restaurant operator who is trying to save the dog's life, immediately filed a suit against the city to prevent Woof's execution.

Terry's complaint asserted that the owners of the dog, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Charles P. Derdenger, gave up all rights to the dog by turning it over to the city pound, and that city officials must now sell the dog when a bona fide offer is made.

CUBS BEAT PIRATES, 7-3, FOR 5TH STRAIGHT

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN, an ardent football fan, has seen three of Chicago's All-Star games. . . . A few days before President Roosevelt's death Dr. D. M. Nigro of Kansas City wrote a letter to Vice President Truman. . . . Several days later he received a reply with this postscript: "Since I received your letter I have become President. Pray for me." . . . The rumor persists that Bill Veeck soon will head a group that will buy the White Sox. . . . A survey among owners at their recent Chicago meeting disclosed that more than 75 players have been signed by teams in the All-America Football conference. . . . Desk Officer

I know a man who's done a job
In World Wars One and Two,
Yet never left these shores at all
Hard the he tried to do.
He signed up as a kid in One—
At middle age in Two;
And in each case he volunteered
To see a duty thru.

He donned a brown suit, first time
And wore it some two years,
Then changed it for a pin-stripe suit
When peace allayed our fears.
He carved his place in business then
For more than 20 years,
Until another war came on
To drench a world in tears.

This time a chance for service came
By wearing navy's blue,
With gold stripes added this time, tho.
To aid the job to do.
With common sense, plus judgment,
He's done, without ado,
A tougher job than many men,
To face the whole thing thru.

Two years in One, three years in Two—
Five years of service done.
No medals, decorations, his,
Nor does he think of one.
He's just a guy in uniform
To help a job get done
And carry out his orders
Till Victory is won.

DRAKE RELAYS SPOTLIGHT ON ILLINOIS TODAY

Expect Illini Mile Team to Win

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Des Moines, Ia., April 27—More than 500 high school athletes opened the 36th annual Drake relays this afternoon in preliminary competition for the men from 39 colleges and universities who will carry on tomorrow. The carnival was watched by more than 5,000 youngsters whose lusty voices gave evidence that the finals of this outstanding midwestern meet would be seen by a throng of near record proportions.

For tomorrow, despite the record breaking efforts of the interscholastic races, the University of Illinois holds the center of attention. The Illini won three relay events a year ago and, while they cannot match that, the Illinois mile relay team is considered the best in the nation.

Three Defending Champions

Ken Wiesner, Marquette high jumper; Harold [Whitey] Fisher, Miami [O.] university hurdler, and Bill Bangert, Missouri shotputter, will be defending champions. All of the Western conference universities except Michigan and Ohio State have filed entries or sent tentative lists.

The Wolverines, champions of the Big Ten, definitely are committed to the Pennsylvania relays and Ohio State's depleted squad also will go to Philadelphia. University of Texas, particularly strong in the sprints and the sprint medley, tops the entries from the Southwest conference and adjacent territory.

Garland Adair, former University of Texas star now stationed at the Bremerton [Wash.] navy base, has entered the javelin throw. In 1941 he won the national collegiate title with a throw of 204 feet 2¾ inches but did not place in the Drake relays that spring. Of special interest to Des Moines is the entry of Billy Moore, former Drake freshman, in the pole vault. Moore, now a navy student at Western Michigan after duty in the South Pacific, won the national A. A. U. indoor vault title.

Illini Hopes Bright

Illinois won the 440 yard, half mile, mile, and sprint medley relays last year in the University division. The Illini squad may not be as strong in these short relays because of loss of Claude Young, who also won the Drake 100 yard individual championship. But Bob Kelley and Marc Gonzales, veterans of the 1944 mile relay team, will return and Illinois looms as the best in this event.

This year's Illini mile relay quartet—Bill Buster, Gonzales, Joe Johnson, and Kelley—won the Big Ten indoor title handily in the University of Chicago fieldhouse last month. The same team broke the mile record in the Purdue relays with a mark of 3:22.8. Kelley also may be featured in the quarter mile individual invitational race.

Five Prep Records Set

Today's program of high school activity produced five new records for the relays.

Joe Paulson of Davenport threw a football 207.79 feet for one of the marks. The Wilson High school team of Cedar Rapids ran the sprint medley in 3:47.6. Bob Nelson of North Des Moines put the 12 pound shot 49 feet 2¼ inches. Jim Burlingame of Clinton ran the 100 yard dash in 10.4 seconds, while three boys tied for a new pole vault record at 11 feet 6⅛ inches. They are Harold Lutz of Clinton, Jess Palmer of Hampton, and John Wilson of Iowa City. Wilson later came back to win the high jump.

SCHOTT GAINS 37TH TRIUMPH IN GRANT BOUT

New York, April 27 (AP)—Undefeated Freddy Schott, of Akron, O., now fighting out of Paterson, N. J., won his 37th straight bout tonight by outpointing Billy Grant, Orange, N. J., in a 10 round bout in St. Nick's arena. It was a unanimous decision.

As in their previous three meetings, it was a punch-crammed bout altho Schott held the upper hand in virtually every round. Weighing 207½ pounds to Grant's 175, Schott staggered Grant with uppercuts in the first, second, third, and ninth rounds. Grant, in turn, hurt Schott in the fourth and eighth.

Judge Jim Hagen gave Schott nine rounds and Grant one. Judge Tom Guilfoyle and the Associated Press called it 8 to 2, while Referee Johnny Burns saw it as six for Schott, two for Grant and two even.

CHICAGOANS BID TODAY FOR A.A.U. HANDBALL TITLE

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The National A. A. U. Senior four-wall handball tournament which started with a large and select field last Saturday in the Town club, will be concluded this afternoon. As the result of an upset triumph in the semi-finals of the doubles event yesterday, Chicago will be represented against Memphis, Tenn., whose standard bearers are the veteran Sam Atcheson and big Ed Dettwiller.

Westerners Soundly Beaten

Chicago's Bob Kendler and Ray Laser, Illinois state doubles champions and representatives of the host club, first to take the new glass-enclosed court, polished off the Los Angeles, Cal., pair, James Dyer and Bart Hackney, who Thursday night beat the defending champions, Joe Platak and Lt. Robert Quinn, both of Chicago, after Platak had regained his singles title earlier in the day.

Dyer and Hackney were far below the form they displayed in the quarter-finals and were soundly drubbed, 21-7 and 21-9, as both Kendler and Laser played a steady, unbreakable game.

Crowd Applauds Losers

The crafty Atcheson, twice national A. A. U. singles champion and a veteran of many handball campaigns, had a hard working partner in Dettwiller and they accomplished their semi-final victory over Bill McGreevy and Leo Peressin of St. Louis, Mo., by 21-7 and 21-10 scores.

However, it was this second match that drew the crowd's applause as the St. Louisans, altho obviously too unexperienced to cope with Atcheson, battled it out from start to finish and kept a small crowd cheering their prolonged rallies.

A sports benefit banquet was held after the semi-finals had been concluded very late in the afternoon.

Physical Fitness Committee Plans Tests for Civilians

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS

Millions of Americans who today more than ever before are conscious of the importance of physical fitness, tho they still are none too certain just what the term means, soon may have an official yardstick with which to judge their own qualifications. The setting up of such a standard, which may be used easily in the home, is the goal of a meeting of the joint national committee on physical fitness which will clore a three day session in the headquarters of the American Medical association, 535 N. Dearborn st., today.

"Ten million of America's young men and women have achieved the top level in fitness thru their training in the various branches of military service," Dr. Morris Fishbein, chairman of a special committee set up to establish standards of fitness, said yesterday. "It will be regretable if, after they resume civilian life, they are permitted to drop back into their old lower level of efficiency."

Call in Experts to Help

It was for the purpose of setting up a series of simple tests for all civilians that the joint committee of the A. M. A. and the physical fitness group of the federal security agency called in a delegation of the nation's leaders in physical education, including military, naval, and civilian workers. It is hoped that out of this meeting will come the groundwork for a fitness manual which will outline tests for persons of all ages, whereby they may learn their own physical rating.

One angle of the fitness program on which the majority of those present agreed was the value of competitive sports in achieving and maintaining top efficiency. Maj. Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general of the army, pointed out that young men who have participated in rugged contact sports like football, basketball and other typical American activities in high school and college are more able to stand the rigors of combat.

Develop Competitive Attitude

"In the first place," said Gen. Lull, "they are in better physical condition as a result of these activities, and in the second they have developed a better competitive attitude, which naturally is of great value in their new situations. Even men of more mature years who have passed the age for the contact sports usually have kept their minds and bodies in trim thru golf, bowling, or some less strenuous athletic activity."

Equally enthusiastic over the part which prep school and college sports played and are playing in the preliminary training of the fighting forces of the United States was Maj. Leonard A. Larson of the army air forces physical fitness headquarters in Washington. Representing the office which has charge of physical training of all air forces personnel, Maj. Larson said that the fitness index of young men with records of athletic competition coming under his observation uniformly is higher than that of those with no sports background.

Notable Progress Made

Notable progress has been made in physical education in recent years on the civilian front, Dr. T. K. Cureton, associate professor of physical education at the University of Illinois, said, but there still is room for improvement. Dr. Cureton, who is in charge of the fitness research laboratory at the university, said tests show that one-third of the boys entering the university are not able to pass a fairly easy fitness test.

"This indicates," he said, "that there still is need for more general athletic and physical preparation in grade and high schools. The interest in this sort of work now has reached the stage where 47 states either have adopted public school fitness programs or have legislative committees which are considering the setting up of such schedules."

Members of the special committee on the manual include in addition to Dr. Fishbein, Maj. Larson and Dr. Cureton are:

Dr. Ruth E. Boynton, University of Minnesota; Dr. D. K. Brace, University of Texas; Maj. Arthur A. Esslinger, chief of physical reconditioning branch, Washington; Dr. C. H. McCloy, University of Iowa; Dr. Jesse F. Williams, professor emeritus, Columbia university; Lt. Comdr. H. E. Lowe, Washington; Capt. Brenda Boyton, women's army corps, Washington; Miss Ruth Glassow, University of Wisconsin; Dr. P. V. Karpovich, school of aviation medicine, Randolph field, Tex.; Dr. Josephine L. Rathbone, Columbia university; A. H. Fritzlaff, board of education, Chicago; Dr. Elizabeth G. Rodgers, supervisor of physical education, Albany, N. Y.; Col. T. F. Bank, president, Athletic Institute, Chicago; W. L. Robb, Wilson Sporting Goods Co., Chicago; Dr. Lon Morrey, American Dental association, Chicago; Harlan G. Metcalf, federal security agency, Washington; Dorothy La Salle, women's division, national committee on physical fitness, Washington, and Dr. R. L. Sensenich, trustee American Medical association, South Bend, Ind.

CHANDLER LIKES CINCINNATI AS SITE OF OFFICE

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—Cincinnati is under "strong consideration" as headquarters for major league baseball under Commissioner A. B. [Happy] Chandler.

Chandler said today no definite decision has been made as to where his office will be located, but that "I am turning over in my mind" the advisability of establishing it in Cincinnati.

Chandler will be in St. Louis Tuesday to participate in the St. Louis Brown's flag raising ceremonies as last year's American league champions.

He will be in Chicago, Wednesday to confer with Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary to the late commissioner K. M. Landis.

JACK LAMOTTA BEATS LYTELL IN CLOSE BOUT

Boston, Mass., April 27 (AP)—Jack Lamotta, 160¾, of New York, gained a divided decision over Bert Lytell, 153, Fresno [Cal.], Negro, in their 10 round bout tonight before 8,684, in the Boston Garden.

Lytell a 10 to 1 underdog at the start, was the first southpaw battler the rugged New Yorker ever faced and, during most of the action, the Californian's effective right jabbing and straight lefts to the head excited the crowd's admiration.

Referee Tommy Rawson and one of the two judges voted for La Motta, who started his closing drive in the eighth round. Gross receipts were $20,885.

Greco Stops Taylor in 5th Round of Florida Bout

Jacksonville, Fla., April 27 (AP)—Johnny Greco of Montreal, 149, scored a technical knockout over Chuck Taylor of Pittsburgh, Pa., 145, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10 round bout tonight.

Fight Decisions

At Jacksonville, Fla.—Johnny Greco stopped Chuck Taylor [5].

At St. Paul—Al Jordan beat Del Cockayne [5]; Joe Stepka knocked out Herb Jones [5].

SOX RISK THAT PERFECT RECORD TODAY—PERHAPS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

St. Louis, Mo., April 27—The White Sox, league leaders if you please, will determine for themselves tomorrow whether they have forgotten how to play the kind of baseball that carried them successfully thru the five American league games they've been involved in thus far this season.

After five days of idleness, most of it because of weather the schedule makers hadn't anticipated, the James Dykes boys don't know what may or may not have happened to their skill but, anyway, they intend to step out boldly tomorrow to find the answer. They are going to take on the title holding Browns, who at the moment are very much distressed by their failure to get a flying start toward another world series pot.

Dykes Finds New Target

The predicament of the Browns along with the fact that the Sox are classy folks at the moment, may bring about a side show for the two days here. That is if Mr. Dykes can win and thus feel entitled to pop off. Luke Sewell, the Browns' manager, recently gave out with words to the effect that Dykes, swaggering in his first place clothes, actually was friendly with umpires, even to giving them a chummy embrace. Dykes saw nothing funny in the remark.

Mr. Dykes is an umpire baiter of long standing and wants the world to know it. He paid good money to earn that reputation. The money rests in the American league cash box, representing fines plastered on him by President Will Harridge, who will order another assessment if Dykes gives him half a chance. Dykes concedes that he's constantly on guard against replenishing the Harridge fund but to be charged with being the umpires' buddy is serious. He will have some appropriate wise cracks to hurl at Sewell—if the Sox score enough runs.

May Be Moses' Last Day

The Sox will have Wally Moses at least for tomorrow, but beyond that the veteran's status is doubtful. His marching orders call for appearance in Philadelphia on Monday for induction, so unless the call is changed he will turn in his baseball suit tomorrow evening.

Thornton Lee will furnish the pitching that will determine today whether the Sox streak goes to six or they take their first setback.

GIANTS' DANNING ASKS TRANSFER TO RETIRED LIST

New York, April 27 [Special]—The New York Giants have released a letter from Sgt. Harry Danning to President Horace Stoneham asking that the former star catcher be transferred from the national defense list to the voluntary retired list.

Danning said it will be physically impossible for him ever to play baseball again. "Doctors have diagnosed my case as chronic traumatic arthritis of both knees. What it is I don't know, but I do know that my knees stay swollen from morning till night. I have had this for about six months, but I wouldn't give up until the very last."

Bartolo, Mell Will Meet in Boston Nontitle Bout

Boston, Mass., April 27 (AP)—Sal Bartolo of Boston, the N. B. A. featherweight champion and Gus Mell of Montreal, were matched for a 10 round nontitle return bout in the Boston Garden on May 4 today by the Goodwin A. C. Mell gained a split decision in their first clash here two weeks ago.

BY EDWARD BURNS

Paul Derringer, whose comeback was hailed at the start of spring training when he showed up a lean 230 pounder, won his third victory of the season yesterday as he and his Cub mates slapped down the Pirates, 7 to 3, in the opener of a four-game series in Wrigley field. It was the Cubs' fifth straight victory and their sixth in eight games.

Paul would have achieved a shutout but for an error by Bill Nicholson in the fifth inning, when Nick invaded center field and failed to hold the ball after knocking down the center fielder, Peanuts Lowrey. The Pirates thereafter scored their three runs, all unearned. The error, by the way, was the first by the Cubs in 53 innings, and the third Cub misplay of the season.

They're Paul's Cousins Now

Derringer now has won two games from the Pirates, whom he did not defeat last season until June, 11.

While Nicholson's error was the kind that shouldn't happen in a major league game, it was a mild lapse as compared to those committed behind Rip Sewell, seeking his second victory of the year over the Chicagoans.

The Cubs scored just enough runs in the first inning to win the contest. The four-run session started with a pass to Stan Hack, who was forced by Roy Hughes. Phil Cavarretta then lined a double to right, Hughes stopping at third. Nicholson was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Eddie Sauer walked, after a three and two count, forcing Hughes home.

Livingston Socks a Triple

Lowrey tapped to Sewell and Cavarretta was forced at the plate on a toss to Al Lopez. Don Johnson then lofted a high easy fly to center. Johnny Barrett waited under the ball, then dropped it, Nicholson, Sauer and Lowrey scoring and Johnson stopping at second, near where he had started to pick up his glove. Mickey Livingston was given an intentional pass, then Derringer struck out.

In the first four innings Derringer held the Pirates to one single, In the Cub fourth a triple by Livingston, a single by Hack, and throwing errors by Bob Elliott and Tommy O'Brien gave Paul a 6 to 0 lead.

Then came the three Pirate runs in the fifth. O'Brien sent a nice high fly at Lowrey in center. It was obvious Lowrey, who has a high, squeaky voice, didn't feel it necessary to call for the ball, and Nicholson, who never says much under any circumstances, obviously was mute as he plowed into center, knocked down little Peanuts, then dropped the ball. O'Brien got to second.

Dahlgren Comes Thru.

Babe Dahlgren followed up the collision with a single which scored O'Brien, after which Frank Gustine also singled. Lopez and Pinch Batter Frank Colman then struck out, but Pete Coscarart doubled to left center, scoring Dahlgren and Gustine.

The Cubs also fabricated their final run in the fifth. Art Cucurullo walked Lowrey with one down and Johnson knocked a single. Livingston filed out, then Derringer singled to right, scoring Lowrey.

Probable Major League Pitchers in Games Today

Giants Retain Lead in National League

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 27 (AP)—Bill Voiselle, ace righthander of the New York Giants, registered his third straight victory of the season and his second over the Dodgers, as Mel Ott's first placers defeated Brooklyn today, 5 to 0.

Ott hit his third home run of the campaign in the sixth inning. But it was Steve Filipowicz, who followed the manager with another homer in the same inning, who starred at bat for the victors with four hits. Besides his homer, the former Fordham football hero hit two doubles and a single, and drove in three runs.

Dayton Club Gets National P.G.A. Meet

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Another big league golf tournament, stymied temporarily by the war, will return to the competitive picture for the second successive year the week of July 9, when the 29th annual battle for the championship of the Professional Golfers' Association of America will be held over the testing yardage of the Moraine Country club in Dayton, O.

Jimmy Hines, the New Yorkers who is chairman of the national tournament committee and who recently joined the Illinois section of the P. G. A. as a permanent member, yesterday announced the allocation of the toughest man to man contest in professional golf to the Ohio course.

Hines, who will make his home at the Lake Shore club of Chicago, said that all arrangements for the event, which will carry a total purse of $20,000, have been completed with Stanley C. Allyn, vice president of the Moraine club.

The tournament was resumed last year at the Manito Country club, near Spokane, Wash., where Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., engineered the match play upset of the 1944 season when he defeated Byron Nelson in a 1 up struggle. That brought back the tourney after a year lapse, the last previous title argument having been in 1942 when Sam Snead won a 35 hole duel against Sgt. Jim Turnesa.

De Kalb Beats Elmhurst, 11-1, for Second Straight

Minneapolis Prep Star Shatters Discus Mark

Aberdeen, S. D., April 27 (AP)—Beryl Thompson of Minneapolis Southwest High school tossed the discus 176 feet, 4½ inches in the annual Aberdeen relays today to better the national high school mark by a Lincoln [Neb.] athlete in 1940. Thompson's throw was 2 feet 3 inches better than that of Al Debus of Lincoln in a meet at York, Neb., in 1940, and was made in preliminary events of today's meet.

Women Plan Golf Program, Aid for Vets

The Chicago Women's District Golf association yesterday made it plain in its annual spring meeting in the Blackstone hotel that it not only has returned to a full pre-war playing schedule, but also plans to continue its rehabilitation program for veterans hospitalized in this area after the war ends.

Mrs. Landon L. Phelps of Beverly, who was elected president of the C. W. D. G. A. at the annual session at Park Ridge last autumn, said she and her associates will concentrate on a more extended program of entertainment for service men stationed at such hospitals as Hines, Vaughan, Gardiner, and Great Lakes thruout the 1945 season.

Title Meet Opens July 16

The C. W. D. G. A. will open its competitive list for 1945 with two one-day tourneys, on June 15 at Lake Shore and July 12 at Edgewood Valley. The annual association title will be settled at Northmoor the week of July 16. The ladies will join with the Illinois P. G. A. for the annual pro ladies' contest at Glen Oak on Aug. 13. The period between Aug. 27 and Sept. 1 will be devoted to decision of club championships.

Officers for the 1944-'45 season, as elected last fall, are: Mrs. Landon L. Phelps, Beverly, president; Mrs. Alfred D. Herrmann, Sunset Ridge, vice president; Mrs. Charles W. Munro, Midlothian, secretary; Mrs. Landon L. Rogers, Indian Hill, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Hurka, Medinah, rules chairman; Mrs. Fred C. Wright, Glen Oak, handicap chairman; Mrs. Gilmore M. Mellor, Elmhurst, assistant rules chairman, and Mrs. R. W. Turnbull, Riverside, assistant handicap chairman.

Will Resume Team Match

The remainder of the executive committee consists of Mrs. J. Edgar Edmonds, La Grange, chairman of district team matches, which will be resumed for the first time since 1941 on June 25, July 2, July 23, and July 30; Mrs. Gilbert A. Roll, Calumet, south side team captain; Mrs. G. D. Wolf, north side team captain; Mrs. Laurence S. Jones, Park Ridge, north side team captain; Mrs. George C. Tunell, Skokie, member at large; Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein, Lake Shore, member at large; Mrs. C. H. Lee, Ridge, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Onwentsia, who, as president of the Women's Western Golf association, is the association's W. W. G. A. representative.

WILDCAT GOLF TEAM HOST TO 2 RIVALS TODAY

Northwestern university's undefeated golf team will compete with Wisconsin and Indiana in a triangular meet on the Wildcats' home course in Wilmette today.

OAK PARK LEADS FIELD TODAY IN WHEATON MEET

The Oak Park High school track team is the favorite to take top honors today in the eighth Wheaton relays in Wheaton. As far as past performances go, if the Villagers are troubled at all, the competition probably will come from New Trier, the 1944 state champion, which has won the Wheaton meet the last two years.

Third choice in class A is Schurz High, champion of the City league. Seventeen other schools are entered in class A and 11 will compete in class B, where Wheaton is the defending champion.

Ely Is No. 1 Individual

The big three of Oak Park, New Trier and Schurz put on a preview of today's show last month in the Oak Park relays, where the Villagers broke two records in scoring 76 3-7 points to second place New Trier's 44 3-7.

The outstanding performer for New Trier is expected to be

WPB RESTORES 'SPOT' CIVILIAN GOODS OUTPUT

Acts to Prevent Idle Men and Plants

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—The war production board today restored to nation-wide effect its "spot" reconversion plan for civilian goods production. A major step in the WPB program to get reconversion under way as rapidly as munitions cutbacks occur, the action put the plan back in operation in 184 cities and major industrial areas.

Under the spot plan, any manufacturer who can prove he has labor and machinery not needed for war work may apply to his WPB field office for permission to start the manufacture of civilian and consumer products.

When allied armies stalled at the German "west wall" late in 1944 and armament demands rose the plan was suspended in tight labor areas to prevent diversion of labor from war production.

Metals Not Made Available

The progress of the European war and announcement of recent and impending cutbacks in military production prompted WPB to restore the plan as a means of absorbing plants and pools of labor made idle by war contract cancellations.

Allotments of copper, steel, and aluminum were not made available for use by spot manufacturers, however. In the first stages of the plan allotments were granted if the metal producers already had filled priority rated war orders. Such allotments have been withheld in recent weeks and are not being granted at present.

"However, attention is called to the fact that idle and excess stocks [of metals] may be used for the production of civilian type goods under the procedure, and these items may be used immediately for authorized production," said WPB.

700 Million Authorized

The board also said its machinery for allocating these three basic metals would be relaxed when military cutbacks permit.

The spot plan, originated by former Chairman Nelson on Aug. 15 despite army and navy opposition, already has yielded permission to several thousand plants to make more than 700 million dollars worth of various civilian articles. These authorizations extend thru all of 1945.

Because of the recent metal supply stringency, however, only about 30 per cent of the authorized production has gone ahead.

The man power limitations placed on the plan on Dec. 1 suspended its operation in group 1 and group 2 labor areas—those with critical or serious labor shortages — unless members of the local production urgency committee unanimously agreed to permit the specified civilian production. This actually meant a complete prohibition in such areas.

Easing to Be "Very Gradual"

In announcing that all sections would be on the same footing, Chairman Krug emphasized that relaxation of WPB controls would be "very gradual" because of the need to maintain full war production necessary to complete the victory in Europe, and supply quickening operations in the Pacific.

Controls over textiles, leather, lumber, rubber, many chemicals, and some other strategic materials will continue for some time, possibly thruout the Japanese war, he said.

Materials controls will be relaxed when conditions permit, however, said Krug, which will make the spot procedure less important as a mechanism for reconversion.

More Farm Machine Steel

WPB also announced restoration of almost the entire tonnage of steel taken from the farm machinery production program on April 10 because military demands for steel have been cut. The farm machinery steel allocation of 195,000 tons for the April-June quarter will be increased by 53,600 tons of carbon steel and 2,140 tons of alloy steel. For the third quarter the original 193,000 ton allotment will be increased by 52,600 tons of carbon and 747 tons of alloy steel.

The tonnage is less than necessary to carry out the authorized farm machinery production, WPB said, but will render it unnecessary for farm machinery companies to cancel steel orders.

Chicago Plans to Reconvert Far Advanced

Chicago industry is largely ready to proceed with plans for resumption of peace time goods production, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday. A survey made by the association at the end of last year disclosed that more than 85 per cent of Chicago's businesses and industries were planning their post-war operations. The allied successes have brought these plans to the fore again.

"Products and services to be offered after the war are being given more attention by business companies than any other major business problem," the association said. "Plant and equipment are being given the next greatest amount of attention.

Plans of Many Completed

"Seventy-four per cent of the companies covered in the association's survey reported plans fully worked out for post-war products or services, and 69 per cent reported completion of plans with respect to plant and equipment.

"Percentages for other post-war plans were reported as follows: purchasing, 67; marketing methods, 65; financing, 59; and personnel changes, 49 per cent. Fifty-eight per cent reported that an executive or a committee had been placed in charge of post-war planning."

Much the Same as Now

About three-quarters of the companies indicated that between 80 and 100 per cent of their civilian production after the war would consist of providing the same sort of goods or services as at present. Nearly all reported having only a relatively small reconversion problem.

The association's survey was made by a sampling of the more than 20,000 companies in the community.

CATTLE AND HOG RECEIPTS FALL; MARKET IS DULL

The small cattle supply at the Chicago yards sold off yesterday in a dull trade, with some of the plainer classes that have been relatively high, down as much as 25 cents a hundred pounds.

The practical top was $17.25, but odd head sold up to $17.40. No full loads of strictly choice steers were in the receipts. Most heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls ruled weak to lower. Calves brought steady prices.

The pork and hog supply tightened as shipments from farms fell to the lowest total for a Friday since last October and 20 per cent below a week ago. Twenty of the biggest stock yards received 42,000 head, 60 per cent less than a year ago. Prices held at ceilings.

Steady to weak prices were paid for lambs. The bulk sold $15.75 to $16.65, the latter the top.

SYNDICATE BUYS OFFICE BUILDING AT 201 N. WELLS

The 28 story 201 N. Wells st. building at the northeast corner of Lake st. was sold yesterday for $1,625,000 by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to a Chicago syndicate represented by Maurice H. Kamm of Kamm & Kamm, attorneys. C. Robert Lazerus, president of Mortgage corporation, was sole broker. Great Lakes Mortgage corporation represented the seller.

The building, containing 184,000 square feet of floor space, and occupying a lot 80 by 150 feet, was built in 1930 by Trustees System, Inc. Total investment in land and building was said to have been $2,600,000.

It was financed with a $1,500,000 construction loan by Metropolitan Life which later took title in lieu of foreclosure.

MAY RYE CLIMBS TO 17 YEAR HIGH, THEN RETREATS

Short covering yesterday advanced May rye 1¾ cents to $1.37¼ a bushel, a new 17 year high on the Chicago Board of Trade. Outside buying failed to develop on the upturn and the market reacted rapidly. Closing sales of rye futures were near the bottom at net losses of ⅛ to 1 cent.

Wheat futures finished unchanged to ⅛ lower, corn ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, oats ⅞ lower to ¼ higher, and barley ¼ to ½ lower.

Trading generally was slow as brokers awaited further developments in the war in Europe.

Chicago Area Firms Get 62 Prime War Contracts

Chicago area companies last week received 62 prime war contracts totaling $5,122,000, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

TAX FREE U. S. UNITS HARMING SMALL FIRMS

Some Destroyed, Says Oester

Small business is being harmed and often destroyed by the income tax exemptions and other special privileges of government corporations and coöperatives, Leslie J. Oester, vice president of the National Tax Equality association, yesterday told a subcommittee of the house small business committee at a hearing in the Morrison hotel.

"Government owned projects like TVA [Tennessee Valley authority] have put scores of small local utilities out of business," he said. "Subsidized government barge lines have taken business away from little barge owners. Government housing projects have ruined the opportunities of little independent contractors, and the recent proposal of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard that government sponsor coöperative building associations and coöperative materials dealers, will deprive the small business man of participation in post-war farmhouse construction.

Invade Lending Business

"Government is in the fertilizer business and plans still further inroads. Government lending facilities are destroying the small chartered banks of the nation. The production credit associations are able to lend money on specially favored terms."

Oester, a farm equipment retailer of Mendota, Ill., said there are 101 such government corporations, and that none pays a federal income tax. They consume taxes paid by others and pay little or no interest on the money they borrow from the treasury.

These special exemptions also are accelerating the growth of the cooperative movement at the expense of privately owned businesses, he asserted. He said 32,580 coöperative enterprises were in operation in 1942, and the number probably is larger because "by piling up their tax free accumulations in added capital and reserves coöperatives are growing 10 times faster than tax paying small business."

Farmers' marketing and purchasing activities did approximately 5 billion dollars of business in 1944. He contrasted this with the statement that 1,350,000 small independent businesses have closed since the beginning of the war.

Terms Equality Sole Issue

"The issue raised by independent business men in their demand that coöperatives and government owned businesses operate without subsidy or special privilege involves no debate as to the merits of the cooperative movement," Oester said. "The sole issue is equality—that cooperatives pay federal income taxes on all of their earnings, regardless of what they are called, and otherwise play under the same rules as those imposed on private enterprise."

S. N. Zimmer, associated with Walter E. Heller & Co., Chicago, testified he did not believe a government financing institution for small business could operate successfully over a long period of time. The record of government lending in war time did not prove the contrary because business conditions were not normal.

In government lending there always is the danger that an inefficient business will be kept alive by loans, providing unfair competition for economically managed companies, he said.

Asserts Members Pay Tax

In defense of coöperatives, R. Wayne Newton, manager of the National Association of Coöperatives, said members of such organizations pay their share of taxes.

"Every dollar of dividends on corporative stock, every dollar of patronage refunds on coöperative marketing and every dollar of patronage refunds on purchases of farm business supplies goes to increase the farmers' net income and is subject to income tax," Newton said.

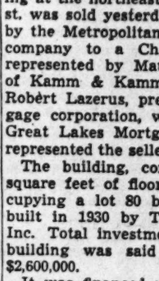
"These sums are subject to tax to the farmer regardless of whether received in cash, in stock shares, or other evidences of equity, and regardless of whether they are interest bearing, or whether they bear a due date."

Rock Island Revenues Set Record for March

Rock Island railroad gross revenues in March, $17,270,942, set a peak for that month and compared with $15,904,593 a year ago, J. D. Farrington, chief executive officer, said yesterday. Net railway operating income was $3,017,792 against $2,801,242.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

L. C. Hart of New York, vice president of Johns-Manville Sales corporation, yesterday was elected president of the Producers' council, national organization of manufacturers of building materials and equipment. Hart replaced Douglas Whitlock, general counsel of the Structural Clay Products institute, who had been president for two years.



L. C. Hart

C. F. Kuehnle, president of Central National bank, announced the formation of a trust department headed by Samuel L. Seltzer, attorney and former bank trust officer.

E. E. McCarthy, coast lines general manager of the Santa Fe railway, will report for duty with Col. Monroe Johnson of the office of defense transportation. He was granted a leave of absence by the directors of the road.

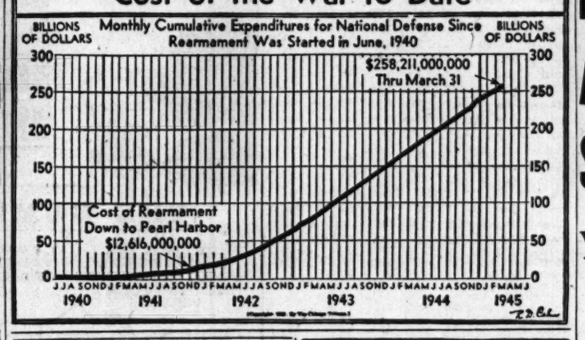
E. B. Woolf, president of Mid-West Distributors, was reëlected president of the Mexican Chamber of Commerce.

Paul S. Van Auken, associate sales director of the Stevens hotel was appointed director of conventions and exhibits of the National Association of Home Owners.

Frank C. Rushing, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric corporation, will discuss vibration and balancing problems before the Chicago section of the Applied Mechanics division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Wednesday.

The Republic Merchants association in the Republic building at 209 S. State street will hold a "spring festival" supper in the roof garden of the building Tuesday.

Cost of the War to Date



End Walkout Over Draft of Union's Head

Members of local 264 of the International Drop Forgers, Blacksmiths and Helpers union [AFL] yesterday voted to end the strike started at midnight April 20 because, they charged, the management of Pettimone Mulliken corporation was "railroading" their union president into the army. Heeding the local president's appeal to return to work, the union members decided to terminate the strike at midnight tomorrow on the eve of the official's induction into the army.

John Nechistak, 29, president of the local, has spent his time since the strike started, pleading with his co-workers and co-unionists to return to work. He will be inducted into the army Monday at 7 a. m.

Official Termed Essential

At a war labor board hearing yesterday to which union leaders were summoned to show cause why the strike should be terminated, A. J. Aberhardy, international representative, said Nechistak was more essential than many others the company had placed above him on a list of those to be deferred by selective service.

"The company has railroaded a top-flight X-ray welder into the army because he is president of the local union," Aberhardy said. "They have used the selective service law as it has never been used before and there is nothing that the WLB or the union can do to protect him from this company action."

One hundred and twenty-five men and three women, members of local 2942 of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO] struck at the Bucyrus Monaghan company to obtain incentive pay for nonproduction workers, Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail said.

Building Strike Continues

A jurisdicitional dispute among three AFL building trades unions, which has resulted in strikes at nearly 1,000 war workers' homes under construction in Chicago, Broadview, Skokie, and Bellwood, continued for the 13th day.

Another strike of 400 of 425 employes of the Western Foundry company, 3700 S. Kedzie av., which has tied up production of gray iron and steel castings needed by the army and navy since April 17, also continued. The strikers involved are members of local 2674 of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO], who are protesting the company's refusal to enter into a contract with the local.

FIVE MINES IDLE

Gillespie, Ill., April 27 (AP)—Five mines in the Gillespie area, employing about 2,000 AFL Progressive Mine union workers, were idle today, George Baima, P. M. W. vice president, said it was an unauthorized stoppage caused by a "misunderstanding" over the union's new wage agreement with coal operators.

WLB, NAVY BACK PAY INCREASES IN CIVIL SERVICE

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—The war labor board and the navy department today indorsed a 15 per cent pay increase for federal civil service workers.

WLB Chairman Taylor told a senate civil service committee he believed federal employes "are entitled to a so-called Little Steel adjustment in accordance with the policies of the national war labor board." Rear Adm. F. G. Crisp, director of the navy's division of shore establishments and civilian personnel, said the navy has had difficulty in getting needed civilian employes because of the salary scale.

WELLS-GARDNER & CO.

I note that a registration statement has been filed with the securities and exchange commission for Wells-Gardner & Co. common stock. I should like information regarding the company's business and earnings.—U. G.

The company, an Illinois corporation formed in 1925, manufactures radio receivers. During the last three years, its engineering and manufacturing facilities have been engaged principally in the production of radio and radar equipment for the army and navy, with sales reaching a peak last year of $20,540,000, or more than three times the largest business done in the immediate pre-war years.

Post-war plans include the addition of frequency modulation receivers to the company's line, as well as the manufacture of home and automobile radios, radio phonograph combinations, and television receivers. In normal times its radios were sold chiefly to mail order and chain store organizations, department stores and other radio manufacturers, with the major part of the output retailed under the purchasers' own brands.

Last March the company's capital stock, then consisting of only 330 shares of $100 par value, was reclassified into 399,300 shares of $1 par, thru a transfer from surplus account. Arrangements have been made by seven stockholders to sell 160,000 shares thru an underwriting syndicate for their own account.

The public offering price was set at $8.25 a share. Tangible book value, based on the Dec. 31, 1944, balance sheet, adjusted to the present stock, was equal to $3.36 a share. Net income, including a sales agency since consolidated, averaged $229,392 for the five years ended with 1938, or the equivalent of 57 cents a share of new stock. Net losses were shown in 1939 and 1940.

For later years share earnings were: 1941, 40 cents; 1942, 20 cents; 1943, 67 cents; 1944, $1.12. The earnings were reported after provision for renegotiation refunds. The stock is priced at 14½ times the five year average earnings prior to 1939.

The company announced that it intends to pay dividends at the annual rate of 40 cents. Current assets at the close of last year totaled $3,933,345; current liabilities, $2,949,955. There was no long term debt.

VEAL AND LAMB SET ASIDE FOR WAR ORDERED

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP)—The war food administration today added veal and lamb in federally inspected slaughter houses to meats which must be set aside for military, lend-lease, and other war uses. Inspected packers already were required to make available to the government about 50 per cent of their beef and 56 per cent of their pork. Noninspected slaughterers, mostly small local houses, were not affected.

The new order, effective Sunday, was issued to assure the government of its requirements of veal and lamb, but officials said actual purchases of veal and lamb would be no larger under the order.

Slaughterers must set aside 35 per cent of veal produced from grade AA, A, and B dressed carcasses weighing 60 to 275 pounds with the hide off and 25 per cent of lamb from grade AA, A, and B carcases weighing 30 to 70 pounds.

RAILS, LIQUORS, AIR LINES LEAD STOCKS HIGHER

Yank-Reds Meeting Aids Confidence

New York, April 27 (AP)—Investors returned to the buying side on today's stock market and gave a substantial lift to selected rails, liquors, air lines, and assorted industrials.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were widely distributed after a moderately active opening. Cashing of profits then developed and most top marks were reduced at the close. Dealings slowed at intervals, but picked up in the final hour and transfers were 1,360,000 shares, compared with 1,370,000 yesterday.

Recovery inspiration was found partly in the revival of post-war prosperity psychology. The meeting of American and Russian armies in Germany was believed to spell the quick doom of the Nazis and the return of home industry to civilian production. Dissensions at the San Francisco conference brought a tinge of bearishness. Helpful was the sale of a stock exchange seat for $60,000, up $10,000.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.3 at 64.7 and the rail and utility averages reached new eight year peaks. Of 910 issues traded, 495 were up, 214 down, and 201 unchanged.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE

New York, April 27 (AP)—Led by advances in rail issues, the bond market closed higher today. Volume was largest since Jan. 12. Sales totaled $16,150,000, compared with $11,940,000 yesterday.

Several rail bonds sold in large blocks, among them Missouri Pacific convertible 5½s which advanced 2 at 30¼ on $1,181,000 in sales. All Missouri Pacific issues closed higher, but the largest advance was by general 4s, up 2⅛ at 48⅞. St. Louis Southwestern 5s of '52 on $407,000 in sales, rose 5½ to 83½ and Alton 3s were up 1 at 48⅛ on sales of $812,000.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER

Prices were higher as turnover dipped to 31,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among volume leaders were Butler Brothers, up ⅝; Asbestos Manufacturing, down ⅛, and Chicago corporation, Central and South West Utilities, and Commonwealth Edison, all unchanged.

COURT APPROVES BANKRUPTCY FOR AURORA & ELGIN

Federal Judge Barnes yesterday approved a petition of three bondholders of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad to place the road in bankruptcy and indicated he would sign the order next week. The bondholders asserted the company could not meet its obligations. It has been in equity receivership before Judge Igoe.

"There is an insurmountable difficulty in attempting to reorganize in a court of equity," Judge Barnes said. "I think it is possible to reorganize this railroad under bankruptcy proceedings. It is no duty of a court to nurse sick property indefinitely. I want the utmost promptness and expedition in this case to get it out of court."

Retail Merchants Re-Elect S. L. Hypes President

S. L. Hypes, president of Wieboldt Stores, was reëlected president of the Chicago Retail Merchants association at the annual meeting yesterday. Other officers elected were: First vice president, William S. Street, general manager of Marshall Field & Co.; second vice president, A. S. Bauer, district manager of Woolworth company; third vice president, Willard W. Cole, executive vice president of The Hub-Henry C. Lytton & Sons; secretary-treasurer, A. P. Williams, treasurer of Mandel Brothers.

N. Y. Power Invites Bids on New Preferred Issue

New York Power and Light corporation yesterday invited bids on 240,000 shares of new cumulative stock of $100 par. Bidders were asked to specify the dividend rate and price. Proceeds and other funds will be used to redeem 144,639 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and 96,088 shares of $6 preferred.

SEC Reports 10 Years' Activities

More than 25 billion dollars of securities were covered in 4,337 registration statements filed with the securities and exchange commission in the first 10 years of its existence, the SEC said yesterday in a 252 page report to congress on its activities in the decade ended June 30, 1944.

Of the $25,345,393,000 total, $1,759,780,000 of securities were included in 221 statements filed in the fiscal year ended June 30.

Administers Six Statutes

The SEC reported on its administration of six statutes, the securities act of 1933, securities exchange act of 1934, public utility holding company act of 1935, trust indenture act of 1939, investment company act of 1940, and investment advisers act of 1940.

Holding companies registered $6,015,167,912 of securities, $985,981,951 in the last fiscal year, and filed 115 voluntary plans of reorganization. The commission was a party to 243 corporate reorganizations under chapter 10 of the federal bankruptcy act, and qualified 304 trust indentures covering more than 4 billion face value of securities under the trust indenture act.

Trade Totals 140 Billion

A total of $118,588,393,000 in stocks and $21,478,630,000 in bonds was traded on 19 registered stock exchanges during the 10 years. Approximately 4,300 brokers were registered under the securities exchange act and 213 registrations were revoked, suspended, or denied for violations.

The commission said 1,057 firms and individuals were enjoined for securities law violations and 2,316 were indicted, of which 1,100 were convicted. The SEC violations filed listed the names of 44,399 individuals, 960 docketed in the year ended last June.

Standard Oil (Cal.) Profits Up in Quarter

Standard Oil Company of California yesterday reported a big rise in net earnings in the first quarter this year. Profit was $12,863,052, or 99 cents a share, against $7,822,607, or 60 cents a share, a year earlier. Total income climbed to $28,036,084 from $25,420,195. Federal income tax provisions amounted to 5 million dollars, compared with $8,200,000 set aside a year ago.

Directors declared a dividend of 50 cents payable June 15 on the common stock, the same as in preceding quarters.

Link-Belt Earnings Dip

Link-Belt company, Chicago, had March quarter net income of $476,956, or 60 cents a share, compared with $493,523 or 62 cents a share, a year earlier. Profits excluded estimated post-war tax refunds before renegotiation of $214,000 and $275,000. Net sales declined to $17,638,668 from $18,585,772.

National Cylinder Gas company, Chicago, first quarter net income was $366,118, or 25 cents a common share, after providing for dividends on the preferred stock issued in August, 1944, compared with $359,612, or 27 cents a share, in the corresponding 1944 quarter. Sales were $6,017,000, compared with $6,577,000.

Chicago Bridge to Close Seneca Ship Yard in June

Ottawa, Ill., April 27 (AP)—Chicago Bridge and Iron company today announced it will close its Seneca, Ill., ship yard in June upon completion of its LST shipbuilding contract. Company officials said the navy had not accepted the company's bid on a contract to build mine sweepers. At peak production nearly 10,000 were employed at the Seneca plant.

BROADENING CAPITAL STRUCTURE STUDIED BY PRESS WIRELESS

New York, April 27 (AP)—A. Warren Norton, president of Press Wireless, Inc., today said the company is studying expansion of its capital structure. He made the statement after the annual meeting of stockholders and directors of the company, owned by a number of metropolitan newspapers.

"As authorized by the directors, the corporate officers are undertaking a study of the capital structure of the company with a view to substantially broadening participation in and ownership of the company on the part of users of its service all over the world," Norton said.

Norton said that in 1944 the company "handled the largest volume of traffic in its history in words, pictures, and voice in spite of the reduction in number of frequencies."

WARD HOLDERS AGAIN SUPPORT SEWELL AVERY

Vote Down Critical Resolutions

Stockholders of Montgomery Ward & Co. at the annual meeting yesterday voted confidence in the management of the company headed by Chairman Sewell L. Avery. Two resolutions of a minority group criticizing its policy in resisting orders of the war labor board were decisively defeated and the management's slate of directors again was elected by a wide margin of votes.

Sewell L. Avery

The meeting in the Grand ballroom of the Drake hotel was attended by about half as many stockholders as that a year ago. Except for one outburst, the meeting proceeded smoothly.

Adjourn to Drake Hotel.

It was called to order in the offices of the company and then was adjourned to the Drake because the company said the only room in the company's offices large enough for the meeting was in the hands of the army which has occupied Ward's property since December. In the hotel stockholders were escorted to their seats by Andy Frain ushers in uniform.

Atty. Leon M. Despres made a statement in support of a resolution he presented for Frank W. McCulloch, a stockholder who has led opposition to management policies in resisting WLB orders. Despres termed the management's labor policy "one of unrelieved shame and degredation to the company" and said it had "damaged the company, perhaps irrevocably." He described the company's financial record as unfavorable compared with others in the industry.

Frank W. McCulloch

Replying to the assertion, Harold L. Pearson, vice president and treasurer, reviewed the history of the company under the present management and said its financial position had been vastly strengthened.

Net Sales Increase

He explained that on March 31 the company had 139½ million dollars in cash and government securities and could have paid all its bills and had 59 millions in the treasury. Net sales in the first quarter increased 18 per cent over a year earlier to set a new record of 153 million, and earnings before taxes rose 60 per cent to $12,600,000.

Net profit in the quarter was estimated at 5 million dollars, equal to 88 cents a common share, against $3,400,000, or 59 cents a share.

John Barr, in charge of labor relations, reviewed the history of the company's relations with the unions and the government and reiterated the company's stand that the individual employe has the right to join, not to join, or resign from a union. He said the company bargains in good faith with any union which represents a majority of its employes.

Anti-Management Vote

The anti-management group's vote for the two resolutions and for its candidate for director, James G. Patton, of Denver, president of the National Farmers union, was larger than a year ago.

The management explained stockholders were confused by the similarity in appearance of the group's proxy to that of the management. It also said many stockholders who had voted against the resolutions in the proxy had, by signing their names, voted for Patton as director.
